

A City Manager Plan—Is It for Kingston

Editor's note . . . In the past few weeks there has been a great deal of discussion around City Hall about a city manager for Kingston. The following two-part series is a result of Freeman interviews with officials in Schenectady, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and Peekskill on the pros and cons of the city manager form of government.

By HUGH REYNOLDS
First of 2 Articles

Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan, in the past few months, has repeatedly claimed that he is overworked and underpaid. The mayor's immediate solution was to hire an administrative assistant whose salary would be in the $7,000 to $9,000 range.

Getting little response from this proposal the mayor then suggested an entirely new form of municipal government—a city manager.

Not New or Unique

The city manager type of government is neither new nor unique in this country. There are less than 200 cities run that way in the nation, some 18 in the state.

In compiling this series, the Freeman found as many pluses for a city manager type of government as minuses.

First, a look at Kingston's present setup might be in order. The city now has 13 aldermen, each one elected from his respective ward. In addition, there is an alderman-at-large, elected from throughout the city.

The mayor, along with the aldermen, is elected for a two-year term. The mayor is the chief executive of the city. The aldermen, or Common Council, might be compared to a board of directors. Each has one vote.

The alderman-at-large serves as Council president and votes in case of ties. The mayor does not vote in council, in fact, does not even sit in council, but he has veto power over any measure passed by the council.

Measures are either proposed by the mayor or by a councilman, sent to committee for study, brought out and voted on. When the mayor signs them they become law.

Mayor Garrahan's main complaint seems to be that it takes a long time for a proposal of his to work its way out of the council and back to his desk for signature.

He says he's too bogged down with administrative tasks to pursue his legislative endeavors as strongly as he'd like to.

The mayor's alternatives to the present system are: 1. Pay him enough money ($18-20,000) to make the dual job worthwhile. 2. Pay him the same ($10,000) but give him an administrative assistant at, say, $8,500 per year, or, 3. Hire a city manager at $20,000 per year and relegate the mayor's position to that of a figurehead at about $4,000 a year.

The first two ideas are possible without drastically altering our present form of city government. The third would require extensive changes.

Charter Change

In order to set up a city manager form of government the charter would have to be changed and the voters would have to approve it in referendum.

The City of Peekskill is doing just such a thing. That city of 19,000 has the city manager plan on the ballot this fall.

The Freeman spoke with Edward Gibbs, a leading businessman of Peekskill and a member of the two charter commissions that drew up the charter now awaiting the voters' approval. Peekskill Mayor William Murdon was out of town on business at the time of the interview.

Gibbs said the city fathers agreed to a city manager because they felt the city needed a full time administrator, not a part-time, unpaid mayor as they now have.

The Freeman asked Gibbs why the city didn't consider hiring a full-time mayor and pay him the fifteen to twenty thousand dollars they had earmarked for the city manager. His answer: "We couldn't find anyone in Peekskill who was qualified and willing to take the job."

Gibbs said they were looking for a man with at least three years experience who could administer the $2½ million Peekskill budget.

Under Peekskill's plan the mayor would be a ceremonial head, in Gibbs' words, "he'd take care of the chicken dinner circuit."

The Peekskill city government, at present, has three Republicans, including the mayor, and four Democrats. Under the new charter, the mayor would become a voting president of the common council.

Mayor Joseph Mullen of Newburgh was asked why he favors a city manager form of government which the Hill City has had since 1922, one of the first in the state. Mullen said it takes the administrative burden off the mayor's back.

Newburgh, a city of about 28,000, pays its manager $16,000 (Con. on Page 6 Col. 4)

Phoenicia Area Stunned Again By Road Death

By LYNN MULVANEY

Phoenicia area residents were stunned today to learn that another of their young people has met death on the highway just four days after five area youths lost their lives in a Sunday morning crash.

Harvard Student

Geoffery Martin, 22-year-old Harvard student, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon at 4:15 in a Thruway crash near New Baltimore, south of Albany.

He was the son of Eugene and Michael Rheta Martin who reside on Route 214, about four miles outside Phoenicia. The occupants of the second car, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farina, 154-40 10th Avenue, Beechurst, Queens, were taken to Albany Medical Center for treatment of injuries.

Joseph Farina suffered contusions of the chest and abrasions of the right knee. His wife, Pauline received right knee and elbow fractures and suffered multiple contusions and abrasions about the face. Both are reported in satisfactory condition.

Was Traveling South

According to State Police, the Martin car was traveling south in the driving lane when it ran off the right shoulder. Martin apparently over-corrected his steering, crossed both southbound lanes, skidded across the center mall and facing easterly, directly entered the northbound passing lane, rolled over and struck the Farina car head-on.

Trooper J. D. Devine of the Thruway Police investigated. Private services and cremation will take place at the convenience of the family with the E. B. Gormley Funeral Home, Phoenicia, in charge of arrangements. There will be no calling hours.

Martin, who graduated from Soarsdale High School and was a summer resident in the area until last year when his parents made their permanent residence here, attended the University of Wisconsin where he graduated with honors. He was a scholarship student at the University of Rochester where he was studying for his doctorate in modern European history and Mervin was also studying at Harvard toward his Ph.D. This summer, he was returning from Harvard at the time of the accident.

Survivors include his parents, a twin brother, Gerald, who is in his second year at Yale Law School; a sister, Mrs. Silas Wasserstrom of Silver Springs, Md.; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam R. Benjamin of Kew Gardens; an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Danziger of Springfield, N. J., and a niece, Kristin Wasserstrom of Silver Springs, Md.

Girl Still Critical

Wednesday and Thursday of this week more than a thousand persons are reported to have paid their respects to the five teenagers who died Sunday.

Two of their companions, still hospitalized with injuries sustained in the crash, remain in the hospital, one, Donna Osterhoudt, remains in critical condition, the other, Rande Gil Gavette is reported satisfactory.

Many Safety Hazards In City, Bechtold Says

By CHARLES BERMPHOHL

C. John Bechtold, Republican-Liberal candidate for Mayor of Kingston, hitting out at the "unsafe conditions . . . in the urban renewal area" said today that "federal officials intervened to correct the problems but it makes me wonder if the proper local officials are using the power of their offices to protect the safety of the people."

Mentioning the "glass and nails . . . on sidewalks, unsafe structures not being boarded up or fenced off" and the "rats" creating a "severe hazard," Bechtold said, "Children played in this hazardous area and used it as a route to school," with local officials doing "very little to clean up the poor condition."

Bechtold went on to say that there were "still many unsafe conditions throughout our city which are not receiving proper attention" and that "the citizenry should continue to remind the present administration of the safety hazards."

Republican-Liberal Bechtold, mentioning the hazardous areas, mentioned, the old Barmann's Brewery, off Greenkill Avenue and adjacent to Metropolitan Park, and "extremely unsafe building that present a danger to the many children who use the park," a large parcel of land on Ann and Meadow Streets "contains an old dilapidated back-stop which children are climbing on and the land contains many holes and debris," the "Fourth Avenue dump," a residential area which residents have called a "declining-in-value eyesore" because of the great amount of urban renewal debris in the area.

Bechtold also mentioned Abael Street at Hunter Street "being used by children to enter and exit Block Park, however, there is no traffic light to help the youngster to cross the dangerous Abael Street."

Candidate Bechtold further said that "traffic and street dangers are prevalent and they should be resolved as soon as possible." He went on to cite "the Washington Avenue-North Front Street intersection, a peril which has been facing us for a number of years."

"Other traffic hazards include the Wilbur Avenue-O'Reilly Street intersection and the Prince Street-Grand Street intersection," Bechtold stated.

The mayor candidate said that "there (were) some of the unsafe conditions which I observed while making a routine inspection of the city. . . . City officials must be more cognizant of the safety of the citizens and immediate steps must be taken to clear up the hazardous conditions."

Bomb Reds Again Near China Line

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes dove deep into North Vietnam Thursday, bombing rail and military targets within 18 miles of Red China but losing another F105 Thunderchief jet to Red ground fire, the U.S. Command said today.

The Thunderchief was the 13th American jet reported downed in the air war against North Vietnam this week—the grimmest of the year for American fliers—and the 660th U.S. combat plane reported lost striking North Vietnam. The pilot was listed as missing in action, bringing the week's loss so far to 19 fliers missing with three rescued by helicopters.

Red Cell

Although no major ground action was reported in South Vietnam, the U.S. Command said at least 156 Communist troops were killed in scattered fighting, and police in Saigon disclosed the arrest of a Red terror cell of two men and three women. They were rounded up in the continuing police pressure to thwart Red attempts to disrupt the Sept. 3 presidential elections now nine days away.

U.S. headquarters reported that despite thunderstorms over much of North Vietnam, Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 152 missions Thursday. Although some pilots reported Communist MIGs skirting the edge of American formations, there were no dogfights, and the pilots said the Reds also fired fewer of the Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles than they threw up during raids on the Hanoi area earlier this week.

Returning pilots said the rail yards above Hanoi remained filled with boxcars unable to move south because the only rail bridges across the Red River at Hanoi have been dropped by bombing.

Pilots said there were almost 200 pieces of rolling stock in four yards hit Thursday and most of these were shot up, bombed or rocketed. But smoke and flames prevented precise damage reports.

Rail Yard Hit

The deepest strikes reported were against a rail yard just 18 miles below the Chinese border and the second raid of the week on North Vietnam's chief naval base at Port Walcott, 30 miles below the frontier. It was on the strike against the northeast rail line from Hanoi to China that the F105 was downed about 25 miles below the border.

Navy pilots reported heavy damage to buildings at Port Walcott, which was attacked Monday for the first time in the war.

U.S. Marine fliers made one of their deepest raids into the Communist heartland with a strike at the MIG field of Hoa Lac, 15 miles west of Hanoi. It was a night strike and it was not known if any MIGs were caught on the ground.

Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany bored into the heavily Communist defenses to hit the rail bridge at Hai Duong, midway between Hanoi and its port city of Haiphong.

About half the day's strikes were against targets from Hanoi north. The remaining attacks raked rail, road and river.

Along the demilitarized zone straddling the 17th parallel, a Communist machine gunner caught a U.S. Coast Guard cutter close inshore and raked it with fire. Two Coast Guardsmen were wounded but damage to the 82-foot boat was not revealed.

Slay Taunter In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Hong Kong Chinese radio comedian Lam Bun died today, a day after Communist terrorists turned him into a human torch, and a terrorist group boasted it had executed him for ridiculing Red rioters and agitators.

Lam's murder was a warning to "others committing similar crimes," said Hong Kong Communist newspapers, quoting the "underground traitors" executing onslaught headquarters.

Lam's brother was reported near death. Two men were riding in a car Thursday when terrorists, pretending to be highway workers, waved their car to a halt, threw in a bomb then doused the brothers with gasoline and set them afire.

Lam, who conducted a radio program of biting satire, was the third terrorist fatality this week in the British colony on Red China's southern coast. A bomb killed two Chinese children Sunday.

The government has offered separate rewards of $9,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the terrorists involved in either case. Lam's radio station added an $18,000 reward for his killers. Lam's wife and three small children were taken to a hide-out under police guard.

At the border, British Gurkha troops used tear gas for the second straight day to drive back Chinese mobs at the Man Kam To crossing point. The mobs tried twice to remove a wire barrier on the Hong Kong side. Then about 100 Red Chinese troops moved to the border to keep the groups in check.

However, loudspeakers along the 17-mile border carried a warning from Red Chinese soldiers that Chinese peasants must be allowed to continue crossing freely or "action will be taken." They did not say what action.

The loudspeaker announcement said British authorities must "clear away all obstructions on the Hong Kong side and protect the peasants who cross to work in their fields."

It was made in the name of the "Shum Chun Peoples Liberation Army unit."

Chinese peasants have crossed the border freely for years to work in fields on either side. Hong Kong authorities erected barbed wire barricades two weeks ago after a series of attacks across the border by Chinese mobs.

Hucktrol Strike Settled

The 13-day strike by some 140 employees of Hucktrol Inc., 85 Grand Street, is over. A company spokesman told The Freeman late this morning that "a mutually satisfactory agreement has been reached between the parties."

The plant is expected to resume normal operation Monday morning. The strikers were members of Local 1562, International Association of Machinists, who reportedly walked out over disagreement with management on contract interpretation.

The company manufactures fasteners and guns for the shooting of rivets into beams and sidings. It is a subsidiary of Huck Manufacturing Company of Detroit.

Union spokesmen said money was not a factor in the walk-out. The company, formerly known as Electrol Inc., has had serious financial problems in the past few years.

As late as September of 1965 the company had problems meeting its payroll. A month later, the Huck Company bought Electrol. Five years ago the company employed 280 persons.

Youth, Industry Parley Slated for YMCA Members

The third annual YMCA Youth and Industry Conference will be held Aug. 27 to Sept. 1 at Holiday Hills, the conference and education center of the YMCA of Greater New York at Pawling. It was announced today by Ralph H. Stewart, president of the 'Y' Board of Directors.

Approximately 50 selected junior and senior high school young men will participate, Stewart said, and each will be sponsored by an industry or an organization. Delegates will come from Ohio, New Jersey and Connecticut as well as from New York state to attend the six-day conference which is being operated by the Holiday Hills YMCA and sponsored by the YMCA of New York State.

Delegates from the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA will be Chester A. Baltz III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Baltz Jr. of Kingston; Paul Markes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Markes of Hurley; Ronald Valle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Valle of Kingston and Timothy Suenram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melburn E. Suenram of Saugerties. The four Ulster County young men are being sponsored by Hercules Incorporated, I.B.M. of Kingston, the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and Ferrocube Corp. respectively.

Stewart commented that the YMCA Youth and Industry Conference will not only give young men an opportunity to find out about industry, but will also give industrial leaders a chance to find out what youth thinks of industry.

Industrial representatives serve as speakers and discussion leaders in the program which is designed to help the participants learn about industry's role in the free enterprise system.

Speakers at the 1966 conference included Charles E. Wilson, former president of the General Electric Company; Allen K. Heydrick, management consultant and Dr. John Furber, who represented General Motors. Last year, there were 101 delegates from 49 communities, according to Richard Billings, conference director.

Billings said Darwin Haines of the National Industrial

YMCA staff will serve as coordinator of curriculum for the 1967 conference. Conference dean will be C. Kenneth Eldridge, director of youth work for the New York State YMCA.

In addition to platform presentation and small group discussions, the conference program will include tours of area plants, which will be followed by in-plant meetings with top management. Athletic competition will be scheduled for conference delegates. Billings reported, and the young men will form a council to plan talent shows and other activities during their stay at Holiday Hills.

The YMCA Youth and Industry Program, of which this conference is a part, was conceived by the National Council of Industrial Management Clubs of the YMCA and is endorsed by the National YMCA Industrial Committee, the National YMCA Committee on work with High School Youth, and the National H-Y Council.

The local YMCA is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

In order to set up a city manager form of government the charter would have to be changed and the voters would have to approve it in referendum.

The City of Peekskill is doing just such a thing. That city of 19,000 has the city manager plan on the ballot this fall.

The Freeman spoke with Edward Gibbs, a leading businessman of Peekskill and a member of the two charter commissions that drew up the charter now awaiting the voters' approval. Peekskill Mayor William Murdon was out of Gibbs said the city fathers agreed to a city manager because they felt the city needed a full time administrator, not a part-time, unpaid mayor as they now have.

The Freeman asked Gibbs why the city didn't consider hiring a full-time mayor and pay him the fifteen to twenty thousand dollars they had earmarked for the city manager. His answer: "We couldn't find anyone in Peekskill who was qualified and willing to take the job."

Gibbs said they were looking for a man with at least three years experience who could administer the $2½ million Peekskill budget.

Under Peekskill's plan the mayor would be a ceremonial head, in Gibbs' words, "he'd take care of the chicken dinner circuit."

The Peekskill city government, at present, has three Republicans, including the mayor, and four Democrats. Under the new charter, the mayor would become a voting president of the common council.

Mayor Joseph Mullen of Newburgh was asked why he favors a city manager form of government which the Hill City has had since 1922, one of the first in the state. Mullen said it takes the administrative burden off the mayor's back.

Rockwell Slain by Sniper

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi party was shot and killed today by a sniper, Arlington police said.

Police said Rockwell was in a parking lot across the street from the Nazi party headquarters in this Washington suburb when he was shot.

They said the sniper, who fired from the roof of a building, escaped.

Police said they were looking for a man dressed in a trench-

Police said the victim was struck in the chest in the 6000 block of Wilson Boulevard.

Arlington police officer John E. Mitchell said policemen who rushed to the scene reported the victim was Rockwell, 47, well known to most of the Arlington's police force.

Rockwell apparently was killed instantly by the sniper's bullet.

Arlington police were combing the mixed commercial and residential area for the unknown killer.

An ambulance called to the scene remained for 30 minutes while the victim's body lay on the ground following the noon shooting.

Rockwell frequently appeared around the country leading counter-demonstrations during civil rights marches.

Bomb Reds Again Near China Line

SAIGON (AP)—American warplanes dove deep into North Vietnam Thursday, bombing rail and military targets within 18 miles of Red China but losing another F105 Thunderchief jet to Red ground fire, the U.S. Command said today.

The Thunderchief was the 13th American jet reported downed in the air war against North Vietnam this week—one of the grimmest of the year for American fliers—and the 660th U.S. combat plane reported lost striking North Vietnam. The pilot was listed as missing in action, bringing the week's loss so far to 19 fliers missing with three rescued by helicopters.

The deepest strikes reported were against a rail yard just 18 miles below the Chinese border and the second raid of the week on North Vietnam's chief naval base at Port Walcott, 30 miles below the frontier. It was on the strike against the northeast rail line from Hanoi to China that the F105 was downed about 25 miles below the border.

Navy pilots reported heavy damage to buildings at Port Walcott, which was attacked Monday for the first time in the war.

U.S. Marine fliers made one of their deepest raids into the Communist heartland with a strike at the MIG field of Hoa Lac, 15 miles west of Hanoi. It was a night strike and it was not known if any MIGs were caught on the ground.

Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany bored into the heaviest Communist defenses to hit the rail bridge at Hai Duong, midway between Hanoi and its port city of Haiphong.

About half the day's strikes were against targets from Hanoi north. The remaining attacks raked rail, road and river-traffic from the capital south to the 17th parallel frontier dividing Vietnam.

In this area the cruiser Boston moved inshore to fire eight-inch guns at supply traffic around the city of Vinh. The Navy said she blew up 11 river barges and damaged seven more.

Along the demilitarized zone straddling the 17th parallel, a Communist machine gunner caught a U.S. Coast Guard cutter close inshore and raked it with fire. Two Coast Guardsmen were wounded but damage to the 82-foot boat was not revealed.

The government has offered separate rewards of $9,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the terrorists involved in either case. Lam's radio station added an $18,000 reward for his killers.

Lam's wife and three small children were taken to a hide-out under police guard.

At the border, British Gurkha troops used tear gas for the second straight day to drive back Chinese mobs at the Man Kam To crossing point. The mobs tried twice to remove a wire barrier on the Hong Kong side. Then about 100 Red Chinese troops moved to the border to keep the groups in check.

However, loudspeakers along the 17-mile border carried a warning from Red Chinese soldiers that Chinese peasants must be allowed to continue crossing freely or "action will be taken."

Hucktrol Strike Settled

The 13-day strike by some 140 employees of Hucktrol Inc., 85 Grand Street, is over. A company spokesman told The Freeman late this morning that "a mutually satisfactory agreement has been reached between the parties."

The plant is expected to resume normal operation Monday morning.

The strikers were members of Local 1562, International Association of Machinists, who reportedly walked out over disagreement with management on contract interpretation.

The company manufactures fasteners and guns for the shooting of rivets into beams and sidings. It is a subsidiary of Huck Manufacturing Company of Detroit.

Union spokesmen said money was not a factor in the walk-out. The company, formerly known as Electrol Inc., has had serious financial problems in the past few years. As late as September of 1965 the company had problems meeting its payroll. A month later, the Huck Company bought Electrol. Five years ago the company employed 280 persons.

Youth, Industry Parley Slated for YMCA Members

The third annual YMCA Youth and Industry Conference will be held Aug. 27 to Sept. 1 at Holiday Hills, the conference and education center of the YMCA of Greater New York at Pawling.

It was announced today by Ralph H. Stewart, president of the Y Board of Directors.

Approximately 50 selected junior and senior high school young men will participate, Stewart said, and each will be sponsored by an industry or an organization. Delegates will come from Ohio, New Jersey and Connecticut as well as from New York state to attend the six-day conference which is being operated by the Holiday Hills YMCA and sponsored by the YMCA's of New York State.

Delegates from the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA will be Chester A. Baltz III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Baltz Jr. of Kingston; Paul Markes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Markes of Hurley; Ronald Valle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Valle of Kingston and Timothy Suenram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melburn E. Suenram of Saugerties. The four Ulster County young men are being sponsored by Hercules Incorporated, I.B.M. of Kingston, the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and Ferroxcube Corp. respectively.

Stewart commented that the YMCA Youth and Industry Conference will not only give young men an opportunity to find out about industry, but will also give industrial leaders a chance to find out what youth thinks of industry.

Industrial representatives serve as speakers and discussion leaders in the program which is designed to help the participants learn about industry's role in the free enterprise system.

Speakers at the 1966 conference included Charles E. Wilson, former president of the General Electric Company; Allen K. Heydrick, management consultant and Dr. John Furday, who represented General Motors. Last year, there were 101 delegates from 49 communities, according to Richard Billings, conference director. Billings said Darwin Haines of the National Industrial YMCA staff will serve as coordinator of curriculum for the 1967 conference. Conference dean will be C. Kenneth Eldridge, director of youth work for the New York State YMCA.

In addition to platform presentations and small group discussions, the conference program will include tours of area plants, which will be followed by in-plant meetings with top management. Athletic competition will be scheduled for conference delegates. Billings reported, and the young men will form a council to plan talent shows and other activities during their stay at Holiday Hills.

The YMCA Youth and Industry Program, of which this conference is a part, was conceived by the National Council of Industrial Management Clubs of the YMCA and is endorsed by the National YMCA Industrial Committee, the National YMCA Committee on work with High School Youth, and the National Hi-Y Council.

The local YMCA is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Gold-Tone Panel Used as Accent

For accent walls—as above a fireplace or behind a buffet or dressing table—a paneling with gold tone and a dash of glamor can add excitement and interest.

Ideal for this purpose is a new panel introduced by Masonite Corporation. Called Gold Marbletone-Grooved, it combines the texture of a layer-time marble with gold in the fissures and in half-inch vertical grooves.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
DIVIDING PERENNIALS: Gardeners have a rule of thumb for growing perennials: Never leave a perennial planted in the same place for more than three years. This isn't always true although many plants do tend to get woody and new plants should be started from them. Quite often the center of the clump will grow hard and the flowers will be sparse. It's a good idea to divide the mature clumps, using only the vigorous side shoots. Generally speaking, most perennials such as mums can be divided in spring. Iris can be divided now. Many perennials can be dug in late summer and replanted. Delphinium often shows up about now with a lot of old, off-color growth and new spikes. They won't be as large as the flowers produced in early summer, but quite often a fall show is quite spectacular.

Fall is a good time to save seed from some of your favorite perennials and start them. Not all of them grow true to type from seed, so it might be a good idea to buy perennial seed from your seedman.

FREE: Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my bulletin, HOW TO GROW PERENNIALS. My guide will help you get a perennial garden started and have flowers in bloom from spring to fall.

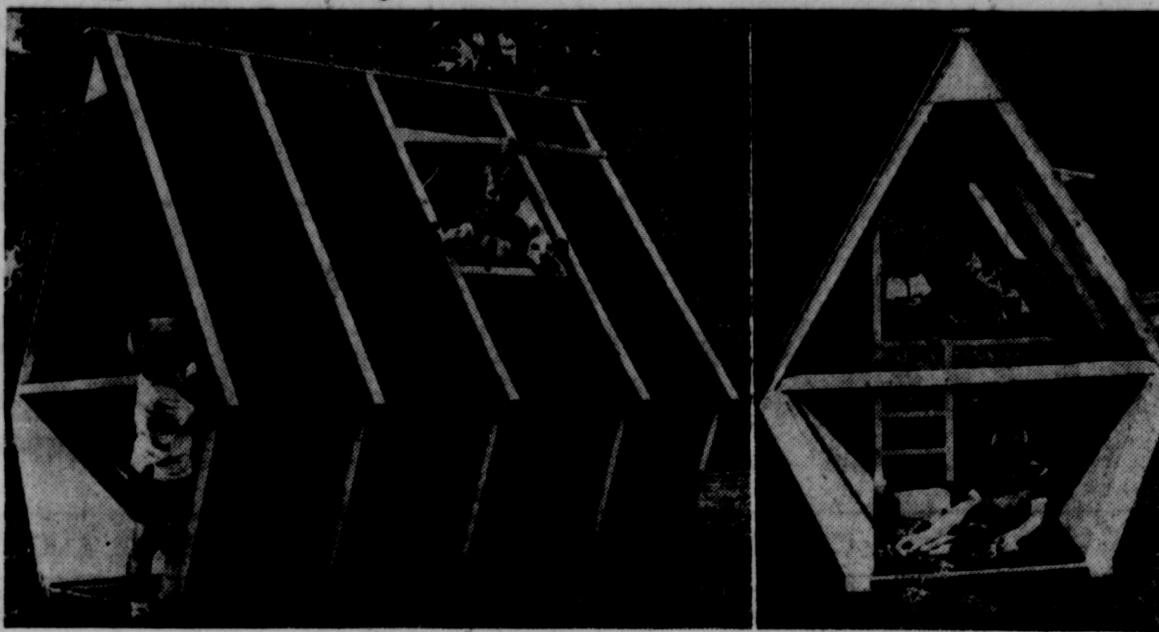

CUT FLOWER CARE: If you're cutting your own flowers, it's always a good idea to carry a container of water to the garden so you can place the stems into it immediately. Some gardeners allow tap water to stand 10 minutes or so to allow air bubbles to escape before placing stems in it. Many "harder" their blooms in a darkened room before arranging. When's the best time to cut? Some say in early evening, others say morning. If cut after sun has gone down the plants will have a chance to build up a food supply, and theoretically they will last longer. Make a cut with sharp knife, rather than scissors.

AFRICAN VIOLETS: Start new plants from young, vigorously growing leaves. Root in vermiculite, perlite, sand, or plain tap water. A mixture of half sand and vermiculite, or perlite alone, makes a fine way to start violets. Roots will form in 3 or 4 weeks. Leggy plants can be corrected by removing some of the lower leaves and severing the plant at soil level. Insert the old stem in your rooting material and new roots will start. Protect from hot sun.

Open Playhouse—Just for Fun

A two-story, open-end playhouse gives lively youngsters plenty of space for fun all summer. Sturdily built and handsomely finished with Ruf-X-90 siding, it's a play center for everything from "cops and robbers" to "space headquarters."

This version is 7½' high, 8' long and 4½' wide at the center. Occupying just half the length, the second floor is located a safe 28" from the floor and is reached by a fixed ladder that'll thrill the youngsters as they clamber up and down.

A swing-out window, held open by a bracket during play, may be closed at night. For greatest safety, it should be glazed with see-through plastic. Durable Ruf-X-90 panels were stained red on the outside, gray on the inside.

For a detailed plan on how to build this sturdy playhouse, send $1.00 to Masonite Corporation, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690.

Tree Talk

An aphid is a minute, delicate insect that removes juices from trees and practically all kinds of plants. Certain species are responsible for the spread of various plant viruses.

Aphid populations usually increase rapidly. Many have 13 or more generations a year. A scientist once calculated that the descendants of a single aphid in one summer could produce, if unchecked, a bulk of matter equal in weight to the 3 billion people on Earth.

But, Nature takes care of this. One of the natural controls, reports Dr. Philip L. Rusden, plant pathologist of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories in Stamford, Conn. and Charlotte, N. C., is the lacewing fly, one of the loveliest in the insect kingdom.

In summer a lacewing fly flits across the garden. Its lacelike silvery wings are iridescent and its eyes appear like jewels. It settles on a leaf, ejects a drop of fluid and draws this up into a brief thread almost too fine for the eye to see. As the thread hardens the fly lays an egg on the top, then goes about its business.

Seven days later a little stranger will creep out of that egg. The little stranger is called an aphid-lion and is a grayish brown creature with curved jaws that extend beyond the head.

When it encounters its first

There, it will lie for approximately 16 days. Suddenly the rounded lid is lifted. Out comes a new born lacewing fly adult, pale emerald green with wings.

Outdoor Closet Has Tools, Appliances Within Easy Access

An outdoor storage closet, attached to the garage or house, can make gardening and yard work more pleasant because it places the tools and appliances within easy access.

In the closet, protected by doors that lock, can be not only the gardener's tools but even a shelf for his use in potting plants and similar activities. A concrete floor and runway for the wheelbarrow, lawn roller, mower, seed spreader and similar equipment are "extras" that are worth the small additional cost.

Line It With Peg-Board

A "must" in the outdoor closet are interior walls of Masonite Peg-Board, the versatile panels with the numerous holes into which fit matching metal fixtures to hold storage items. Because of the heavy equipment stored in such a closet, these perforated hardboard panels should be the heavy-duty, quarter-inch thickness.

On them can be suspended such weighty appliances as a power mower, a lawn roller and even an outboard motor—not that it's gardening equipment! Fixtures, some of them especially designed for hanging garden tools, match the heavier panels.

Use X-ninety Siding
For the exterior, the home owner could choose one of the Masonite X-ninety sidings. For example, Colorlok, a prefinished lap siding, requires no painting for years. All are weather-proof and resistant to impact and abrasion. All may be primed and painted for long-lasting finishes. All may be obtained from lumber dealers with a factory-applied paint primer, if desired.

Spot for Toys, Too

Some families, seeking a storage spot for their children's toys, may want to build an outdoor closet along these lines, especially for that purpose. It would be somewhat larger because of the wagons, tricycles and bicycles involved, but the construction principles remain the same.

It looks around for more aphids. By the time it is 10 days old it may feed on as many as 30 aphids in an hour, and at 12 days it can destroy an aphid a minute.

The full-grown larva pulls itself into a ball at the end of a leaf, wraps itself in silk. Within a few hours this has become a white pea-size cocoon with a tiny circular door on top.

There, it will lie for approximately 16 days. Suddenly the rounded lid is lifted. Out comes a new born lacewing fly adult, pale emerald green with wings of lovely hues. Nature in its mysterious way is constantly building armies of friendly insects friendly to our woody plants.

New Paltz Course to Offer Tomorrow's Teaching Now

A professor at State University College, New Paltz, this fall will teach a course in School Law simultaneously in Wappingers Falls and Rockland Community College without leaving the New Paltz Campus. Instruction will be given through the use of taped television lectures and telephone lines used for tele-writer and tele-lecture presentations.

These new devices will enable Dr. William J. Hagerty, professor of education at New Paltz, to present a taped lecture, to talk with his students, and to write material that will instantly be reproduced on the screen in the distant classrooms.

One of Three
New Paltz is one of three State University Colleges scheduled to experiment with these new techniques during the 1967-1968 college year. The fall course in School Law will be offered to Graduate Students who are school teachers or administrators in the Mid-Hudson area. The experiment will be conducted at New Paltz through the College's Center for Continuing Education under Dr. Robert C. Davidson who serves as its director.

Dr. Hagerty is a recognized expert on school law and is a member of New York State Joint Legislative Committee to Revise the Education Law. This winter he was a member of a National Education Association investigating team that examined the school system of Baltimore.

This summer, Dr. Hagerty is taping nine half-hour lectures which will be presented in the first portion of each two hour class. After the lecture, he will talk with his students and will accept questions or comments from the students via microphones and speakers. A light on a panel before him will indicate when a student wishes to present a question or comment, and will tell him which location is calling.

Dr. Hagerty will also be able to illustrate his remarks, or write comments as on a blackboard, by writing with the electronic pencil on the systems' transmitting console, a six by eight inch writing surface. This "blackboard-by-wire" will permit the instructor to transmit charts, maps or diagrams as well as words, figures and symbols.

Helps Reach More
Use of the system permits distinguished scholars and experts to reach more students than would be possible if they were to lecture each class in person.

Dr. Hagerty's lectures are being taped in the college's television studio under the direction of Jerry P. Melmed, producer; Philip Livingston serves as chief engineer. The studio set has been designed to resemble a law office to relieve the monotony of many educational TV shows in which the lecturer stands before a blackboard and talks. The set contains bookshelves set against a paneled wall, French doors which appear to overlook the cliffs of Mohawk Lake, a desk and chairs, and rear screen projection for the showing of slides. An overhead TV camera supplements two on the floor to vary the production for best effect.

The professional crew working with Melmed and Livingston include John Bonse, Henry Hartman and Haig Shekerjian, all members of the College's Center for Instructional Resources.

State Official Slated For Workshop on Home

A guest speaker at the forthcoming workshop series sponsored by the Children's Home will be Charles Matkowski, an associate in education of the emotionally handicapped in New York State Education Department's Bureau for the Physically Handicapped.

The workshop is being conducted for teachers of emotionally disturbed children. Sessions will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Aug. 29, 30 and 31.

Matkowski will discuss The State's Role in the Education of the Emotionally Disturbed, Socially Malfunctioning Child. Workshop will be held on the first day of the series.

Matkowski, who received a BS Degree in Elementary Education from Jersey City State College and an MA Degree in Special Education from New York University served as a teacher at the Arthur Brisbane Child Treatment Center in Farmingdale, N. J. and later, as director of education. He assumed his present duties with the Bureau in March, 1967.

Other speakers named thus far are Robert J. Corcoran and Doug S. Meyers Jr., both on the staff of Kingston Schools Consolidated. They will conduct the Aug. 30 session on the Transition from Intra-Mural School Special Class to Public School.

Lawrence B. Siewers, executive director of the Children's Home, said further announcements concerning the workshop sessions will be made in the near future.

Cause Sought Of Barn Fire Claiming Life

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Investigators in nearby West Seneca sought the cause today of a barn fire that claimed the life of a 6-year-old boy and burned his brother.

Volunteer firemen found the body of Donald Weber on the second floor of the barn on his grandfather's farm. Stacks of wooden crates were ablaze and the boys apparently had been overcome by smoke, they said.

Donald's brother, Stephen, 8, was able to leave the building. He was treated for arm and neck burns at Mercy Hospital here and was discharged.

Officials said the boys had been playing in the barn. There was no estimate of damage to the building.

New Paltz Course to Offer Tomorrow's Teaching Now

A professor at State University College, New Paltz, this fall will teach a course in School Law simultaneously in Wappingers Falls and Rockland Community College without leaving the New Paltz Campus. Instruction will be given through the use of taped television lectures and telephone lines used for tele-writer and tele-lecture presentations.

These new devices will enable Dr. William J. Hageny, professor of education at New Paltz, to present a taped lecture, to talk with his students, and to write material that will instantly be reproduced on the screen in the distant classrooms.

One of Three
New Paltz is one of three State University Colleges scheduled to experiment with these new techniques during the 1967-1968 college year. The fall course in School Law will be offered to Graduate Students who are school teachers or administrators in the Mid-Hudson area. The experiment will be conducted at New Paltz through the College's Center for Continuing Education under Dr. Robert C. Davidson who serves as its director.

Dr. Hageny is a recognized expert on school law and is a member of New York State Joint Legislative Committee to Revise the Education Law. This winter he was a member of a National Education Association investigating team that examined the school system of Baltimore.

This summer, Dr. Hageny is taping nine half-hour lectures which will be presented in the first portion of each two hour class. After the lecture, he will talk with his students and will accept questions or comments from the students via microphones and speakers. A light on a panel before him will indicate when a student wishes to present a question or comment, and will tell him which location is calling.

Dr. Hageny will also be able to illustrate his remarks, or write comments as on a blackboard, by writing with the electronic pencil on the systems' transmitting console, a six by eight inch writing surface. This "blackboard-by-wire" will permit the instructor to transmit charts, maps or diagrams as well as words, figures and symbols.

Helps Reach More
Use of the system permits distinguished scholars and experts to reach more students than would be possible if they were to lecture each class in person.

Dr. Hageny's lectures are being taped in the college's television studio under the direction of Jerry P. Melmed, producer; Philip Livingston serves as chief engineer. The studio set has been designed to resemble a law office to relieve the monotony of many educational TV shows in which the lecturer stands before a blackboard and talks. The set contains bookshelves set against a paneled wall, French doors which appear to overlook the cliffs of Mohonk Lake, a desk and chairs, and rear screen projection for the showing of slides. An overhead TV camera supplements two on the floor to vary the production for best effect.

The professional crew working with Melmed and Livingston include John Bonse, Henry Hartman and Haig Shekerjian, all members of the College's Center for Instructional Resources.

State Official Slated For Workshop on Home

A guest speaker at the forthcoming workshop series sponsored by the Children's Home will be Charles Matkowski, an associate in education of the emotionally handicapped in New York State Education Department's Bureau for the Physically Handicapped.

The workshop is being conducted for teachers of emotionally disturbed children. Sessions will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Aug. 29, 30 and 31.

Matkowski will discuss "The State's Role in the Education of the Emotionally Disturbed, Socially Malfunctioning Child." Workshop will be held on the first day of the series.

Matkowski, who received a BS Degree in Elementary Education from Jersey City State College and an MA Degree in Special Education from New York University served as a teacher at the Arthur Brisbane Child Treatment Center in Farmingdale, N. J. and later, as director of education. He assumed his present duties with the Bureau in March, 1967.

Other speakers named thus far are Robert J. Corcoran and Doug S. Meyers Jr., both on the staff of Kingston Schools Consolidated. They will conduct the Aug. 30 session on the Transition from Intra-Mural School Special Class to Public School.

Lawrence B. Siewers, executive director of the Children's Home, said further announcements concerning the workshop sessions will be made in the near future.

Cause Sought Of Barn Fire Claiming Life

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Investigators in nearby West Seneca sought the cause today of a barn fire that claimed the life of a 6-year-old boy and burned his brother.

Volunteer firemen found the body of Donald Weber on the second floor of the barn on his grandfather's farm. Stacks of wooden crates were ablaze and the boys apparently had been overcome by smoke, they said.

Donald's brother, Stephen, 8, was able to leave the building. He was treated for arm and neck burns at Mercy Hospital here and was discharged.

Officials said the boys had been playing in the barn. There was no estimate of damage to the building.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 25, 1967

Mood of the Nation

The vote of 413 to 3 members of the House of Representatives for a harsh new line on welfare recipients reflects the mood of the nation. It gives notice that taxpayers are no longer going to stand for making handouts a way of life in this country.

As Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the Ways and Means Committee, which wrote the bill said, "We are rough in this bill—we intended to be—but we do not intend to be inhuman."

Mills was referring to the changes the committee made aimed at forcing off the welfare rolls and into gainful employment as many persons as are trainable and employable. They must take work training and seek employment hereafter, instead of living on the dole.

The core change involves aid to families with dependent children, which has doubled in 10 years. Almost five million mothers and their children are now beneficiaries. They are largely concentrated in the urban Negro population of the north.

As Mills said, the committee does not intend to be inhuman. Savings in the year 1972, five years hence, for persons trained who become self-sufficient would be $130 million. That is only seven per cent of the estimated 1972 cost of the program, without changes, of $1,837,000,000. Presumably the rest would be unemployable.

In addition, the bill estimates costs in 1972 of $470 million for day care of children of mothers required to work and $225 million for work training. Thus $695 million would be spent to enable beneficiaries to earn $130 million. But a break would be begun in the present self-feeding system. Beside, if the bill works as intended, the earnings may be much more.

Briefly, the bill denies relief to parents or children over 16 who are deemed qualified to work, or can be trained for working, and who refuse either work or training. They will have to join the rest of the work force instead of fattening on its earnings. The best part of the reform is that the relievers will be the gainers in the long run.

Aged Benefits Boosted

Two months after the House-passed new Social Security bill becomes law, more than 23 million elderly and disabled persons will start to receive 12½ per cent more in their benefit checks for a total of $3 billion a year. Beginning January 1, taxes to pay the increase will rise for workers and employers to make up the $3 billion raise.

The bill also contains liberalized Medicare benefits and narrows federal participation in Medicaid, the coverage for indigent ill who are under 65.

Social Security has changed considerably from the original intent of Congress, which made it an earned pension, supported by contributions of workers and their employers. It is still subject to the rule of Congress, which fixes the rate of the tax and benefits. That is why financing this $3 billion raise will come from an increase in the 4.4 per cent rate employers and workers now pay to 4.8 per cent in 1969, and to 5.2 per cent 1971. Maximum payments would go from $290 a year to $334 next, $365 in 1969, $395 in 1971 and $420 in 1973.

As in all previous increases in the tax, the workers and employers are contributing a larger amount now to keep up the payments to those who have already retired, most of whom no longer work and contribute. It is a pension only in part, with the beneficiaries getting more than they earned and the workers and employers paying the bill.

Bad as Traffic Deaths

Death from lung cancer, the disease that has recently been scientifically connected with cigarette smoking and automobile fumes, is as great now as death from traffic accidents.

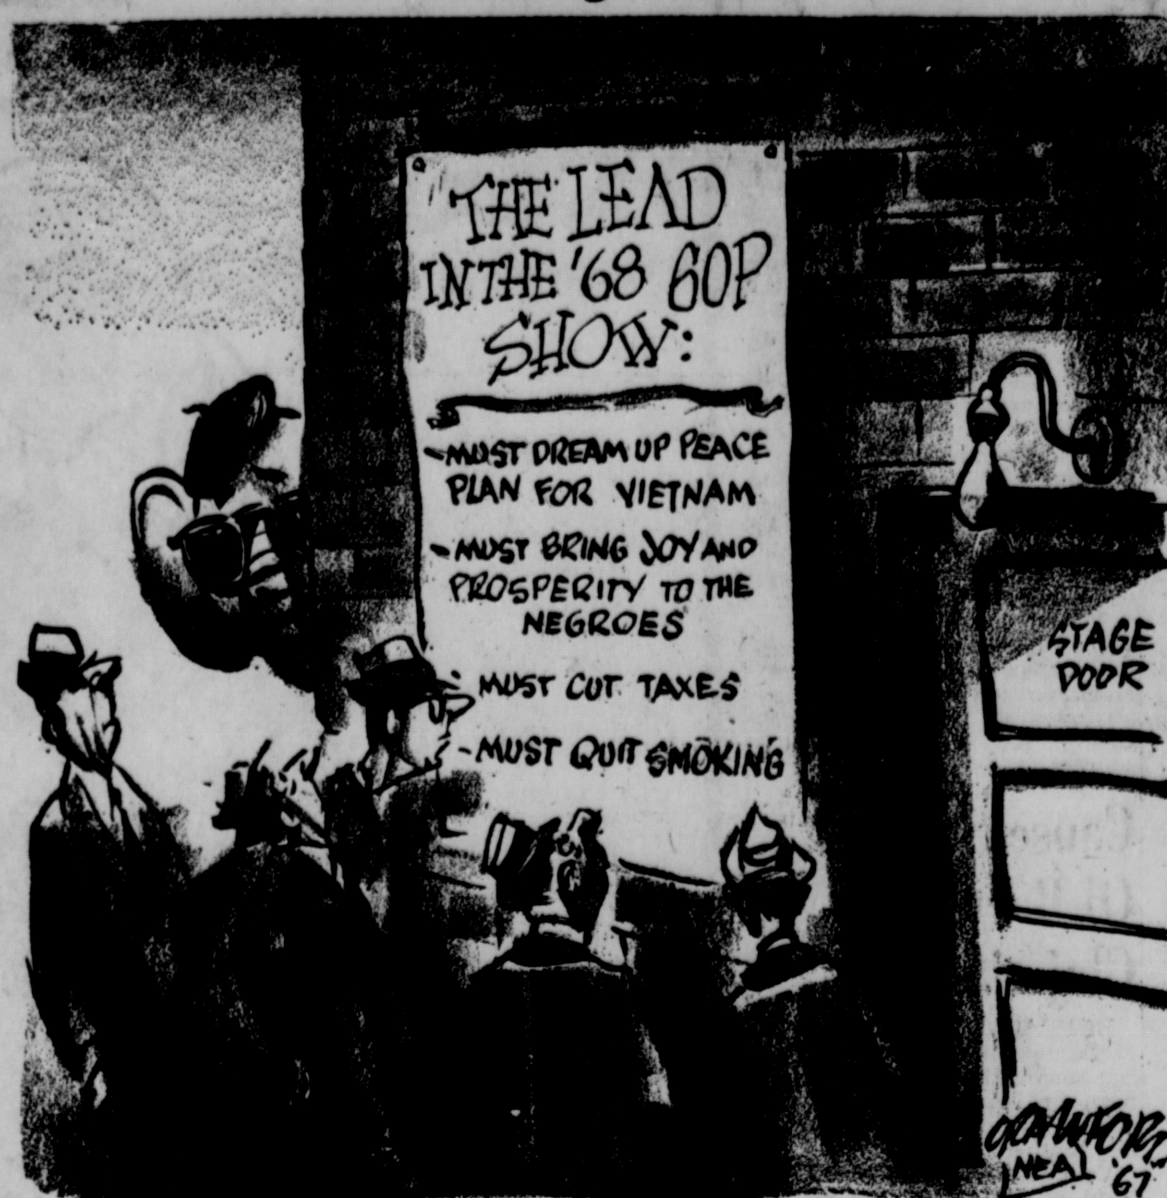

Dr. Kenneth M. Endicott, director of the National Cancer Institute, noted that the disease kills 50,000 Americans a year—compared with 52,000 deaths on the highway last year—as he named members of a Presidential Lung Cancer Task Force.

While he believes that upward of 70 to 80 per cent of lung cancer can be eliminated if people would quit smoking, Dr. Endicott doubts that this will happen because of the weakness of human nature. He knows whereof he speaks. He has quit smoking three times.

The task force first will try to reduce the hazard of cigarettes. Beside filtration, there are such ideas as cultivation, growth, curing and processing tobacco, factors hard to control in a product that grows in many places and is sold in many mixtures. Second, they will attempt to improve the low cure rate in lung cancer, where now only 5 per cent can be saved with early detection. Also, Dr. Endicott predicts that emphysema and cardiovascular disease from smoking will outpace lung cancer in time.

The outlook is very grim. But the task force is better equipped to do battle with these diseases thus fore-armed.

Declaration of War

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Much confusion has arisen lately in the discussions in Congress as to the power of the President of the United States to engage in military operations in foreign countries without what is known as a "declaration of war." The constitutional provision has been repeatedly interpreted to mean that Congress alone can "declare war," but nothing in the constitution prevents a president from carrying on a war before Congress takes any action equivalent to a formal declaration. As a matter of fact, the constitution gives the president this specific duty:

"The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion."

The use of the words "United States" in a legal sense refers always to the executive branch of the government, and the constitution itself says that "the president shall be Commander in Chief of the armed forces of the United States."

No president could continue to protect the states of the union against invasion unless he had the right instantaneously to respond to an attack by a foreign power. If, for example, some country possessing nuclear weapons should suddenly explode a number of bombs over American territory, there would not be time for Congress to be assembled and a formal declaration of war to be issued.

The existing agreement, moreover, known as the North Atlantic Treaty pledges the United States to go to war instantly when any country which is a member of the

It is the duty, therefore, of the president, as commander in chief, to order immediate retaliation for such an attack.

The authority of the President of the United States to deal at once with an attack against American interests has been repeatedly invoked. President Wilson in April 1914, for instance, ordered American naval forces to seize Vera Cruz and to intercept a German vessel laden with arms headed for that port. Its cargo was for the use of a regime in Mexico at odds with the United States, and for the ultimate purpose of provoking a conflict with this country. Mr. Wilson didn't wait for a resolution by Congress before acting.

President Truman never requested from Congress a declaration of a state of war even after he sent American troops from Japan to South Korea to help repel an invasion of that country by Communist forces. The assumption at the time was that the United States was bound by treaty to send its armed forces to carry out those decisions of the U.N. Security Council which were designed to maintain "international peace and security." No declaration of war was made when in recent years American military forces, acting under the auspices of the U.N., went to the assistance of governments in the Congo.

The existing agreement, moreover, known as the North Atlantic Treaty pledges the United States to go to war instantly when any country which is a member of the treaty organization is attacked. The treaty contains no reservation requiring an act of Congress as a prerequisite to military operations.

There are advantages in having Congress declare war in some cases or in refraining from doing so in other instances when outbreaks occur, as in the Dominican Republic in 1965 when United States troops were landed to protect American interests. A declaration of war is omitted when the conflict appears likely to last only a short time. For there is a hesitancy to put the country on a war-time basis and thus cause certain laws to come into force, as happens when there is a formal declaration of war.

The use, however, of a declaration of war or of a state of war has not been abandoned. In certain circumstances it is desirable to have such a proclamation so that, under international law, vessels transporting goods or supplies to belligerent countries may legally be searched and seized. But, in a sense, what Under-Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach said recently to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee about a declaration of war being "outmoded" is true.

In a nuclear age, no country that is attacked is going to wait for its own legislative body to assemble and debate the question of war or peace. The obligation to protect instantly one's own territory against invasion and to repel attack is obvious. To delay military action would only be in the interest of the enemy.

Take bananas. Most important ship them green and naked on the stem. Not Chiquita Bananas. They boxed them. Why? Because naked bananas are prone to inner bruises, unseen until peeled. Not Chiquita. This led to women asking for bananas by brand name. Still, even if you solve a problem for purchasers, you have the additional middle of finding a way of saying it visually and orally in one minute or less.

"This is hard to do," says Jordan. "The average consumer is exposed to 1,500 advertising messages a day—t.v., radio, magazines, newspapers, billboards, store displays." Of these, he remembers 15. One per cent. He may be looking, but he doesn't see," Jordan writes. "He may be listening, but he doesn't hear."

He has built a boredom barrier around his head. An automatic tuneout. "How do you break through?" There is, Mr. Jordan says, dozens of techniques. Breakthroughs have been scored by the Ajax White Knight, the Tareyton black eye, the Dodge Rebellion girl, and Bert LaR for Lay's Potato Chips. Clair's question: "Is it true blondes have more fun?" cracked the boredom barrier. Gillette's Look Sharp March almost became the national anthem. The Jolly Green Giant is on everyone's conscious side.

"O.K.," says Jordan. "You talk to the right people. You solve the right problem. You make sure the message gets through. Anything else? Yes. Make sure the message registers in your name." He snidely asks who remembers the name of the washer that was ten feet tall? And what medication was it that prompted a woman to ask: "Would you believe it? I have a cold."

Obviously, they didn't get through to Jordan. The one which got through to me is that when I'm out of beer, I'm out of beer.

Drew Pearson Says City Projects Lose Out

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of oratory lately about whether the taxpayers are spending too much or too little to help the big cities. The House made its attitude clear by refusing to spend $40 million over three years to exterminate rats and the diseases they spread.

In this connection, it is worth examining what Congress has appropriated to prevent farm diseases which can also be passed on to people. These are beneficial programs which should be continued but should also be balanced by equal aid for the cities.

Because the old men who run Congress come chiefly from rural areas, however, the battle against farm diseases gets appropriations and the proposals to fight city diseases do not.

Most of the powerful committee chairmen come from rural towns and do not understand big-city needs. Of the 16 Senate committees, 13 are headed by Senators from small towns. The Agriculture Committee, which takes a benevolent attitude toward rural problems, has 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender of Houma, La., as its chairman. The Public Welfare Committee, which is supposed to concern itself with city problems, is headed by 73-year-old Sen. Lister Hill of Montgomery, Ala.

Of the 20 House chairmen, 16 come from small towns. The Agriculture Committee is chaired by 68-year-old Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, Tex., and the Public Welfare Committee run by 68-year-old Rep. Carl Perkins of Hindman, Ky.

The money must come from the Senate Appropriations Committee, whose chairman is 90-year-old Sen. Carl Hayden of Phoenix, Ariz., and the House Appropriations Committee, which is headed by 68-year-old Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, Tex.

Farms Vs. Slums

money to protect their own constituencies. Bang's disease, which causes abortion in cows and hogs, can be passed on to people as undulant fever. The federal government pays a farmer up to $50 bonus to butcher a cow if it contracts Bang's disease. He also collects the regular market price for the meat. In most states, cattle herds must be tested each year; the cows are either certified as Bang's free or they are slaughtered. The program costs the taxpayers $21.5 million a year, plus another $250,000 for research. This is important to the nation's health but no more important, say, than an annual inspection program to certify apartment houses as rat-free.

Weed control costs the taxpayers $26.9 million doled out to the states, state universities and research stations, another $2.7 million spent for experimentation. Still another $3.2 million goes to eliminate witchweed, a parasitic growth that destroys corn crops in some Southern states. Water hyacinth control costs the taxpayers an additional $6.7 million a year to keep this weed out of Southern rivers. Water hyacinths choke the channels and waterways of the South to a point that fish are unable to live and motorboats get their propellers fouled. The grand total is close to $39 million, considerably more than the federal government spends to eliminate the weed of juvenile delinquency in the big cities.

Bovine tuberculosis, if transmitted to human beings, can cause hunchbacks and other malformations. All cattle in the country must be tested once a year for TB though the chief cost is borne by the cattle owners. However, the taxpayers put up $3.4 million each year for surveys and testing. The same amount would go a long way toward testing the nation's slum children for sickness.

The Farm Extension Service draws $76.3 million annually from the Treasury to help farm families with their production and marketing problems. Home economics and family living, and the 4-H movement for farm youth. For example, the 4-H Clubs—"head, hand, heart and health"—have been teaching better citizenship to farm boys and girls for a long time. Similar programs have been needed in the big cities. The home economics training, available to rural housewives, should also have been offered to slum women.

Yet another $2.3 million is spent by the government on improving the breeding strains of cattle, hogs, sheep and goats. Like the other farm programs, most of the cost is paid by city and suburban taxpayers. But the Congressmen from the country, whose seniority has given them control of Congress, appropriate the money for their constituents and neglect the teeming cities.

Cold War at Home
A great bureaucratic battle has been raging behind the scenes ever since President Johnson tried to merge the Labor and Commerce Departments.

There were whisperings that still other shake-ups would follow. Suddenly, rival agencies began raiding one another's territory and stealing one another's functions.

The Commerce Department, through its alliances on Capitol Hill, successfully defended its borders against the Labor Department. But Labor struck out in other directions. It started flanking movements to capture the Job Corps away from the Office of Economic Opportunity and to grab the manpower-training functions from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Under fire from the anti-poverty guns, OEO is now fighting desperately to defend its territorial integrity against half a dozen departments.

The two newest bureaucratic kingdoms—the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Transportation—already have started battling over the urban mass transportation function (and the appropriations that go with them). Several other agencies have also revived ancient animosities and petty rivalries. Out of it is almost certain to come more reorganization.

The World Today

20-Man Delegation Will Observe Vietnam Election

BY JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has bowed to pressure but found a way to take some of the load off his own shoulders after listening to 24 days of new criticism about the way things are going in South Vietnam.

Johnson, with an instinct for the middle road, Wednesday night named a 20-man delegation of prominent citizens to go to Vietnam and observe the election. They will not be supervisors. They will not make a formal report.

But they apparently will be free to say what they think individually when they return here after the election Sept. 3. Since they probably won't agree, the chances of a continued dispute here look pretty good.

The new load of criticism began to hit Johnson July 31. There had been increasing growing about Johnson's handling of the war, particularly by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

On July 31 he introduced a resolution—the Senate hasn't acted on it yet and perhaps never will—that would greatly reduce a President's power in foreign affairs.

It would require joint approval by Congress and the President to seal any national commitment abroad. This already is required if the President wants to make a treaty. But a President can do a lot of things abroad without a treaty.

The President's Hands
So the Fulbright idea would tie a President's hands far more than ever before.

Then on Aug. 10, 21 House Republicans called on its Foreign Affairs Committee to modify the Gulf of Tonkin resolution, which both houses approved in 1964. It pretty much gives the President a blank check on how he wants to stop Communist aggression in Vietnam.

On that same day 57 House Democrats called on Johnson to warn the ruling military regime in South Vietnam that unless it allows a fair presidential election there this country may do some rethinking about helping South Vietnam.

This followed reports from Saigon that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, running for vice president on the same ticket with Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, now head of state and running for president, had said the military junta was already making plans to retain power after the election no matter who won.

And that same day, Aug. 10, the other 10 presidential candidates opposing Thieu announced they would refuse to campaign unless assured by Thieu and Ky there would be an end to "harrassment."

Called Fraud and Farce

This was enough for some of the Senators growing ever more unhappy about the war. So on Aug. 11 a bunch of them—led by New York's two Senators, Robert F. Kennedy, Democrat, and Jacob K. Javits, Republican—began calling the upcoming elections a fraud, a farce, and a charade.

But that same day, the Thieu-Ky government invited Congress to send observers to Vietnam to insure the elections were free and open to scrutiny by all.

The Senate didn't want any part of that and rejected the invitation. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he saw no reason why Congress should involve itself. And Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said just about the same thing.

Five days later, Aug. 16, Johnson tried to soothe the senatorial fears by saying he already had told Thieu and Ky it was vital to keep the elections on the up and up and he said they promised to support the election outcome.

Foe of Communism

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—One reason for Communist strength in Vietnam today is that for 10 crucial years the Reds had overwhelming superiority in propaganda—including radio propaganda.

Vietnamese heard the Communist line day in and day out. There was little to counter it.

The same situation was held in northeastern Thailand, where Communists are building strength. Though there is a Thai government station in the area, this effort is out-gunned by the Communists.

This Communist propaganda superiority exists in many parts of the world. At this time, therefore, it is tragic that Free Cuba Radio has gone off the air—for lack of funds. The operation is beamed 13 hours a day in information to Latin America through stations in Miami, New Orleans, Santo Domingo and Key West.

Over the past seven years, its programs have helped keep hope—and sabotage—alive in Cuba.

Listeners in such Latin Communist target countries as Venezuela, Bolivia, Colombia, Argentina and Mexico have voluntarily organized groups, gone out into the countryside to counter Red propaganda among the farmers.

The programs have received letters from 45 countries. It blanketed Latin America's 20 countries and the islands in the Caribbean.

Students, labor unions, women's groups and government officials have written in giving the programs credit for getting out the vote in elections in countries from Chile to the Dominican Republic.

What Free Cuba Radio did in the main was to attempt to get people on their own, without outside help, to solve their own problems in a democratic way by local action. The stations encouraged local groups to work for democratic elections and democratic institutions in their own way. The stations did not enter into local politics—though they gave the facts on communism.

Yet this program over all cost probably less than $300,000 a year.

Probably the major achievement of Free Cuba Radio has been to help keep up the morale of hundreds of thousands of Cubans who might have otherwise lost hope completely.

The programs have carried bread and butter advice to Cubans under Castro—techniques mothers could use to unbrainwash their children when they'd come home from hours of Communist drilling in Castro's schools, details on how to sabotage when cutting sugar cane, when riding in buses, at work in a factory and suggestions on how to hold up under Red pressures.

Official U.S. government propaganda stations will continue to operate programs beamed to Latin America. But there are many things a privately operated group of stations can do that the U.S. government can't. Private stations can be a great deal franker for one thing. They give a nonofficial point of view. They don't have to be lukewarm for fear of diplomatic repercussions.

It is unfortunate that we have not learned that it is cheaper and more effective to spend more energy and funds in encouraging the people in other countries to build the institutions that will fight communism. Radio, by itself, will not prevent Vietnams. But some radio programs can help.

Mood of the Nation

The vote of 413 to 3 members of the House of Representatives for a harsh new line on welfare recipients reflects the mood of the nation. It gives notice that taxpayers are no longer going to stand for making handouts a way of life in this country.

As Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the Ways and Means Committee, which wrote the bill said, "We are rough in this bill—we intended to be—but we do not intend to be inhuman."

Mills was referring to the changes the committee made aimed at forcing off the welfare rolls and into gainful employment as many persons as are trainable and employable. They must take work training and seek employment hereafter, instead of living on the dole.

The core change involves aid to families with dependent children, which has doubled in 10 years. Almost five million mothers and their children are now beneficiaries. They are largely concentrated in the urban Negro population of the north.

As Mills said, the committee does not intend to be inhuman. Savings in the year 1972, five years hence, for persons trained who become self-sufficient would be $130 million. That is only seven per cent of the estimated 1972 cost of the program, without changes, of $1,837,000,000. Presumably the rest would be unemployable.

In addition, the bill estimates costs in 1972 of $470 million for day care of children of mothers required to work and $225 million for work training. Thus $695 million would be spent to enable beneficiaries to earn $130 million. But a break would be begun in the present self-feeding system. Beside, if the bill works as intended, the earnings may be much more.

Briefly, the bill denies relief to parents or children over 16 who are deemed qualified to work, or can be trained for working, and who refuse either work or training. They will have to join the rest of the work force instead of fattening on its earnings. The best part of the reform is that the relievers will be the gainers in the long run.

Aged Benefits Boosted

Two months after the House-passed new Social Security bill becomes law, more than 23 million elderly and disabled persons will start to receive 12½ per cent more in their benefit checks for a total of $3 billion a year. Beginning January 1, taxes to pay the increase will rise for workers and employers to make up the $3 billion raise.

The bill also contains liberalized Medicare benefits and narrows federal participation in Medicaid, the coverage for indigent ill who are under 65.

Social Security has changed considerably from the original intent of Congress, which made it an earned pension, supported by contributions of workers and their employers. It is still subject to the rule of Congress, which fixes the rate of the tax and benefits. That is why financing this $3 billion raise will come from an increase in the 4.4 per cent rate employers and workers now pay to 4.8 per cent in 1969, and to 5.2 per cent 1971. Maximum payments would go from $290 a year to $334 next, $365 in 1969, $395 in 1971 and $420 in 1973.

As in all previous increases in the tax, the workers and employers are contributing a larger amount now to keep up the payments to those who have already retired, most of whom no longer work and contribute. It is a pension only in part, with the beneficiaries getting more than they earned and the workers and employers paying the bill.

Bad as Traffic Deaths

Death from lung cancer, the disease that has recently been scientifically connected with cigarette smoking and automobile fumes, is as great now as death from traffic accidents.

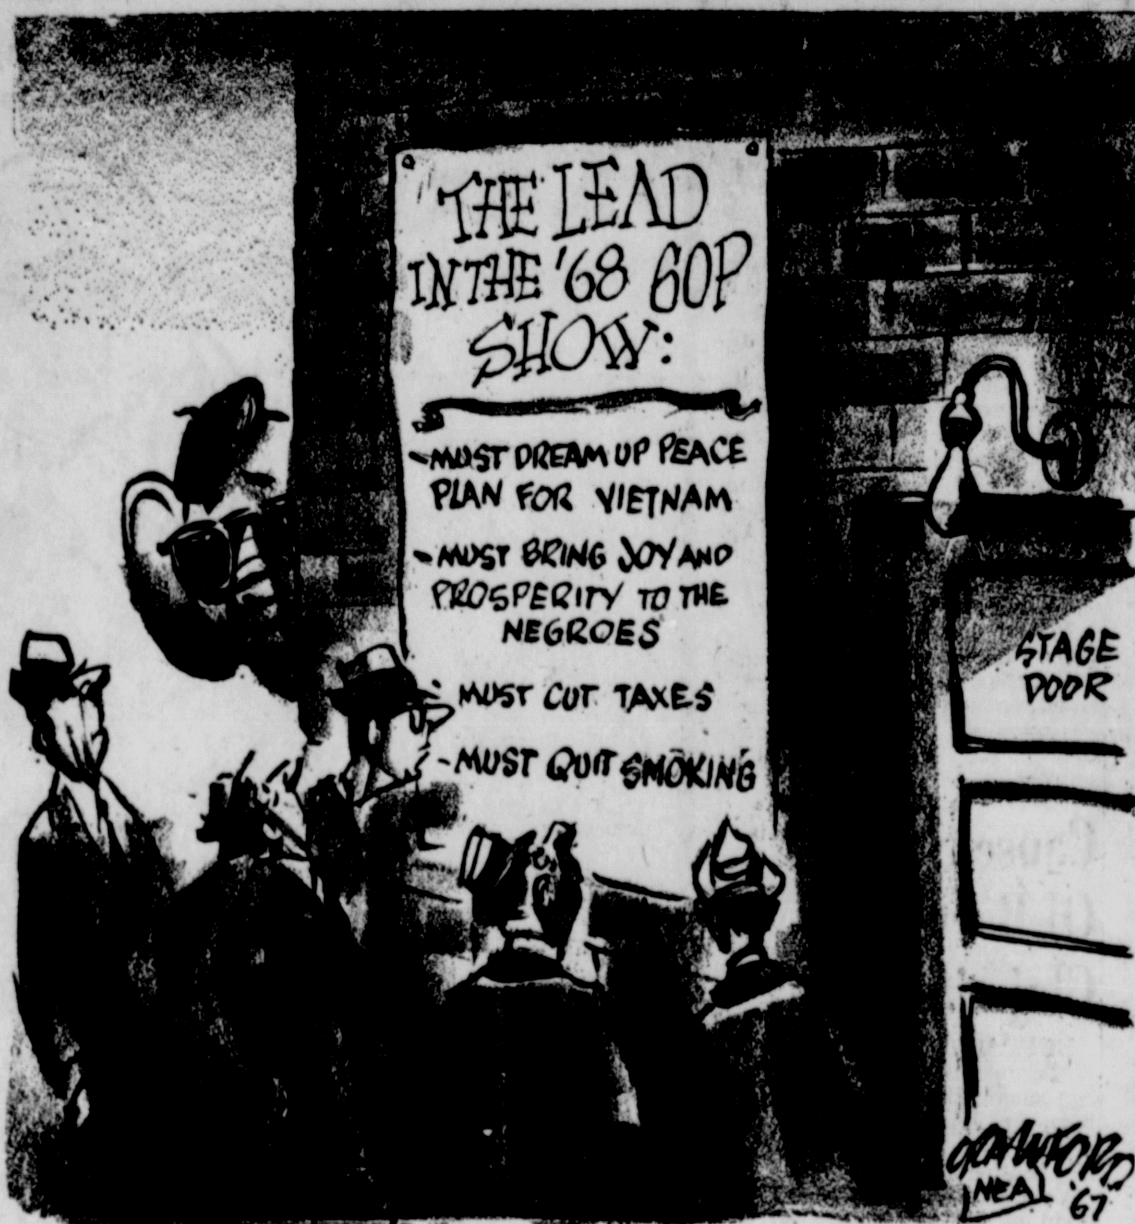

Dr. Kenneth M. Endicott, director of the National Cancer Institute, noted that the disease kills 50,000 Americans a year—compared with 52,000 deaths on the highway last year—as he named members of a Presidential Lung Cancer Task Force.

While he believes that upward of 70 to 80 per cent of lung cancer can be eliminated if people would quit smoking, Dr. Endicott doubts that this will happen because of the weakness of human nature. He knows whereof he speaks. He has quit smoking three times.

The task force first will try to reduce the hazard of cigarettes. Beside filtration, there are such ideas as cultivation, growth, curing and processing tobacco, factors hard to control in a product that grows in many places and is sold in many mixtures. Second, they will attempt to improve the low cure rate in lung cancer, where now only 5 per cent can be saved with early detection. Also, Dr. Endicott predicts that emphysema and cardiovascular disease from smoking will outpace lung cancer in time.

The outlook is very grim. But the task force is better equipped to do battle with these diseases thus fore-armed.

Casting Call

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Much confusion has arisen lately in the discussions in Congress as to the power of the President of the United States to engage in military operations without what is known as a "declaration of war." The constitutional provision has been repeatedly interpreted to mean that Congress alone can "declare war," but nothing in the constitution prevents a president from carrying on a war before Congress takes any action equivalent to a formal declaration. As a matter of fact, the constitution gives the president this specific duty:

"The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion."

The use of the words "United States" in a legal sense refers always to the executive branch of the government, and the constitution itself says that "the president shall be Commander in Chief of the armed forces of the United States."

No president could continue to protect the states of the union against invasion unless he had the right instantaneously to respond to an attack by a foreign power. If, for example, some country possessing nuclear weapons should suddenly explode a number of bombs over American territory, there would not be time for Congress to be assembled and a formal declaration of war to be issued.

It is the duty, therefore, of the president, as commander in chief, to order immediate retaliation for such an attack.

The authority of the President of the United States to deal at once with an attack against American interests has been repeatedly invoked. President Wilson in April 1914, for instance, ordered American naval forces to seize Vera Cruz and to intercept a German vessel laden with arms headed for that port. Its cargo was for the use of a regime in Mexico at odds with the United States, and for the ultimate purpose of provoking a conflict with this country. Mr. Wilson didn't wait for a resolution by Congress before acting.

President Truman never requested from Congress a declaration of a state of war even after he sent American troops from Japan to South Korea to help repel an invasion of that country by Communist forces. The assumption at the time was that the United States was bound by treaty to send its armed forces to carry out those decisions of the U.N. Security Council which were designed to maintain international peace and security. No declaration of war was made when in recent years American military forces, acting under the auspices of the U.N., went to the assistance of governments in the Congo.

The existing agreement, moreover, known as the North Atlantic Treaty pledges the United States to go to war instantly when any country which is a member of the treaty organization is attacked. The treaty contains no reservation requiring an act of Congress as a prerequisite to military operations.

There are advantages in having Congress declare war in some cases or in refraining from doing so in other instances when outbreaks occur, as in the Dominican Republic in 1965 when United States troops were landed to protect American interests. A declaration of war is omitted when the conflict appears likely to last only a short time. For there is a hesitancy to put the country on a war-time basis and thus cause certain laws to come into force, as happens when there is a formal declaration of war.

The use, however, of a declaration of war of a state of war has not been abandoned. In certain circumstances it is desirable to have such a proclamation so that, under international law, vessels transporting goods or supplies to belligerent countries may legally be searched and seized. But, in a sense, what Under-Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach said recently to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee about a declaration of war being "out-moded" is true.

In a nuclear age, no country that is attacked is going to wait for its own legislative body to assemble and debate the question of war or peace. The obligation to protect instantly one's own territory against invasion and to repel attack is obvious. To delay military action would only be in the interest of the enemy.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Nothing can set teeth on edge like repetitive television commercials. They have become cute, smug, and some even have a story line. The desire to sell a product is not only praiseworthy, it is important to the overall economy of the country. Still when the viewer has seen the same clever jingle four or five times, he is beset by a pavlovian conditioned reflex which alienates him.

Some people learn to turn their minds off when the commentator murmurs: "and now, a word . . ." America needs what America has to sell, but the salestalk assaults the eyes and ears with shallow clichés. "Now" is an abused word. "Now" for the first time . . . The word "New" gets rude treatment. An old detergent is stamped as "New." In one minute, the name of the item is repeated six or seven times. Our ears are hit with it as though, like little children, we will remember better if admonished sufficiently not to forget.

A few weeks ago, James Jordan, vice president of Barton, Barton, Durstine and Osborn wrote an article called "Commercials to Make a Profit By." It was published in Abel Green's showbiz bible, Variety. He says that first the commercial must persuade the viewer to make a decision, "usually what we call a brand decision," for one brand of soup or soap against "an enemy brand."

"And the best way to move the consumer toward that kind of decision," says Mr. Jordan, "is to convince her that your brand somehow solves a problem for her." One of the biggest campaigns now on TV concerns a detergent which can be put in a mixer, and it will "whip." That may solve the problem of cleaning the mixer, but what will it do for the dishes? In truth, detergents have become more important in relation to their effect on a lady's hands than on the things they are reputed to clean.

A relatively small percentage of the population buys a relatively large amount of any product, Mr. Jordan says. He points out that 15 per cent of the adults consume 80 per cent of the beer. "Address yourself solely to the guys who like beer enough to put away four or five every evening. That just has to be smarter than talking to ladies who make a six-pack last for six months."

Agreed, Jordan says that, until a few years ago, all the beer commercials featured ladies carrying trays of tall pilser glasses or housewives pouring at beach parties. The wrong people. Then Schaefer came along with "The one beer to have when you're having more than one." Jordan says that Schaefer has led the competition ever since. They were taking dead aim on the man of the house.

Once you present your product to the right people, Jordan says, "you still have to make the sale." Your best chance is to solve his problem, locate it, isolate it, synthesize it, and obliterate it with sharp punchy words.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Aug. 25, 1947—Motorcycle Patrolmen Ernest G. Bartroff and Ralph G. Seism were injured when their cycles collided while the officers were responding to a fire on Furnace Street.

John Rockwell of Granite Court was overcome with heat at Alcazar and Voorhees Avenues. He was rushed to the hospital and recovered quickly.

Aug. 25, 1957—There was some rain in Kerhonkson but Highland's water shortage was still critical.

Schultz Taxi was offering a special rate to Kingston residents who wanted to take in the Dutchess County Fair in Rhinebeck. The cost was five dollars for up to five persons.

Take bananas. Most important ship them green and naked on the stem.

Not Chiquita Bananas. They boxed them. Why? Because naked bananas are prone to inner bruises, unpeeled until peeled. Not Chiquita. This led to women asking for bananas by brand name. Still, even after you solve a problem for purchasers, you have the additional riddle of finding a way of saying it visually and orally in one minute or less.

"This is hard to do," says Jordan. "The average consumer is exposed to 1,500 advertising messages a day—t.v., radio, magazines, newspapers, billboards, store displays. Of these, he remembers 15. One per cent. He may be looking, but he doesn't see," Jordan writes. "He may be listening, but he doesn't hear."

He has built a boredom barrier around his head. An automatic tuneout. "How do you break through?" There is, Mr. Jordan says, dozens of techniques. Breakthroughs have been scored by the Ajax White Knight, the Tareyton black eye, the Dodge Rebellion girl, and Bert Lahr for Lay's Potato Chips. Clair's question: "Is it true blondes have more fun?" cracked the boredom barrier. Gillette's Look Sharp March almost became the national anthem. The Jolly Green Giant is on everyone's conscious side.

"O.K.," says Jordan. "You talk to the right people. You solve the right problem. You make sure the message gets through. Anything else? Yes. Make sure the message registers in your name." He snidely asks who remembers the name of the washer that was ten feet tall? And what medication was it that prompted a woman to ask: "Would you believe it? I have a cold."

Obviously, they didn't get through to Jordan. The one which got through to me is that when I'm out of . . . I'm out of beer . . . (Copyright, 1967, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson Says

City Projects Lose Out

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of oratory lately about whether the taxpayers are spending too much or too little to help the big cities. The House made its attitude clear by refusing to spend $40 million over three years to exterminate rats and the diseases they spread.

In this connection, it is worth examining what Congress has appropriated to prevent farm diseases which can also be passed on to people. These are beneficial programs which should be continued but should also be balanced by equal aid for the cities.

Because the old men who run Congress come chiefly from rural areas, however, the battle against rural diseases gets appropriations and the proposals to fight city diseases do not.

Most of the powerful committee chairmen come from rural towns and do not understand big-city needs. Of the 16 Senate committees, 13 are headed by Senators from small towns. The Agriculture Committee, which takes a benevolent attitude toward rural problems, has 77-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender of Houma, La., as its chairman. The Public Welfare Committee, which is supposed to concern itself with city problems, is headed by 73-year-old Sen. Lister Hill of Montgomery, Ala.

Of the 20 House chairmen, 16 come from small towns. The Agriculture Committee is chaired by 68-year-old Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, Tex., and the Public Welfare Committee is run by 66-year-old Rep. Carl Perkins of Hindman, Ky.

The money must come from the Senate Appropriations Committee, whose chairman is 90-year-old Sen. Carl Hayden of Phoenix, Ariz., and the House Appropriations Committee, which is headed by 68-year-old Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, Tex.

Farms Vs. Slums

Here is how these aging, rural-minded leaders are spending the taxpayers' money to protect their own constituencies:

Bang's disease, which causes abortion in cows and hogs, can be passed on to people as undulant fever. The federal government pays a farmer up to $50 bonus to butcher a cow if it contracts Bang's disease. He also collects the regular market price for the meat. In most states, cattle herds must be tested each year; the cows are either certified as Bang's free or they are slaughtered. The program costs the taxpayers $21.5 million a year, plus another $250,000 for research. This is important to the nation's health but no more important, say, than an annual inspection program to certify apartment houses as rat-free.

Weed control costs the taxpayers $26.9 million doled out to the states, state universities and research stations, another $2.7 million spent for experimentation. Still another $3.2 million goes to eliminate witchweed, a parasitic growth that destroys corn crops in some Southern states. Water hyacinth control costs the taxpayers an additional $6.7 million a year to keep this weed out of Southern rivers. Water hyacinths choke the channels and waterways of the South to a point that fish are unable to live and motorboats get into propeller fouls. The grand total is close to $39 million, considerably more than the federal government spends to eliminate the weed of juvenile delinquency in the big cities.

Bovine tuberculosis, if transmitted to human beings, can cause hunch-backs and other malformations. All cattle in the country must be tested once a year for TB, though the chief cost is borne by the cattle owners. However, the taxpayers put up $3.4 million each year for surveys and testing. The same amount would go a long way toward testing the nation's slum children for sickness.

The Farm Extension Service draws $76.3 million annually from the Treasury to help farm families with their production and marketing problems, home economics and family living, and the 4-H movement for farm youth. For example, the 4-H Clubs—"head, hand, heart and health"—have been teaching better citizenship to farm boys and girls for a long time. Similar programs have been needed in the big cities. The home economics training, available to rural housewives, should also have been offered to slum women.

Yet another $2.3 million is spent by the government on improving the breeding strains of cattle, hogs, sheep and goats. Like the other farm programs, most of the cost is paid by city and suburban taxpayers. But the Congressmen from the country, whose seniority has given them control of Congress, appropriate the money for their constituents and neglect the teeming cities.

Cold War at Home

A great bureaucratic battle has been raging behind the scenes ever since President Johnson tried to merge the Labor and Commerce Departments.

There were whisperings that still other shake-ups would follow. Suddenly, rival agencies began raiding one another's territory and stealing one another's functions.

The Commerce Department, through its alliances on Capitol Hill, successfully defended its borders against the Labor Department. But Labor struck out in other directions. It started flanking movements to capture the Job Corps away from the Office of Economic Opportunity and to grab the manpower-training functions from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Under fire from the anti-nepotism guns, OEO is now fighting desperately to defend its territorial integrity against half a dozen departments.

The two newest bureaucratic kingdoms—the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Department of Transportation—already have started battling over the urban mass transportation function (and the appropriations that go with them). Several other agencies have also revived ancient animosities and petty rivalries. Out of it is almost certain to come more reorganization.

20-Man Delegation Will Observe Vietnam Election

BY JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has bowed to pressure but found a way to take some of the load off his own shoulders after listening to 24 days of new criticism about the way things are going in South Vietnam.

Johnson, with an instinct for the middle road, Wednesday night named a 20-man delegation of prominent citizens to go to Vietnam and observe the election. They will not be supervisors. They will not make a formal report.

But they apparently will be free to say what they think individually when they return here after the election Sept. 3. Since they probably won't agree, the chances of a continued dispute here look pretty good.

The new load of criticism began to hit Johnson July 31. There had been increasing growling about Johnson's handling of the war, particularly by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

On July 31 he introduced a resolution—the Senate hasn't acted on it yet and perhaps never will—that would greatly reduce a President's power in foreign affairs.

It would require joint approval by Congress and the President to seal any national commitment abroad. This already is required if the President wants to make a treaty. But a President can do a lot of things abroad without a treaty.

The President's Hands

So the Fulbright idea would tie a President's hands far more than ever before. Then on Aug. 10, 21 House Republicans called on its Foreign Affairs Committee to modify the Gulf of Tonkin resolution, which both houses approved in 1964. It pretty much gives the President a blank check on how he wants to stop Communist aggression in Vietnam.

On that same day 57 House Democrats called on Johnson to warn the ruling military regime in South Vietnam that unless it allows a fair presidential election there this country may do something about helping South Vietnam.

This followed reports from Saigon that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, running for vice president on the same ticket with Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, now head of state and running for president, had said the military junta was already making plans to retain power after the election no matter who won.

And that same day, Aug. 10, the other 10 presidential candidates opposing Thieu announced they would refuse to campaign unless assured by Thieu and Ky there would be an end to "harrassment."

Called Fraud and Farce

This was enough for some of the Senators growing ever more unhappy about the war. So on Aug. 11 a bunch of them—led by New York's two Senators, Robert F. Kennedy, Democrat, and Jacob K. Javits, Republican—began calling the upcoming elections a fraud, a farce, and a charade.

But that same day, the Thieu-Ky government invited Congress to send observers to Vietnam to insure the elections were free and open to scrutiny by all.

The Senate didn't want any part of that and rejected the invitation. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he saw no reason why Congress should involve itself. And Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said just about the same thing.

Five days later, Aug. 16, Johnson tried to soothe the senatorial fears by saying he already had told Thieu and Ky it was vital to keep the elections on the up and up and he said they promised to support the election outcome.

Foe of Communism

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—One reason for Communist strength in Vietnam today is that for 10 crucial years the Reds had overwhelming superiority in propaganda—including radio propaganda.

Vietnamese heard the Communist line day in and day out. There was little to counter it.

The same situation was held in northeastern Thailand, where Communists are building strength. Though there is a Thai government station in the area, this effort is out-gunned by the Communists.

This Communist propaganda superiority exists in many parts of the world.

At this time, therefore, it is tragic that Free Cuba Radio has gone off the air—for lack of funds. The operation beamed 13 hours a day of information to Latin America through stations in Miami, New Orleans, Santo Domingo and Key West.

Over the past seven years, its programs have helped keep hope—and sabotage—alive in Cuba.

Listeners in such Latin Communist target countries as Venezuela, Bolivia, Colombia, Argentina, and Mexico have voluntarily organized groups, gone out into the countryside to counter Red propaganda among the farmers.

The programs have received letters from 45 countries. It blanketed Latin America's 20 countries and the islands in the Caribbean.

Students, labor unions, women's groups and government officials have written in giving the programs credit for getting out the vote in elections in countries from Chile to the Dominican Republic.

What Free Cuba Radio did in the main was to attempt to get people on their own, without outside help, to solve their own problems in a democratic way by local action. The stations encouraged local groups to work for democratic elections and democratic institutions in their own way. The stations did not enter into local politics—though they gave the facts on communism.

Yet this program over all cost probably less than $300,000 a year.

Probably the major achievement of Free Cuba Radio has been to help keep up the morale of hundreds of thousands of Cubans who might have otherwise lost hope completely.

The programs have carried bread and butter advice to Cubans under Castro—techniques mothers could use to unbrainwash their children when they'd come home from hours of Communist drilling in Castro's schools, details on how to sabotage when cutting sugar cane, when riding in buses, at work in a factory and suggestions on how to hold up under Red pressures.

Official U.S. government propaganda stations will continue to operate programs beamed to Latin America. But there are many things a privately operated group of stations can do that the U.S. government can't. Private stations can be a great deal franker for one thing. They give a nonofficial point of view. They don't have to be lukewarm for fear of diplomatic repercussions.

It is unfortunate that we have not learned that it is cheaper and more effective to spend more energy and funds in encouraging the peoples in other countries to build the institutions that will fight communism. Radio, by itself, will not prevent Vietnams. But some radio programs can help.

$1.3 Billion Cost to Date

Viet Plane Losses Under Korea and WW 2

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say the rate of U.S. aircraft losses in Vietnam is lower than those of Korea and World War II. They credit improved flying tactics and new electronic countermeasures.

Military spokesmen contend recent fighter and bomber losses around Hanoi are not out of line with the number of raids being flown there.

Near Record for Week
Between Sunday and Thursday, the United States lost 12 planes in operations over North Vietnam—a near record for a single week.

But officers point out that during this period U.S. pilots have staged more than 800 missions involving perhaps as many as 3,200 separate flights against targets heavily shielded by North Vietnam's air defenses.

The Pentagon does not disclose numbers of individual flights, or sorties, flown over the North.

The military rule of thumb is that each mission involves 3.5 to 4 planes, on the average.

Communist guns, surface-to-air missiles and MIG fighters so far this year have knocked down U.S. planes at the rate of 1.6 per thousand sorties.

This compares with 2.2 per thousand in 1966, 3.2 in 1965 when the air campaign was launched, 3.5 during Korea and 9 per thousand during World War II.

650 Downed
To date the North Vietnamese have downed 650 American planes which cost this country an estimated $1.3 billion.

The number of U.S. raids on the North and the number of anti-aircraft weapons deployed in North Vietnam each have quadrupled since 1965.

Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force Chief of Staff, says the Hanoi-Haiphong area presents "the greatest concentration of

Top Brass Shakeup Seen In S. Vietnam.
SAIGON (AP) — A major shakeup was reported under way today among high-ranking generals of South Vietnam's armed forces.

One account from reliable sources said five generals would be relieved of their duties.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state, told newsmen that the nation's military rulers are discussing a plan that will "go from generals to second lieutenants."

He denied that any generals had been fired yet, adding, "We have not taken any decision, but it's our plan."

Qualified unofficial sources reported that Maj. Gen. Linh Quang Vien, the minister of security, and Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, the chief of staff of the joint general staff, would be relieved of their military duties and sent abroad as ambassadors.

These sources said Maj. Gen. Tran Ngoc Tam, South Vietnam's coordinator with the Free World Forces Command, and Maj. Gen. Bui Huu Nhon, commander of the Thu Duc military school would leave the army.

A fifth general was relieved of his duties, the sources said, but his identity could not be learned.

Reasons for the shakeup were not immediately made known.

Thieu said he could not say how many officers would be involved in the changes "because it would create some demoralization for others who believe they are."

Asked if the moves were being taken because of charges of corruption, inefficiency or for other reasons, he replied: "For many other reasons." Pressed as to whether accusations of corruption were a factor, he answered, "Yes."

The South Vietnamese army has been under heavy criticism because the major fighting now is being left to U. S. forces.

The removal of Vy, Tam and Nhon would take out of the top echelon most of the remaining natives of South Vietnam. The majority of the top military men are natives of North Vietnam who came south when the Communists took over.

Geographic origins play an important role in military and political circles in South Vietnam and often lead to friction.

anti-aircraft weapons that have never been known in the history of defense in any town or any area in the world."

156th Will Expand Its Riot Training
Kingston's 156th National Guard battalion today disclosed that they will begin an expanded program in riot control this weekend.

The new training will involve a total of 30 hours work in the mechanics of quelling civil disturbances. Previously, only eight hours training was devoted to riot control.

National Guardsmen will report Saturday morning, 6 a. m., to the North Manor Avenue armory where training is slated to be conducted. The drill will resume Sunday.

Questions Adequacy
In Washington today Maj. Gen. Charles A. Ott Jr. questioned the adequacy of the stepped-up riot control training now being given a half-million National Guardsmen.

Gen. Ott, who commanded troops in the 1965 Watts riot, says the guard may heighten violence if it deploys tanks and automatic weapons to quell street uprisings.

Following last month's Newark and Detroit riots, the Army prepared a crash program requiring all guardsmen to receive at least 32 hours riot control training in August and September.

Although the new training incorporates some lessons Guardsmen learned in recent riots, Ott said portions of the program are unrealistic.

The training directives say armored vehicles "should be employed where available and practical," but Ott said "50-caliber machine guns are unnecessary" in riot control.

"I don't think you should use armored vehicles such as tanks, in 1965 the North Vietnamese had about 2,100 anti-aircraft guns, plus 26 to 28 battalions armed with 6 to 8 missiles each.

Latest intelligence credits the enemy with 8,000 weapons, supplied by the Soviet Union and Red China. The number of misile units remains about the same—26 to 28 battalions, rotated among more than 150 missile firing sites in North Vietnam.

hydrants have been required to battle major fires. "You'd have to wrestle the firemen to get the hoses," Ott said. "There just aren't enough to go around."

The requirement that the new training be completed by the end of September has disrupted previously scheduled drills, Ott said.

Flexibility Lacking
"I've got artillerymen who instead of being engaged in firing their basic weapons (in summer camp) are engaged in 32 hours of riot control training," he said. "The training is a little bit too much of a crash nature and doesn't allow enough flexibility."

Asked whether the new training program is adequate, Ott replied:

"No. I don't think it is. Nor do I think it was designed to be completely adequate. The directive did leave a certain amount of leeway; commanders could have altered it. But most commanders are inclined to go right down the line because they feel someone is going to come out and check them."

The surface-to-air missiles have hit 75 American planes in 3,500 attempts. But the long, slender missiles force U.S. pilots into evasive maneuvers and down into intense flak.

North Vietnam's MIG fleet, regarded as a minimal threat, has grown only slightly since American raids on three of the country's major fields last spring.

Aero Airport In Port Ewen Opens Saturday
Aero Lake Airport in Port Ewen, a new transportation and recreation facility for Ulster County, will have its official opening Saturday, Aug. 26, at 10 a. m., it was announced today.

A story appearing in Thursday's edition of The Freeman listed the formal opening for Sunday morning.

Two Kingston residents, Gene Massa, a former Kingston High School All-DUSO grader for four years in a row and Sanford Whitman, have initiated the new service.

In addition to the airport, plans also call for camping facilities in the area of the airport.

TEARY — Leonard Sedillo, 3, holds back tears, as police and firemen work to free his left foot from four-inch pipe in vacant lot near his home in San Francisco yesterday. After an hour of labor with a jack hammer, hammer and chisel and shovels, Leonard's foot was eased free. "It was a bad day for Leonard," said his mother. "He had to go to the dentist earlier, and now this." (UPI TELEUTOTO).

No More Troops, Candidate Says

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese civilian candidate declared today that enough U.S. troops are fighting the war and no more should be sent. He said better use should be made of South Vietnamese troops.

The statement was made at a news conference called by Dr. Phan Khac Suu, speaker of South Vietnam's Constituent Assembly and one of the few presidential candidates with a widespread following, and his running mate, Dr. Phan Quang Dan.

The news conference was called specifically for the foreign press. English-speaking Dan fielded the questions, with Suu nodding agreement at his side.

"There are enough troops here, but we must make better use of them, particularly the South Vietnamese troops," Dan said.

"Too many American and allied troops have overpowered the South Vietnamese army. They are tempted to just sit on the sidewalk and watch you fight the war."

There are some 457,000 American troops in South Vietnam and the number is expected to reach half a million within a few months.

Assume Burdens
Noting that there are about a million South Vietnamese and allied soldiers in the country, Dan said: "There is no need to escalate the shooting war. Let's escalate everything else, the social war, and let the Vietnamese assume the main burden as they must."

Dan also warned of an "atmosphere of suspicion" that the military candidates—Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu for president and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky for vice president—would rig the elections.

Dan said, however, that so far the election campaign has been the freest ever held in South Vietnam.

SAIGON officials have announced that more than 600 persons from 41 nations will be on hand to observe the election Sept. 3 in which the voters will choose a Senate as well as a president and vice president.

There are 528 foreign news correspondents accredited to South Vietnam, and 80 others plan to be on hand for the balloting.

President Johnson is sending 20 prominent Americans here next week as observers and 48 are coming from other countries.

South Vietnam's militant Buddhists are planning demonstrations against Thieu and Ky if they win as they are expected to do, Vietnamese intelligence sources reported Thursday.

Meeting Set Of Clean Air Group Aug. 31
The Ulster County Citizens' Committee on Clean Air will hold its next meeting on Thursday, August 31 at 8 p. m. in the board of supervisors room at the Ulster County office building, Fair Street to formulate further plans to establish and implement regional legislation for air pollution control.

At the last meeting of the Committee, which was combined with the Citizens' Organization of Marbletown, Supervisor George Majestic introduced David L. Fletcher, chairman, who explained the purpose of the Clean Air Committee is to make recommendations from a citizen's viewpoint to the Board of Supervisors and other appropriate agencies to protect areas that have clean air now, and to abate contamination from industries, businesses, motor vehicles, and burning operations.

Various laws and ordinances from other areas will be discussed concerning the applicability of their provisions for this region. All interested are invited to attend.

Viet Plane Losses Under Korea and WW 2

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say the rate of U.S. aircraft losses in Vietnam is lower than those of Korea and World War II. They credit improved flying tactics and new electronic countermeasures.

Military spokesmen contend recent fighter and bomber losses around Hanoi are not out of line with the number of raids being flown there.

Near Record for Week — Between Sunday and Thursday, the United States lost 12 planes in operations over North Vietnam — a near record for a single week.

But officers point out that during this period U.S. pilots have staged more than 800 missions involving perhaps as many as 3,200 separate flights against targets heavily shielded by North Vietnam's air defenses.

The Pentagon does not disclose numbers of individual flights, or sorties, flown over the North.

The military rule of thumb is that each mission involves 3.5 to 4 planes, on the average.

Communist guns, surface-to-air missiles and MIG fighters so far this year have knocked down U.S. planes at the rate of 1.6 per thousand sorties.

This compares with 2.2 per thousand in 1966, 3.2 in 1965 when the air campaign was launched, 3.5 during Korea and 9 per thousand during World War II.

650 Downed — To date the North Vietnamese have downed 650 American planes which cost this country an estimated $1.3 billion.

The number of U.S. raids on the North and the number of anti-aircraft weapons deployed in North Vietnam each have quadrupled since 1965.

Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force Chief of Staff, says the Hanoi-Haiphong area presents "the greatest concentration of

Top Brass Shakeup Seen In S. Vietnam.

SAIGON (AP) — A major shakeup was reported under way today among high-ranking generals of South Vietnam's armed forces.

One account from reliable sources said five generals would be relieved of their duties.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, the chief of state, told newsmen that the nation's military rulers are discussing a plan that will "go from generals to second lieutenants." He denied that any generals had been fired yet, adding, "We have not taken any decision, but it's our plan."

Qualified unofficial sources reported that Maj. Gen. Linh Quang Vien, the minister of security, and Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, the chief of staff of the joint general staff, would be relieved of their military duties and sent abroad as ambassadors.

These sources said Maj. Gen. Tran Ngoc Tam, South Vietnam's coordinator with the Free World Forces Command, and Maj. Gen. Bui Huu Nhon, commander of the Thu Duc military school would leave the army.

A fifth general was relieved of his duties, the sources said, but his identity could not be learned.

Reasons for the shakeup were not immediately made known. Thieu said he could not say how many officers would be involved in the changes "because it would create some demoralization for others who believe they are."

Asked if the moves were being taken because of charges of corruption, inefficiency or for other reasons, he replied: "For many other reasons." Pressed as to whether accusations of corruption were a factor, he answered, "Yes."

The South Vietnamese army has been under heavy criticism because the major fighting now is being left to U.S. forces. The removal of Vy, Tam and Nhon would take out of the top echelon most of the remaining natives of South Vietnam. The majority of the top military men are natives of North Vietnam who came south when the Communists took over. Geographic origins play an important role in military and political circles in South Vietnam and often lead to friction.

156th Will Expand Its Riot Training

Kingston's 156th National Guard battalion today disclosed that they will begin an expanded program in riot control this weekend.

The new training will involve a total of 30 hours work in the mechanics of quelling civil disturbances. Previously, only eight hours training was devoted to riot control.

National Guardsmen will report Saturday morning, 6 a. m., to the North Manor Avenue armory where training is slated to be conducted. The drill will resume Sunday.

Questions Adequacy — In Washington today Maj.

Morton Says New Filter Not Accepted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tobacco-state senator says two major cigarette companies tested and found unsatisfactory cigarette filters developed by Robert L. Strickman.

One of the firms may take another look at the Strickman filter, now sponsored by Columbia University.

But that plan was left indefinite after Columbia President Grayson Kirk told senators Thursday the school has decided not to license any cigarette maker to use the filter until an extensive testing program is conducted "and the results prove entirely satisfactory."

The Senate inquiry into progress toward a safer cigarette is to conclude today with testimony from U.S. Surgeon General William Stewart and Dr. E. C. Hammond of the American Cancer Society.

Strickman was to have testified Thursday, but Kirk said he was ill and hospitalized. The inventor has said he offered a half-interest in the filter to Columbia after failing to get into the offices of cigarette companies in an effort to sell it.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., denied that, and said he wants to discuss the question with Strickman.

Morton said Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. of Louisville, Ky., tested the filter in Strickman's presence. "They didn't think according to their test that it was worth much," he said.

Brown & Williamson said its tests were conducted in May, 1966.

Later, a Morton assistant said the senator had learned that P. Lorillard Co., a New York-based cigarette and tobacco firm, also tested and rejected a Strickman filter.

In 1965 the North Vietnamese had about 2,100 anti-aircraft guns, plus 26 to 28 battalions armed with 6 to 8 missiles each.

Latest intelligence credits the enemy with 8,000 weapons, supplied by the Soviet Union and Red China. The number of missile units remains about the same—26 to 28 battalions, rotating among more than 150 missile firing sites in North Vietnam.

The surface-to-air missiles have hit 75 American planes in 3,500 attempts. But the long, slender missiles force U.S. pilots into evasive maneuvers and down into intense flak.

North Vietnam's MIG fleet, regarded as a minimal threat, has grown only slightly since American raids on three of the country's major fields last spring.

Hydrants have been required to battle major fires. "You'd have to wrestle the firemen to get the hoses," Ott said. "There just aren't enough to go around."

The requirement that the new training be completed by the end of September has disrupted previously scheduled drills, Ott said.

Flexibility Lacking — "I've got artillerymen who instead of being engaged in firing their basic weapons (in summer camp) are engaged in 32 hours of riot control training," he said. "The training is a little bit too much of a crash nature and doesn't allow enough flexibility."

Asked whether the new training program is adequate, Ott replied: "No, I don't think it is. Nor do I think it was designed to be completely adequate. The directive did leave a certain amount of leeway; commanders could have altered it. But most commanders are inclined to go right down the line because they feel someone is going to come out and check them."

"The people know you aren't going to use the tank's main armament, anyway."

Ott expressed fear that deployment of tanks and heavy military equipment at a riot scene could increase the violence.

Fears City Battle Fields — "If we really start escalating the tempo in these riots, the rioters are going to be ready," he said. "They're going to have their gasoline bombs ready and they're going to start killing soldiers."

"I hate to see our cities become battlefields."

A business executive who heads the Army National Guards' 40th Armored Division in California, Ott was interviewed after testifying Thursday before a House subcommittee conducting hearings on the guard's ability to cope with urban riots.

Ott said the Army's lesson plans are unrealistic in instructing Guardsmen to use water sprayed from fire hoses to disperse mobs. In recent riots, he said, all fire hoses and hydrants have been required to battle major fires. "You'd have to wrestle the firemen to get the hoses," Ott said. "There just aren't enough to go around."

The requirement that the new training be completed by the end of September has disrupted previously scheduled drills, Ott said.

Aero Airport In Port Ewen Opens Saturday

Aero Lake Airport in Port Ewen, a new transportation and recreation facility for Ulster County, will have its official opening Saturday, Aug. 26, at 10 a. m., it was announced today.

A story appearing in Thursday's edition of The Freeman listed the formal opening for Sunday morning.

Two Kingston residents, Gene Massa, a former Kingston High School All-DUSO grader for four years in a row and Sanford Whitman, have initiated the new service.

In addition to the airport, plans also call for camping facilities in the area of the airport.

Industrial Giant Dies in Paradise

HONOLULU (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser, founder of a billion-dollar industrial empire spread over 40 countries—died in his sleep Thursday. He was 85.

Kaiser was at his oceanfront estate about 10 miles from Honolulu when he was stricken by a circulatory and heart condition. At his side were his wife Alyce, whom he married after the death of his first wife in 1951; his son Edgar and Edgar's wife.

Kaiser was born May 9, 1882, at Sprout Brook, N.Y., one of four children of German immigrants. He started his career as a $150-a-week clerk in a Utica, N.Y., dry goods store after leaving school at 13 to help support his family.

Kaiser never longed for the "good old days." While celebrating his last birthday, the founder of the $2.7-billion complex said, "Yesterday is past. I always want to live this day to the fullest and to plunge into tomorrow's job."

Versatile Man
There was almost nothing Kaiser did not have a hand in: giant dams such as Hoover, Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Shasta; famed Liberty ships of World War II; the familiar Jeep; the Kaiser health centers; cement; aluminum; steel; chemicals; aircraft and missile components and electronic equipment; radio and television stations; hotels; and the latest, a new community of Hawaii-Kai in Honolulu with projected population of 60,000.

His Kaiser cement trucks carry a slogan, "Find a need and fill it."

This Kaiser did in Kaiser pink, the color of a coral-pink color as a Hawaiian trademark, putting it on speedboats, catamarans, outrigger canoes, jeeps, and even his clothing.

"Pink makes you feel good," he said. About the only venture in which Kaiser didn't achieve the success he sought was in making cars. For 10 years, 750,000 Kaisers, Kaiser-Frazer's and Henry J's rolled off the assembly lines. But competition was too stiff. Kaiser withdrew to concentrate on the Jeep-utility vehicles of all times.

Began in Lake Placid
Henry Kaiser's success began in Lake Placid, N.Y., where he worked for nothing in a photographic shop on condition that if he doubled business he would get a half interest. The business tripled, he became a partner at 22 bought it out a year later and added three stores in Florida and Nassau.

But the West held dreams of which his life was to be made. He moved to Spokane, Wash., in 1901 and went to work at a hardware firm for $7 a week. In 1912 he began managing road-paving contracts.

In 1914, at the age of 32, Henry J. Kaiser Co. Ltd., was formed at Vancouver, B.C., and the first job was two miles of road paving in the Canadian city.

Kaiser made his entry into California by jumping off a train which slowed down at Redding to drop off the mail. He won a bid for a 30-mile road between Red Bluff and Redding and in 1921 set up headquarters. Headquarters is still in Oakland in one room in the 28-story Kaiser Center.

A 200-mile, 500-bridge high way project in Cuba in 1927 pointed the way for bigger things. The young contractor visualized the joint venture concept which evolved into partnerships and associations of contractors for giant projects.

One such combine called Six Companies, Inc., with Henry Kaiser as executive committee chairman, built Hoover Dam on a bid of $48,890,000 and finished it in four years, two years ahead of schedule.

Shasta Dam Contract
Shasta Dam marked the beginning of Kaiser's industrial activity. His group lost the $36 million construction contract by $263,000. Although he had no plant, he submitted a bid on cement at 29 cents a barrel under that of a cement combine. He won the $7.7 million contract, built a cement plant at Permanente, Calif., and launched Kaiser Cement and Gypsum Corp.

Shipbuilding provided the big test for Kaiser, who mastered the "impossible," and red tape. World War I was under way and the Allies needed ships desperately. Britain called on Kaiser to build shipyards and 30 cargo ships.

At the peak, Kaiser and his associates operated 58 shipyards at seven yards. They built 1,490 ships, roughly 30 per cent of the American production of merchant shipping, during the war. Kaiser shipyards averaged one new ship a day and an aircraft carrier per week through prefabrication of major units and assembly-line fitting of parts.

Integrated Plant
To meet the need for steel ship plate, Kaiser built a steel plant at Fontana in Southern California, the first integrated plant in the West. Kaiser Steel is now ninth largest in the country.

While building his industrial empire, Kaiser was mindful of his employees. This brought the founding of the world's largest private system of hospitals and prepaid medical care—Kaiser's pride and joy.

Kaiser turned over active direction of the Kaiser Industries to his son Edgar and moved to Hawaii in 1954. He continued as board chairman to his death.

BEHIND SCHEDULE—Rescue teams fight rushing water from a broken dam near Hefflin, Ala., yesterday, to reach 27 trapped Greyhound bus passengers. Boats were used to remove all of the passengers. None were reported injured.

A 14 year old boy member of the rescue party has been reported missing. Heavy rains flooded sections of the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama.

Foreign Aid Measure Slashed by House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, laboring through a marathon 15-hour session, voted early today to slash President Johnson's foreign aid requests by a half billion dollars to $2.8 billion.

Even after a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition pushed through floor cuts of $344 million—and the House accepted earlier committee cuts of $219 million for a total of $563 million less than Johnson asked—the Democratic leadership was able to get the reduced version through by only an eight-vote margin.

The final count, recorded at 3:36 a.m., was 202 to 194. Many members had long since fled the chamber.

Even with the extensive pruning, the House-passed measure still contains nearly $200 million more than the Senate approved last week.

The differences, mostly in the military assistance section of the legislation, now must be resolved by a two-house conference committee.

Just before passing the measure, the House overturned an earlier 145-141 vote and cut an additional $33 million in technical assistance funds. The Republican move won the second time around, 234 to 163.

Included among the major cuts were $150 million from the development loan program, $72 million from the alliance for progress and $25 million from the President's contingency fund.

Another $60 million for support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was chopped out after members were told they already had authorized the money in a separate bill passed earlier.

Despite the deep cuts, administration forces weren't totally without success.

Staved off were bids to pare $120 million from the support assistance program, and an additional $70 million from the Alliance for Progress, the program conceived by President John F. Kennedy to aid Latin American countries.

But the Democratic leadership was turned back in an attempt to restore a second-year authorization for the Alliance for Progress.

The House also adopted by voice vote an amendment by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., to ban military aid of troops from nations that have broken diplomatic ties with the United States.

The move is aimed at those Arab countries which broke relations during the Middle East crisis.

Some 426 soldiers from such Arab nations currently are receiving training in the United States.

The House also voted 236 to 157 to eliminate from the bill a section granting the government additional authority to sell arms to foreign nations, but did not put any curbs on existing authority for such sales.

The Senate version would revoke existing authority for the arms sales, defended by the administration as a key section of its foreign policy.

A City Manager Plan . . .

ending his second four-year term and is up for election on the Republican ticket again. There are six councilmen, four of them Democratic. Two of them run for office every two years.

Ellis said the mayor's job amounts to a complaint hearer. He said he and the council make the policy and the manager carries it out.

That is the basic idea of the city manager form of government. Of course, it's not quite that simple. Politics are going to enter any government setup whether it be city manager type or mayor.

A candidate for mayor in Poughkeepsie, Louis Fiore, had more to say on the relationship between elected officials and appointed officials, i.e., the aldermen and the manager.

Says People Loser
Fiore claimed that by creating a city manager form of government the power was taken from the people since their elected officials no longer administered the government.

He gave an example of an alderman receiving a complaint from a constituent and taking it to the manager. If the manager does not remedy the complaint, the alderman has no recourse but to call for a directive from the entire common council. This is rarely passed, according to Fiore.

Fiore also claimed that the creation of a city manager gave aldermen an additional place to "pass the buck." He said that some aldermen in Poughkeepsie took any and all opportunities to drop all complaints in the lap of the city manager.

Poughkeepsie's population is roughly 38,000 with an $8 million budget. The city manager, Theodore Maurer, is paid $19,250 per year. The mayor earns $3,500.

Poughkeepsie has had a city manager since 1952. Maurer is the third manager. The council is split four and four, with a Republican mayor, William Mitchell.

Sees Party Control
Mayor Malcolm E. Ellis of Schenectady was a strong supporter of the city manager form of government but added that the party in power pretty much controls the manager.

The city manager in Schenectady earns $21,850 per year to administer the $15 million-plus budget. Mayor Ellis is paid $5,000 a year. The mayor is

Wiltwyck Employee Arrested

A bartender at the Wiltwyck Country Club was arrested Thursday by Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Department and charged with having burglarized the club over the past weekend.

Charged with entering the club last Sunday when $1,367 was reported missing, is Fred Van Winkle, 30, of Rt. 3, Box 481, New Paltz. Van Winkle was arraigned before Town of Ulster Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly Thursday and held in $1,000 cash bail for a preliminary hearing on Aug. 30.

When booked at the jail, Van Winkle gave his occupation as a cook and professional horseman. He was apprehended in the Town of New Paltz, where Bowers said, Van Winkle had his possessions loaded on a truck, apparently ready to leave the locality.

Only $220 was recovered. $200 in cash and a $20 money order.

According to the investigating officers, Van Winkle had been at the club during the day but left and allegedly returned later. Entrance was gained by breaking a window and unlocking a door. The money was taken from a locked cabinet.

Only one of two bags containing money was taken. The cash register till, containing silver was not disturbed. It is alleged a tire tool was used in breaking the window, Bowers said.

Industrial Giant Dies in Paradise

HONOLULU (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser—founder of a billion-dollar industrial empire spread over 40 countries—died in his sleep Thursday. He was 85.

Kaiser was at his oceanfront estate about 10 miles from Honolulu when he was stricken by a circulatory and heart condition.

At his side were his wife Alyce, whom he married after the death of his first wife in 1951; his son Edgar and Edgar's wife.

Kaiser was born May 9, 1882, at Sprout Brook, N.Y., one of four children of German immigrants. He started his career as a $1.50-a-week clerk in a Utica, N.Y., dry goods store after leaving school at 13 to help support his family.

Kaiser never longed for the "good old days." While celebrating his last birthday, the founder of the $2.7-billion complex said, "Yesterday is past. I always want to live this day to the fullest and to plunge into tomorrow's job."

Versatile Man
There was almost nothing Kaiser did not have a hand in: giant dams such as Hoover, Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Shasta; famed Liberty ships of World War II; the familiar Jeep; the Kaiser health centers; cement; aluminum; steel; chemicals; aircraft and missile components and electronic equipment; radio and television stations; hotels; and the latest, a new community of Hawaii-Kai in Honolulu with projected population of 60,000.

Pink Kaiser cement trucks carry a slogan, "Find a need and fill it."
"Pink Kaiser did—in Kaiser pink. He chose a coral-purple color as a Hawaiian trademark, putting it on speedboats, catamarans, outrigger canoes, jeeps and even his clothing.

"Pink makes you feel good," he said.
About the only venture in which Kaiser didn't achieve the success he sought was in making cars. For 10 years, 750,000 Kaisers, Kaiser-Frazers and Henry J's rolled off the assembly lines. But competition was too stiff. Kaiser withdrew to concentrate on the Jeep—utility vehicles of all times.

Began in Lake Placid
Henry Kaiser's success began in Lake Placid, N.Y., where he worked for nothing in a photographic shop on condition that if he doubled business he would get a half interest. The business tripled, he became a partner at 22 bought it out a year later and added three stores in Florida and Nassau.

But the West held dreams of which his life was to be made. He moved to Spokane, Wash., in 1903 and went to work at a hardware firm for $7 a week. In 1912 he began managing road-paving contracts.

In 1914, at the age of 32, Henry J. Kaiser Co. Ltd., was formed at Vancouver, B.C., and the first job was two miles of road paving in the Canadian city.

Kaiser made his entry into California by jumping off a train which slowed down at Redding to drop off the mail. He won a bid for a 30-mile road between Red Bluff and Redding and in 1921 set up headquarters. Headquarters is still in Oakland in one room in the 28-story Kaiser Center.

A 200-mile, 500-bridge highway project in Cuba in 1927 pointed the way for bigger things. The young contractor visualized the joint venture concept which evolved into partnerships and associations of contractors for giant projects.

One such combine called Six Companies, Inc., with Henry Kaiser as executive committee chairman, built Hoover Dam on a bid of $48,890,000 and finished it in four years, two years ahead of schedule.

Shasta Dam Contract
Shasta Dam marked the beginning of Kaiser's industrial activity. His group lost the $36 million construction contract by $263,000. Although he had no plant, he submitted a bid on cement at 29 cents a barrel under that of a cement combine. He won the $7.7 million contract, built a cement plant at Permanente, Calif., and launched Kaiser Cement and Gypsum Corp. Shipbuilding provided the big test for Kaiser, who mastered the "impossible" and red tape. World War I was under way and the Allies needed ships desperately. Britain called on Kaiser to build shipyards and 30 cargo ships.

At the peak, Kaiser and his associates operated 58 shipyards at seven yards. They built 1,490 ships, roughly 30 per cent of the American production of merchant shipping, during the war. Kaiser shipyards averaged one new ship a day and an aircraft carrier per week through prefabrication of major units and assembly-line fitting of parts.

Integrated Plant
To meet the need for steel ship plate, Kaiser built a steel plant at Fontana in Southern California, the first integrated plant in the West. Kaiser Steel is now ninth largest in the country.

While building his industrial empire, Kaiser was mindful of his employees.
This brought the founding of the world's largest private system of hospitals and prepaid medical care—Kaiser's pride and joy.

Kaiser turned over active direction of the Kaiser Industries to his son Edgar and moved to Hawaii in 1954. He continued as board chairman to his death.

BEHIND SCHEDULE—Rescue teams fight rushing water from a broken dam near Heflin, Ala., yesterday, to reach 27 trapped Greyhound bus passengers. Boats were used to remove all of the passengers. None were reported injured.

A 14 year old boy member of the rescue party has been reported missing. Heavy rains flooded sections of the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama.

Foreign Aid Measure Slashed by House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, laboring through a marathon 15-hour session, voted early today to slash President Johnson's foreign aid requests by a half billion dollars to $2.8 billion.

Even after a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition pushed through floor cuts of $344 million—and the House accepted earlier committee cuts of $219 million for a total of $563 million less than Johnson asked—the Democratic leadership was able to get the reduced version through by only an eight-vote margin.

The final count, recorded at 3:36 a.m., was 202 to 194. Many members had long since fled the chamber.

Even with the extensive pruning, the House-passed measure still contains nearly $200 million more than the Senate approved last week.

The differences, mostly in the military assistance section of the legislation, now must be resolved by a two-house conference committee.

Just before passing the measure, the House overturned an earlier 145-141 vote and cut an additional $33 million in technical assistance funds. The Republican move won the second time around, 234 to 163.

Included among the major cuts were $150 million from the development loan program, $72 million from the alliance for progress and $25 million from the President's contingency fund.

Another $60 million for support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was chopped out after members were told they already had authorized the money in a separate bill passed earlier.

Despite the deep cuts, administration forces weren't totally without success.

Staved off were bids to pare $120 million from the support assistance program, and an additional $70 million from the Alliance for Progress, the program conceived by President John F. Kennedy to aid Latin American countries.

But the Democratic leadership was turned back in an attempt to restore a second-year authorization for the Alliance for Progress eliminated Wednesday by an amendment.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the Armed Services Committee sponsored the cut in NATO funds, approved 148 to 78.

The House also adopted by voice vote an amendment by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., to ban military aid of troops from nations that have broken diplomatic ties with the United States.

The move is aimed at those Arab countries which broke relations during the Middle East crisis. Some 426 soldiers from such Arab nations currently are receiving training in the United States.

The House also voted 236 to 157 to eliminate from the bill a section granting the government additional authority to sell arms to foreign nations, but did not put any curbs on existing authority for such sales.

The Senate version would require existing authority for the arms sales, defended by the administration as a key section of its foreign policy.

ending his second four-year term and is up for election on the Republican ticket again. There are six councilmen, four of them Democratic. Two of them run for office every two years.

Ellis said the mayor's job amounts to a complaint hearer. He said he and the council make the policy and the manager carries it out.

That is the basic idea of the city manager form of government. Of course, it's not quite that simple. Politics are going to enter any government setup whether it be city manager type. S. James Matthews' comments.

Charged with entering the club last Sunday when $1,367 was reported missing, is Fred Van Winkle, 30, of Rt. 3, Box 481, New Paltz. Van Winkle was arraigned before Town of Ulster Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly Thursday and held in $1,000 cash bail for a preliminary hearing on Aug. 30.

When booked at the jail, Van Winkle gave his occupation as cook and professional horseman. He was apprehended in the Town of New Paltz, where Bowers said, Van Winkle had his possessions loaded on a truck, apparently ready to leave the locality.

Only $220 was recovered. $200 in cash and a $20 money order.

According to the investigating officers, Van Winkle had been at the club during the day but left and allegedly returned later. Entrance was gained by breaking a window and unlocking a door. The money was taken from a locked cabinet.

Only one of two bags containing money was taken. The cash register, containing silver was not disturbed. It is alleged a fire tool was used in breaking the window, Bowers said.

Joe Wants Congressmen To File Membership Lists

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., said Thursday that any code of ethics for congressmen should include a requirement that members file a list of membership in all organizations which lobby before Congress.

No Extra Hurley Days For PPR

The town board of the Town of Hurley at its last meeting decided not to schedule any special days for registration but rely on the regular registration days in October. Under the new Permanent Personal Registration, which becomes effective this year throughout the county, several towns have scheduled special registration days in addition to the regular October dates.

For this time at least, the town board of Hurley is of the opinion that registration can be taken care of on the regular registration days and it will not be necessary to designate special days. Personal registration is now going on at the Board of Elections office in the County Office Building, Kingston. This Central Registration will end Sept. 2.

"We feel that the regular 10-day period in October is sufficient in our town," a town official said after the board meeting.

Identify Plane

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Nationalist Chinese air force said today that a mystery plane which crashed Wednesday in the South China Sea was one of its planes on a training mission.

It said the plane went down after experiencing difficulties but gave no details on the trouble, the type of plane, number of passengers or casualties. It previously had denied losing a plane Wednesday.

A Hong Kong aviation official reported a plane down Wednesday about 100 to 125 miles south-east of Hong Kong. He said it first was believed to be a U. S. military transport but later was listed as unidentified.

Airline pilots said they had intercepted radio reports that nine persons were aboard. The captain of a British search vessel said he had been told to look for a C-123 transport.

Capt. G.A. Kitchen of the British frigate Ajax said two Nationalist Chinese had been rescued and one body recovered from the sea.

Woodstock Postpones Water Carnival

Parents are invited to attend with their children at Lee Memorial Field.

Lapo also announced that the swimming pool facility will remain open until Sept. 1.

Seeger to Guest

NEW YORK (AP)—Folk singer Pete Seeger is scheduled to make his first national network television appearance in more than 17 years this fall.

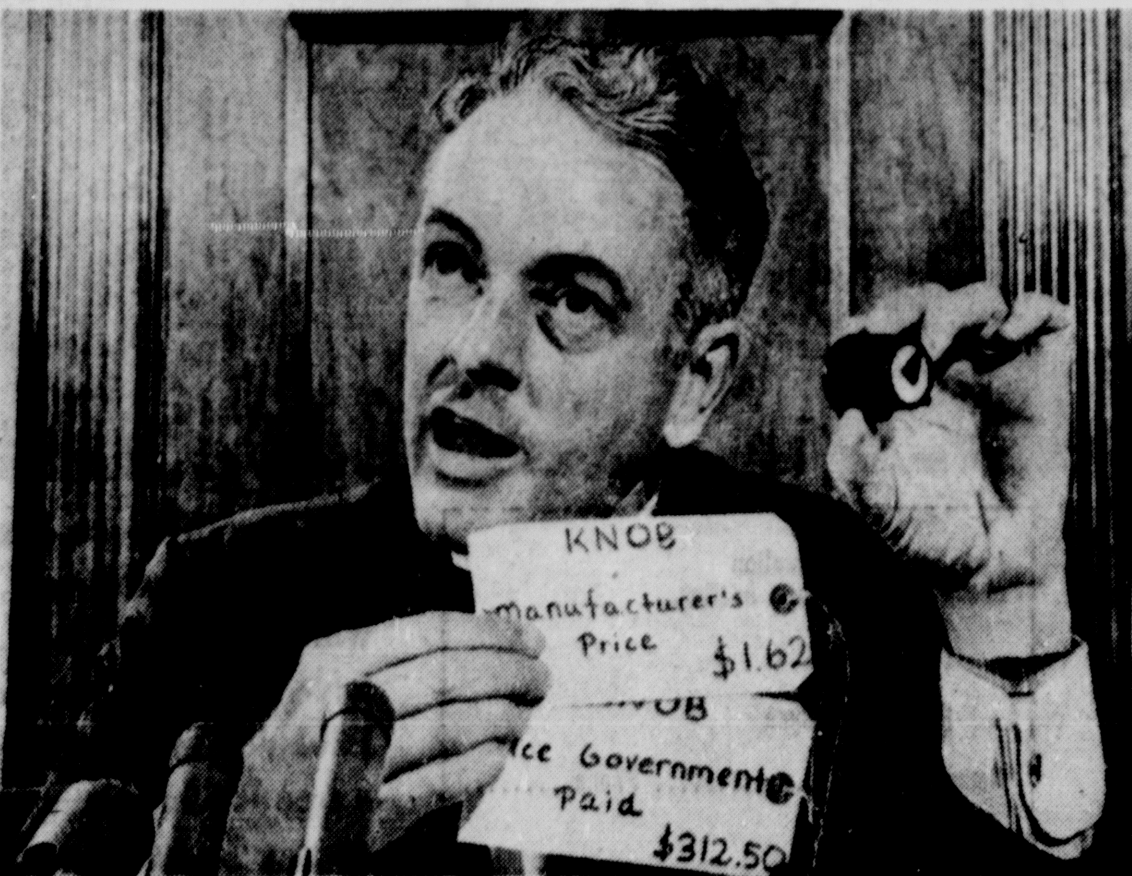

He is slated to perform Sept. 10 on the "Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The controversial singer and song writer said Thursday he had not been asked to sign any oaths or statements for the appearance.

Seeger has claimed that he was "blacklisted" since 1950 from national television because he has refused to sign loyalty oaths.

Mones Urges County Rec Commission

Melvin Mones, Republican candidate for county legislator for the City of Kingston, proposes that a county recreation commission be established, the purpose being that of "supervising, operating and maintaining, and expanding recreation facilities on a county-wide basis."

Mones said that, "The field and scope of recreation has grown in our country to tremendous proportions. We pride ourselves here in Kingston and in Ulster County on having magnificent natural resources and settings. Yet, these have not been tapped."

Mones expressed the belief that more people would be attracted "to our area" if there were "adequate beaches, parks, lakefronts, picnic grounds, and similar facilities."

The county legislator candidate believes that such projects could be "practically self-supporting" after an initial outlay of funds, and he said that he solicited on percentage-of-gross bids, the highest responsible bidder being awarded an annual contract.

The monies thus gathered "would . . . be used for the maintenance and upkeep of these facilities."

Republican - Conservative Mones further said that "I intend to investigate the possibilities for such projects." He added that "State funds are available" and he urged "Ulster County to get its share."

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — The American pacifists and a Japanese woman left Hiroshima today aboard the yacht Phoenix for a second trip with medical supplies for North Vietnam.

Quakers Bob Eaton, 23, and John Braxton, 18, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Beryl Nelson, 23, of Kokomo, Ind., were accompanied by Kyoko Koda, 25, a member of the Japan Peace for Vietnam Committee.

They sailed for Haiphong with $5,000 worth of medical goods donated by the Quakers Action Group in Philadelphia despite U. S. government disapproval and refusal by the State Department to give them passport authorization for the trip.

The Phoenix is owned by Dr. Earle Reynolds, 56, pacifist educator who made a similar trip to North Vietnam last March accompanied by Eaton.

Q "Since my son went to high school, I have been buying drug stocks. He wants to be a pharmacist and I thought this might help him. I have Parke, Davis and Merck. My next choice is Warner-Lambert. My question is, should I keep on buying drug stocks when my son goes to college?" G. P. A) I think it is very laudable of you to want to encourage your son's interest in pharmacy. I believe, though, that sentiment should play no part in stock selection and that investing too heavily in any one group can be downright dangerous. Stocks in all groups often tend to move in unison and overconcentration can cost you money. Parke, Davis is heavily dependent on Chloromycetin on which its basic patent has expired. Earnings have been going down and I would switch this stock into more broadly based Sterling Drug. Merck is an excellent holding. Warner-Lambert is widely diversified and may be bought. Thereafter would switch to another group.

Kingston Duo In Dutchess Jail for Drugs

A Kingston couple is in the Dutchess County Jail today on charges which include shoplifting and possession of marijuana and a hypodermic syringe.

Town of Poughkeepsie officials told The Freeman today that Ruth Jenkins, 20, of 46 Sterling Street, Kingston, was arrested on a shoplifting charge last night at 9:35 on a complaint filed by Bradlee's Department Store in Poughkeepsie.

The Jenkins woman was arraigned before Town Judge George Begonis and remanded to the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $100 bail. She pleaded not guilty to the petty larceny charges.

Shortly after being jailed, the Jenkins woman was bailed out by John V. Schoonmaker, 22, of 37 Liberty Street, Kingston.

Town Police patrolling Bradlee's parking lot at 1:20 a. m. spotted a car with a couple in it and investigated.

They reportedly found the Jenkins woman in possession of marijuana, a felony, and Schoonmaker in possession of a hypodermic syringe, a misdemeanor.

Arraigned before Judge Begonis, the girl was remanded to the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail and Schoonmaker in lieu of $150 bail.

They will have a hearing Tuesday at 7 p. m. in Town Court.

Quads Born In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 34-year-old mother of six children gave birth early today to quadruplet boys in DePaul Hospital.

Dr. Nicholas A. Correnti, the attending physician, said the mother, Mrs. Richard Kahrenkrog of St. Louis County, and her sons were in good condition.

The first child was delivered, Correnti said, at 1:03 a. m. and weighed 5 pounds, 2 ounces. The second arrived at 1:42 a. m. weighing 4 pounds, 7 ounces; the third at 1:45 weighed 4 pounds, 3 ounces, and the fourth at 1:47 weighed 5 pounds, 1 ounce.

The Fahrenkrogs' other children—three boys and three girls—range from one to nine years of age. The father is an electrical engineer.

Correnti said, "The father predicted that they would all be boys, but we thought there would be at least one or two girls. We tried to call Lloyds of London and make a bet on his hunch, but we waited too long."

The father, "overjoyed," was reported by Correnti as calmly watching television in the waiting room during the births.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pianist-comedian Victor Borge must pay some $277,000 in back federal income taxes, the U. S. Tax Court has ruled.

The court also said in its ruling Thursday that Danica, a corporation organized and owned by Borge, must pay more than $73,000 in back taxes.

Tax Court Judge J. Edgar Murdock concurred with the Internal Revenue Service which held that Borge founded the corporation for the principal purpose of evading federal income taxes.

Borge said it was formed to give him future financial security apart from any earnings for professional engagements.

Insurance Industry Suggests Federal Aid

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Faced with the necessity of paying something near $100 million for policyholder losses in this year's urban riots, the insurance industry is now suggesting it needs some form of government aid.

This is especially significant because this industry not only is one of the very largest in the nation but one that also has, in the past, carefully avoided having its freedom curtailed by federal power.

Open Door to Regulation

Many observers are suggesting that the industry is now opening the door to regulation by seeking federal aid.

It would seem that any industry, even the property and liability insurance industry with its assets of $42 billion, has a case for some sort of aid, because not even the most cynical preview of social events could have led insurance men to believe their losses would be so great.

But a quick check of disaster figures in other years shows no consequent appeal for government reinsurance or other assistance.

In 1965, for example, parts of Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi were ravaged by Hurricane Betsy with an insured loss of $715 million. This one storm caused seven times as much damage as all this year's urban riots.

Q "My mother passed away leaving me alone. For ten years mother was an invalid and I took care of her. I own 223 shares of American Telephone and a bank account of $10,000. Should I keep all my American Telephone or sell some and bank the money at 4 1/2 per cent?" C.W.

A) You have my deepest sympathy for having lost someone you've looked after for so long. You have too much of your capital in American Telephone, but rather than add to your bank account, I would switch part of this holding into other issues. Savings accounts are fixed principal investments and offer no protection against further devaluation of the dollar. For diversification, I suggest that you sell 123 shares of American Telephone and put the proceeds into equal dollar amounts of Duquesne Light, Washington Water Power and C. I. T. Financial, which would yield on average over five per cent.

(Copr. T-M, 1967 Gen. Fea. Corp.)

One year earlier Hurricane Cleo caused an insured loss of $67.2 million in Florida. In 1962 the industry had to pay $81 million in damage claims from a windstorm in California, Oregon and Washington. Measured another way, against yearly fire losses, the damage from riots has been only a small percentage. In each of the past 10 years fire losses have exceeded a billion dollars and now are near a rate of $1.5 billion.

Savings Banks Note Increase In Mortgages

New York State savings banks had a net increase in holdings of permanent real estate mortgages of $150,700,000 for the month ending July 31, 1967, the Savings Banks Association of New York State reported today. This increase brought the total mortgage investment to a record $30,112,000,000 and compares with the July 1966 increase of $158,000,000.

Dr. Austin S. Murphy, association managing director, said the total increase in permanent real estate holdings for the year ending this July 31 was $2,076,000,000 or 7.4 per cent over the year ending July 1966. Mortgage loan holdings are now 79.3 per cent of total assets, which represents only a slight change from the same time last year, he indicated.

Total assets of the State's savings banks on this July 31 were $37,977,300,000 compared to $34,700,000,000 one year ago.

The insurance companies also suggest that payment for the riots is the responsibility of society, not just of the insurance industry.

T. Lawrence Jones, president of the American Insurance Association, commented that "no one sector of the economy, such as the insurance companies can or should bear the economic cost of these occurrences."

But an even greater concern is not with the damage done in the past so much as a fear of recurrences. If statements by some militant Negroes leaders are to be believed, similar riots could occur in the future.

"The potential losses from similar events in the future," said Jones, "are so severe that no economically bearing insurance rates could cover them."

So the possibility of the federal government entering the picture is a real one. Already a presidential panel is studying the problem and Congress is studying a bill to underwrite up to $1.5 billion in insurance loss-holders in the low-risk areas.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed for its fifth straight daily decline in moderately active trading early Friday.

Losses outnumbered gains by more than 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was down about 5 points.

Down a point or more were such stocks as Boeing, United Aircraft, du Pont, IBM and Xerox.

General Motors and United Airlines lost about a point each.

Standard Oil of Indiana and Consolidated Cigar bucked the trend with gains of at least a point.

Steels, autos, aerospace issues, utilities, nonferrous metals, chemicals, rails and oils were among the losers.

The penetration of the significant 900 pavel in the Dow industrials Thursday signalled further selling to chart followers, analysts said.

Chock Full O' Nuts fell 1 1/4 to 16 on an opening block of 8,300 shares.

On Thursday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.0 to 331.8.

Mones Urges County Rec Commission

Melvin Mones, Republican-Conservative candidate for county legislator for the City of Kingston, proposes that a county recreation commission be established, the purpose being that of "supervising, operating and maintaining, and expanding recreation facilities on a county-wide basis."

Mones said that, "The field and scope of recreation has grown in our country to tremendous proportions. We pride ourselves here in Kingston and in Ulster County on having magnificent natural resources and settings. Yet, these have not been tapped."

Mones expressed the belief that more people would be attracted "to our area" if there were "adequate beaches, parks, lakefronts, picnic grounds, and similar facilities."

The county legislator candidate believes that such projects could be "practically self-supporting" after an initial outlay of funds, and he said that commercial concessions "could be solicited on percentage-of-gross bids, the highest responsible bidder being awarded an annual contract."

The monies thus gathered "would . . . be used for the maintenance and upkeep of these facilities."

Republican - Conservative Mones further said that "I intend to investigate the possibilities for such projects." He added that "State funds are available" and he urged "Ulster County to get its share."

But a quick check of disaster figures in other years shows no consequent appeal for government reinsurance or other assistance.

In 1965, for example, parts of Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi were ravaged by Hurricane Betsy with an insured loss of $715 million. This one storm caused seven times as much damage as all this year's urban riots.

One year earlier Hurricane Cleo caused an insured loss of $67.2 million in Florida. In 1962 the industry had to pay $81 million in damage claims from a windstorm in California, Oregon and Washington. Measured another way, against yearly fire losses, the damage from riots has been only a small percentage. In each of the past 10 years fire losses have exceeded a billion dollars and now are near a rate of $1.5 billion.

All these risks the insurance industry has assumed without appeals for aid. Why, then, do they seek government assistance to pay for the riots?

Several reasons are given. First, hurricanes and fires generally are predictable in number and damage to a degree. Previous losses suggest a trend for the future and so premiums are raised or lowered accordingly. The riots, as one insurance executive explained, were not foreseen. Premium charges had not been raised in anticipation of such huge losses, he said.

The riots also are discriminatory in that they concentrate their damage in small sections of cities. The cost of protecting these "high-risk" areas cannot easily be spread among policyholders in the low-risk areas.

But an even greater concern is not with the damage done in the past so much as a fear of recurrences. If statements by some militant Negroes leaders are to be believed, similar riots could occur in the future.

"The potential losses from similar events in the future," said Jones, "are so severe that no economically bearing insurance rates could cover them."

So the possibility of the federal government entering the picture is a real one. Already a presidential panel is studying the problem and Congress is studying a bill to underwrite up to $1.5 billion in insurance losses.

WHEN TO BUY A HOME

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 25—Right now, people in practically every community in the United States are trying to decide when is the best time to buy a home. A good many of them are shying away because of high costs...not realizing that postponement will gain them little or nothing.

Prices for Land

Prices for land in some sections may be slow to appreciate, but prices for most large tracts in the United States are firmly locked in a long-term uptrend. Advancing population and industrial expansion as well as the encroachment of superhighways and sprawling airports are causing higher land tags generally—almost from month to month.

Of course these values could dip in time of widespread economic recession. Also, parcels in certain localities could weaken because of a deteriorating neighborhood or business district. So, if you have been holding up on plans to build or buy a home because you expect a worthwhile slide-off in land prices, forget it!

And unless you should eventually happen upon a lucky deal, there's not too much chance either that a postponement will get you any great cutback in building costs or in the price of an existing home. Quotes for labor and materials are trending upward, reflecting costlier wage and fringe-benefit packages obtained by employees in the building trades and reflecting also the impact of heavier taxes and more liberal minimum-wage laws.

In the case of existing houses, there has been a fairly steady uptrend in prices in recent years. Used houses sold in May of this year brought a medium price nearly $700.00 above that attained a year earlier, according to a countrywide survey made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Chances are that prices will rise as much or more in the year ahead.

Mortgage Money

The pressures of the Vietnam war and of the government's ambitious Great Society programs, plus record expansion in expenditures for new and updated plant and equipment, have created an excessive demand for capital. This has raised mortgage rates to the highest levels in many a decade. There is only scant hope that they will decline more than fractionally any time soon.

But mortgage rates and the availability of mortgage money do vary considerably from area to area, and even from bank to bank in the same area. In June, the average interest rate on new mortgages was 6.29 per cent., up from 6.28 per cent. in May; and in many parts of the country mortgages can be negotiated at rates closer to, or even below, 6 per cent. Of course, as a general rule you will pay a good deal more in the West, where rates have ruled much higher for many years. The important point is: If you shop carefully, you can probably get a better mortgage deal than you expect...

Canadians to Help

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Gov. John W. King said Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz approved recently bringing some 400 Canadians into New Hampshire to help pick the state's anticipated 1.5-million-bushel apple crop.

even in these days of high interest rates and tighter availability.

Personal Considerations

With the exception of the very newly married, whose resources may be too slender to warrant building or buying a home at this time, conditions probably are not such as to warrant your postponing the building or purchase of a home which you need or could use to good advantage right now. In the matter of a home, personal considerations should rule. Any time is the right time to build or buy if the investment will result in healthier, happier living for family members.

But where you build or buy, investigate carefully, plan wisely, "cutting your cloth"—and the size and over-all cost of the house—to what you need for gracious (not extravagant) living and what you can afford without going too deeply into debt.

New Teachers Announced For Saugerties Schools

Fourteen teachers for the 1967-68 school year were appointed by the Saugerties Central School District Board of Education upon the recommendation of Superintendent Dr. Dexter O. Arnold during the August meeting.

Patrick Bentley of Tupper Lake, a graduate of St. Lawrence University, will teach fifth grade at the Main Street School.

Miss Frances Breitkopf of Woodstock, a graduate of New York University, will teach elementary art. She has previous teaching experience in the New York City schools.

Lawrence Dake of Sidney, a graduate of Colgate University, will teach English in the Junior High School.

William Donovan of Kingston and Peter Schriber, also of Kingston, will teach mathematics in the junior high school. Donovan, a graduate of Monmouth College, has previously taught in Kingston and has served in the U. S. Navy. Schriber, a New Paltz graduate, has been teaching at Hall Hollows Hills Central School in Wallkill.

Miss Constance Hintz of St. Joseph, Mo., is a graduate of the University of Missouri and will teach English in the Junior High School.

Mrs. Estelle King of West Hurley, a graduate of Boston University, has been assigned to an elementary music position.

Mrs. Ronald Klock of Stone Ridge, a graduate of Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa., will teach third grade at the Mt. Marion School.

Fair Senators

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The state's two U.S. Senators pay separate visits to the Erie County Fair today and Saturday.

Democrat Robert F. Kennedy planned an afternoon tour today of the 28th annual exposition in nearby Hamburg. His republican colleague, Jacob K. Javits, will pay a brief visit Saturday, his office said, then helicopter to a GOP picnic in Livingston County.

Paul Larose will teach physical education in the elementary schools. Larose, a resident of Gonic, N. H., has taught previously in Rochester and Rye, N. H. He holds a Master of Education degree from Boston University.

Mrs. Terrie Rosenblum of Woodstock will teach physical education in the elementary schools. She is a graduate of therapy. Prior to entering

New York University and has taught in the New York City schools.

Also teaching physical education in the elementary schools is William Schimer, a Saugerties native and a graduate of the University of Miami.

William Sisler of Bearsville and a graduate of Fordham University will teach speech schools. She is a graduate of teaching. Sisler worked in industry.

Mrs. Nancy Wells of Kingston will teach mathematics in the Senior High School. She is a graduate of New Paltz College.

Mrs. Carolyn Van Gaasbeck, another Saugerties native, will teach grade three at the Morse School. She is a graduate of Plattsburgh College.

Alaskan Expo Closes After Flood Damage

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—The Alaska 67 exposition, extensively conceived, optimistically born and poverty stricken throughout its four months existence has closed prematurely with losses estimated up to a half-million dollars.

The site was closed after the swirling muddy waters of the Chena River flooded last week and covered it as well as the rest of Fairbanks.

E. F. Stroecker, A-67 manager, announced Wednesday that the exposition celebrating the centennial of the Alaska purchase would remain closed for the season which was to have continued until Sept. 17. The grounds will reopen next year he said. The site opened in April with speeches, pageantry and the booming of cannon.

Stroecker said a detailed assessment of the flood damage at the exposition has not been made. But he said a "rough estimate" indicates losses will run some $400,000 to $500,000.

An additional $500,000 burdens the site, Stroecker said, as a result of operating losses caused by less than expected attendance, the costs of closing the site for the winter, maintaining security, and reopening next spring.

The exposition was in the red even before opening as construction costs reached $1.5 million more than anticipated in the rush to finish the grounds for the tourist season.

Fairbanks Races To Beat the Cold

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—After the deluge comes the reckoning—and the race to tidy up before the subzero temperatures of mid-September.

Last week this city of 30,000 wore a dirty brown blanket of water up to ten feet deep spilled out of the flooding Chena River. Half the population had fled for their lives. Seven were dead. Damage totaled $150 million to $200 million.

Today most of Fairbanks looks like a giant backyard, where residents are drying rugs, mattresses, furniture and wearing apparel on clotheslines, fences, posts and rooftops.

Lloyd Teel stood outside his home in the Aurora subdivision and held his hand four feet up the muddy wall from where his feet sloshed in the muck. "I'm gonna rebuild," Teel said. "And this time the floors are gonna be up here where my hand is, and I'm gonna have walls two feet thick, reinforced with steel."

He was one of thousands who have been returning to the sodden ruins of homes and businesses this week while the devastating "floodwaters" ebbed away.

A man in the Westgate district, his basement still flooded, was in despair. "I'd be better off to leave," said Pete Dunn. "I have $10,000 worth of equity, but I also have $10,000 worth of damage. I figure I'll fix the thing up and move on up a hill."

Many residents, with furnishings and clothing lost during the week-long nightmare, flocked around stores which offered water-soaked merchandise at bargain prices. One shop was selling shirts for 25 cents each and you could buy a pair of work pants for $2.

As the people began the huge clean-up, many found their houses and shops almost a total loss.

Only a scant five per cent or so were reported to have flood insurance.

52,000 Back Referendum On Viet War

NEW YORK (AP)—New York is the second city in the country where enough signatures have been gathered to place the Vietnam war issue on the November ballot.

Some 52,000 valid signatures, 2,000 more than the required 50,000, have been collected in an effort to put the war issue to referendum, the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee, an antiwar group, announced Wednesday.

The New York City corporation counsel, J. Lee Rankin, declined to comment on whether the war referendum would be placed on the ballot. The filing deadline is Sept. 6.

A similar campaign in San Francisco brought in the required signatures earlier this month. However, the San Francisco registrar, Basil Healy, on the advice of the city's attorney, has refused to accept the 22,000-name referendum petition.

Alaskan Expo Closes After Flood Damage

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska 67 exposition, expensively conceived, optimistically born and poverty stricken throughout its four months existence has closed prematurely with losses estimated up to a half-million dollars.

The site was closed after the swirling muddy waters of the Chena River flooded last week and covered it as well as the rest of Fairbanks.

E. F. Stroecker, A-67 manager, announced Wednesday that the exposition celebrating the centennial of the Alaska purchase would remain closed for the season which was to have continued until Sept. 17.

The grounds will reopen next year he said. The site opened in April with speeches, pageantry, and the booming of cannon.

Stroecker said a detailed assessment of the flood damage at the exposition has not been made. But he said a "rough estimate" indicates losses will run some $400,000 to $500,000.

An additional $500,000 burdens the site, Stroecker said, as a result of operating losses caused by less than expected attendance, the costs of closing the site for the winter, maintaining security, and reopening next spring.

The exposition was in the red even before opening as construction costs reached $1.5 million more than anticipated in the rush to finish the grounds for the tourist season.

Hurley Man Featured in Diabetes Exhibit

"Camp NYDA" was the theme employed for the exhibit of Ulster Chapter, New York Diabetes Association at the recent Ulster County Fair in New Paltz.

"There is only one camp for kids with Diabetes," a slogan related to Camp NYDA prevailed throughout the exhibit along with several photographs pertaining to camp life and views at the camp which is located in Burlington, Sullivan

County, on an attractive site of 200 acres including lake, forest and fields providing diabetic youngsters with an unparalleled camping experience.

Largest in World

Camp NYDA is the only camp of its kind in New York State and the largest camp for diabetic children in the world. Four hundred twenty-five boys and girls from New York City, Nassau, Westchester, Dutchess and Ulster Counties for the most part from the ages of six to 15 attend each summer.

Children from all races, creeds and family backgrounds attend Camp NYDA, the staff of which is composed of college graduates, medical students, post graduate students, teachers and other mature young men and women carefully selected from 32 colleges and universities around the country.

Receiving special attention among the photographs was that of the first Chairman of Ulster Chapter, New York Diabetes Association, Robert E. Begley of Hurley, and his four children, Michael, Kathleen, Maureen and Bobby. The Begley photograph appeared in the last edition of the Newsletter edited by the Diabetes Foundation, Inc., 170 Pilgrim Road, Boston, Mass., and the Elliot P. Joslin Research Laboratory. Begley was shown holding the Quarter Century Victory Medal of the Diabetes Foundation at a ceremony held in the teaching classroom of the New England Deaconess Hospital. Begley was the 121st person to receive the award which was presented by Dr. Donald M. Barnett. The Chapter Chairman, a diabetic for 27 years, received the award through the Advisory Committee of the Diabetic Fund. The Victory honors any person who, having had Diabetes for 25 years or more, is in good general health, without hardening of arteries or diabetic changes in the eyes or kidneys. In making the presentation of the medal, Dr. Barnett complimented Begley on his strict adherence to the famous triad prescribed by Dr. Elliott P. Joslin for diabetics—insulin, diet and exercise.

In addition to Mrs. Evelyn E. Burger, publicity chairman of Ulster Chapter, the exhibit staff at the Fair included J. E. Burger, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Begley, Mr. and Mrs. George Christian, Mr. and Mrs. U. Marchetti, Mrs. Morton Brett and Mrs. Margaret Bierwisch.

Ulster Chapter meetings will resume Sept. 13 when Dr. Gerald Gorman will be the guest speaker. Members are reminded to note the new time schedule, the second Wednesday of each month.

Officers and Committee Chairmen, Ulster Chapter, New York Diabetes Association for 1967-1968 follow: Chairman: Mrs. Anita H. Ostrander, Kingston. Physician-Advisor: Dr. Norman Burg, Woodstock. Mrs. Chairman and Program Chairman: Daniel Peters, West Hurley. Treasurer: Arthur D. Korff Jr., Saugerties. Recording Secretary: Mrs. Hilda Davis, Kingston. Corresponding Secretary and Newsletter Chairman: Mrs. Kay Begley, Hurley. Membership Chairman: Robert Begley. Publicity Chairman: Mrs. Evelyn E. Burger, Accord. Detection Drive Chairman: Mrs. Hilda Brett, West Hurley. Telephone Chairman: Mrs. Gerry Marchetti, Hurley and Refreshment Chairman: Mrs. Ruth Kuhns, Lake Katrine.

Hurley Man Featured in Diabetes Exhibit

"Camp NYDA" was the theme employed for the exhibit of Ulster Chapter, New York Diabetes Association at the recent Ulster County Fair in New Paltz.

"There is only one camp for kids with Diabetes," a slogan related to Camp NYDA prevailed throughout the exhibit along with several photographs pertaining to camp life and views at the camp which is located in Burlington, Sullivan

County, on an attractive site of 200 acres including lake, forest and fields providing diabetic youngsters with an unparalleled camping experience.

Largest in World

Camp NYDA is the only camp of its kind in New York State and the largest camp for diabetic children in the world. Four hundred twenty-five boys and girls from New York City, Nassau, Westchester, Dutchess and Ulster Counties for the most part from the ages of six to 15 attend each summer. Children from all races, creeds and family backgrounds attend Camp NYDA, the staff of which is composed of college graduates, medical students, post graduate students, teachers and other mature young men and women carefully selected from 32 colleges and universities around the country.

Receiving special attention among the photographs was that of the first Chairman of Ulster Chapter, New York Diabetes Association, Robert E. Begley of Hurley, and his four children, Michael, Kathleen, Maureen and Bobby. The Begley photograph appeared in the last edition of the Newsletter edited by the Diabetes Foundation, Inc., 170 Pilgrim Road, Boston, Mass., and the Elliot P. Joslin Research Laboratory. Begley was shown holding the Quarter Century Victory Medal of the Diabetes Foundation at a ceremony held in the teaching classroom of the New England Deaconess Hospital. Begley was the 121st person to receive the award which was presented by Dr. Donald M. Barnett. The Chapter Chairman, a diabetic for 27 years, received the award through the Advisory Committee of the Diabetic Fund. The Victory honors any person who, having had Diabetes for 25 years or more, is in good general health, without hardening of arteries or diabetic changes in the eyes or kidneys. In making the presentation of the medal, Dr. Barnett complimented Begley on his strict adherence to the famous triad prescribed by Dr. Elliott P. Joslin for diabetes—insulin, diet and exercise.

In addition to Mrs. Evelyn E. Burger, publicity chairman of Ulster Chapter, the exhibit staff at the Fair included J. E. Burger, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Begley, Mr. and Mrs. George Christian, Mr. and Mrs. U. Marchetti, Mrs. Morton Brett and Mrs. Margaret Bierwisch.

Ulster Chapter meetings will resume Sept. 13 when Dr. Gerald Gorman will be the guest speaker. Members are reminded to note the new time schedule, the second Wednesday of each month.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 25, the 237th day of 1967. There are 128 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1921, the World War I peace treaty between the United States and Germany was signed in Berlin.

In 1689, the Iroquois Indians attacked Montreal, killing its 200 inhabitants.

In 1718, French immigrants founded New Orleans.

In 1883, a volcanic eruption in the Dutch East Indies created tidal waves that took an estimated toll of 36,000 lives.

In 1941, British and Soviet troops invaded Iran in World War II.

In 1944, Allied troops liberated Paris from the Nazis.

Ten years ago — Communist China rejected a U.S. proposal that Peking permit visits by 24 American newsmen.

Five years ago — The government of Algeria postponed elections, blaming the move on interference by military leaders in control of the capital, Algiers.

One year ago — The U.S. command in Saigon announced that the number of American servicemen in South Vietnam had climbed above 300,000.

L/Cpl. Richard Hobart of the U. S. Marine Corps writes: "I received your package today that was sent to me and I want all of you to know that I appreciate your gratefulness and thoughtfulness very much."

"It makes me feel good in side, that there are these fine people back home who care and think about their men in Vietnam. I want all of you to know that we're fighting for you and our families and loved ones back home and some day we will succeed in making this country a free democracy."

"Some day all this hating and fighting will be gone and countries will learn to live in a world together. I know this is what we all hope here, trying to stop the spread of communism. A better world to live in is coming."

25 Indicted In $407,000 Check Theft

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury has indicted 25 persons — including two men linked to the Cosa Nostra and two women-in connection with the theft of $407,000 worth of blank American Express travelers checks at Kennedy Airport a year ago.

A sealed indictment, opened Thursday, accused the 25 of fraudulently passing stolen checks. Five of the defendants were arrested by FBI agents, and held in bail ranging from $1,000 to $5,000. Many of those accused had been arrested previously.

The murder of a Manhattan man in upstate New York was linked to the case by federal authorities. John Panarello Jr., 33, who was found shot to death in a ditch near Monticello, N. Y., July 11, was named in the indictment as a coconspirator but not as a defendant.

This indicated he may have been cooperating with authorities in cracking the case. Federal agents said he handled $50,000 worth of the stolen travelers checks. The office of U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said the theft plot was engineered by members of two Cosa Nostra "families." No one has been accused of the actual theft, and the investigation is continuing. Underworld informers reportedly helped the FBI in solving the case. Government agents said more than $300,000 worth of the checks were cashed by underworld syndicate passers. $28,000 worth were recovered by the FBI and the rest of the checks are missing.

FOUND DEAD — Ethel Six Geary, daughter of Ethel Merz, was found dead in a cabin in Green Mountain Falls Wednesday. The coroner said he was unable to determine the immediate cause of death but there were no signs of foul play. Green Mountain Falls is located 14 miles west of Colorado Springs, Colo. The murder of a Manhattan man in upstate New York was linked to the case by federal authorities, John Panarello Jr., 33, who was found shot to death in a ditch near Monticello, N. Y., July 11, was named in the indictment as a coconspirator but not as a defendant.

This indicated he may have been cooperating with authorities in cracking the case. Federal agents said he handled $50,000 worth of the stolen travelers checks.

The office of U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said the theft plot was engineered by members of two Cosa Nostra "families."

No one has been accused of the actual theft, and the investigation is continuing. Underworld informers reportedly helped the FBI in solving the case. Government agents said more than $300,000 worth of the checks were cashed by underworld syndicate passers.

$28,000 worth were recovered by the FBI and the rest of the checks are missing.

Body Identified

NEW YORK (AP)—The body of a man discovered Wednesday night on a barge at Tottenville, Staten Island, was identified Thursday as John Paul Girard, 23, of Utica.

An autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death. The identification was made at the Bellevue Hospital morgue by Paul Girard, father of the youth.

NOTICE

A MESSAGE TO PERSONS WHO ARE PLANNING TO SEE THE FILM VERSION OF JAMES JOYCE'S "ULYSSES" AND WHO HAVE NOT READ THE BOOK.

Persons who have read the controversial classic "ULYSSES" are familiar with James Joyce's use of words. The film, "ULYSSES," has now been faithfully brought to the screen and is presented in its unexpurgated form.

James Joyce's "ULYSSES" was published in 1922 but did not enter the United States until 1933, when Justice John M. Woolsey of the U.S. District Court declared: "In 'ULYSSES,' in spite of its unusual frankness, I do not detect anywhere the leer of the sensualist. I hold, therefore, that it is not pornographic."

"ITS ARTISTIC QUALITY IS SUCH THAT THE SHOCK SOON DISSOLVES IN ASTONISHMENT AND ADMIRATION."

— Archer Winsten, New York Post

"★★★★★... A RARE EXPERIENCE."

—Wanda Hale, New York Daily News

IMPORTANT: Admission to "ULYSSES" will be denied to all persons under eighteen (18) years of age. There will be no exceptions.

Craft-Grant Wedding Announced

St. Andrews-St. Mary's Church in Ellenville was the scene of the August 12th wedding of Miss Bonita Ann Craft and John David Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Craft of Ellenville are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Grant of Olean are the bridegroom's parents. The Rev. John Moran officiated at the double ring ceremony. A reception for 200 guests was given at the Columbia Hotel in Hurleyville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown featuring an empire bodice of chantilly lace with a princess skirt of silk chiffon over bouquet taffeta. A chapel train of chiffon and taffeta accented with chantilly lace was held by a headpiece of seed pearls and crystal petals. She carried a cascade of red rosebuds, gardenias, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Lee Ann Williams of Latham, N. Y., was maid of honor, in a pale blue floor-length gown designed with a lace empire bodice with chiffon overlay. Her matching rosette headpiece featured a tulle flirtation veil and she carried a cascade of blue and white miniature carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Anderson of Highland Falls, Miss Sue Sheffield of Ellenville, cousins of the bride, Miss Jeanne Grant of Vernon, N. Y., cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Susan Karchner of Ellenville. Their gowns in pastel shades of pink, green, maize and aqua were identical to that worn by the maid of honor. They carried miniature carnation cascades in contrasting rainbow colors.

Terrance Grant of Olean served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Richard Schweizer of Allentown, Pa., Thomas Carroll of Syracuse and William Kennedy of Vernon, N. Y., cousins of the bridegroom. Robert Eisenhardt Jr., of Poughkeepsie, cousin of the bride.

The bride is a June graduate, Magna Cum Laude, of St. Bonaventure University. The bridegroom attended St. Bonaventure and the University of Detroit School of Engineering under a five year cooperative program. He will receive his BS Degree in chemical engineering in May, 1968.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant will reside in Detroit.

DECOMPENSATED HEART NOW AIDED BY SURGICAL REPAIR

Q—Our insurance examiner says my husband has a decompensated heart. What does this mean? Is it serious?

A—When there is a leak in one of the heart valves the heart must pump more blood to compensate for the leak. When, as the leak gets bigger or the heart gets weaker, it can no longer do this there is a backing up of the circulation and waterlogging of the tissues. This is decompensation and it is indeed serious. The best results are now obtained by operating on the heart and repairing or replacing the diseased valve.

Q—My doctor says I have a tilted heart. What causes this and is it anything to be alarmed about?

A—I assume that what you have is an enlargement of the left side of your heart. This is usually caused by a narrowing of the aortic valve or an incomplete closure of that valve. Some leakage usually results. So long as there is no decompensation (manifested by swelling of the ankles and shortness of breath) there is no cause for alarm.

Q—I am in my 60s and have been taking digitoxin for rheumatic heart disease. Are there any bad side effects? I find that if I take a tablespoon of honey before retiring it helps me sleep. Is this harmful in any way? I read that taking kelp tablets helps a person with heart trouble to breathe more easily. Is this true?

A—Too great a dosage of any digitalis preparation may cause nausea and weakness. If honey helps you to sleep, by all means use it but don't rely on kelp or any other seaweed to improve your shortness of breath.

Q—What causes an enlarged heart? Is it dangerous? Is there any special diet for it?

A—There are several causes of cardiac enlargement—chiefly valvular heart disease, chronic high pressure and emphysema. The degree of seriousness will depend on whether or not your heart is decompensated. There is no special diet for this condition.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, MD, in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

UCCC Student Returns From Abroad

"It was an experience I'll never forget!" That's how Mike Deane, an Ulster County Community College student, describes six weeks spent in Ireland studying English-Irish literature at the University College of Dublin in Ireland.

"I met students from all over the world," he said. "I feel study abroad is most rewarding and I want to do it again. I'd like to try a different country next summer. Spain is appealing to me, and maybe I'll enroll at the University of Barcelona."

A resident of 302 Hasbrouck Avenue, Kingston, Mr. Deane left Ulster County July 9 and returned to the United States August 15. The courses he took traced the growth and expansion of Irish literature from folklore in the Third Century to the present day. "They touched everything," he said, "including literature, poetry and drama."

Mr. Deane was specially impressed by the system of tutoring at the University College of Dublin.

"In the tutoring system, first and second year students are assisted by seniors and graduate students," he said. "It is not organized like a class. It's more a discussion method. It's good because it gives you an opportunity for discussion while learning."

As part of his studies, he made four tours to archeological settlements, including Clonmacnoise, a monastic settlement started by the Franciscans about the 4th century.

Mr. Deane said the students at the University specialize much more in the specific areas they are majoring in than U. S. students and take fewer electives in other fields. "The University of Dublin students were better able to talk in their major fields," he said, "but weren't as well rounded in other areas as students in the United States."

He said the foreign students were impressed by different authors. The French students learning English praised W. Somerset Maugham, while George Orwell appealed a great deal to the Spanish students. The favorite of the Irish students was William Butler Yeats.

The U.C.C.C. student found Ireland very beautiful and described the people as "very friendly and very open." One surprise for him was the way country life blends in with city life in Dublin. "You would see a tractor trailer on the street," he said, "and right behind it would be a milk wagon pulled by a horse."

He found Ireland much colder in the summer than the United States. "The summer temperature in Dublin ranged from 40 to 60 degrees," he recalled. "The hottest day was 65."

The grading system at the University College was confusing to Mr. Deane. Students there receive numerical grades, and a student might pass with a 60. To fail, a student in some cases would have to get as low as a 20.

He described Ireland as a very sports-minded country. "Soccer is very popular," he said, "and there's also lots of interest in Gaelic football and rugby."

ULSTER KIWANIS AWARD—Cheryl Thomas, who will enter State University College at Fredonia Sept. 9, accepts $100 Town of Ulster Kiwanis Club scholarship from Albert Brooker, president of club. Nicholas Teskovich, club treasurer, looks on. Miss Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin J. Thomas, Sunset Park, will pursue a music education course at Fredonia with a major in voice. She is a 1967 Kingston High School graduate. (Freeman photo by Wagenföhr)

Color and You

Color has personality. Doesn't each color have some effect on you? Do you like some colors and dislike others? Often those colors which seem to look good on us become favorites. Maybe we unconsciously like those colors we have found to be becoming. Here are some factors which influence our color choices according to Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Personal coloring: Skin tones, hair, eyes, shadow tones make up your personal coloring. Usually the skin tones are most important because the color is worn nearest to the skin, and there is more skin tone showing than hair or eye coloring. Redheads may be the exception to this and may wish to choose colors to accent their red hair. Becoming colors are the ones that make your skin look clear and healthy; make your eyes seem to sparkle and a deeper color; and bring out the gloss and highlights of your hair.

Figure: White or very light colors reflect the light and will make you look larger. Black or very dark colors make one look smaller, but they are seen against the background and may contrast sharply with the surroundings. A very stout woman may look best in the medium dark values in grayed color tones.

Age: Your skin tones may grow darker or more sallow as you grow older, but this may mean that you can wear some colors more becomingly than when you were a girl. As your skin tones change, choose richer colors, and cool grayed colors. Black is not becoming to most older women. Browns, yellows, greens, purple, and bright blues bring out the yellow in skin and eyes.

Health: Intense colors and sharp contrasts of color may overshadow your coloring, especially if you are not in good health. The woman who is not in good health should choose colors which make her skin look clearer and pinker. Medium size or small prints with round outlines are better for the frail woman than strong, stiff designs.

Personality: How you feel in a color may be a good guide for selection of a color to suit your personality. A very quiet woman might be completely overshadowed by a bright red dress; however, a neutral gray might not do anything for her either.

Wardrobe Plan: The addition of new clothes in the wardrobe means they must be planned to go with accessories and other clothes on hand. Also consider the cost of upkeep and replacement. Light colored fabrics require frequent cleaning. Bright colors and large designs become tiresome. The medium values of grayed tones are good basic colors.

Loescher Family Reunion Is Held

The descendants of Sebastian Loescher held a family reunion on August 6 at Forsyth Park, Kingston. MacLean Lasher, president, of Danbury, Conn., was granted permission to have a new genealogy printed.

During a business meeting, the resignation of the treasurer, Clarence Lasher of Saugerties, was accepted with regrets. New officers were elected as follows: Kenneth Lasher of Castleton-on-Hudson, president; Everett Potts of Albany, Albany vice president; Willis Lasher, Germantown, vice president of Columbia; Royden Lasher of Red Hook, vice president, Dutchess; Clark Lasher, Castleton-on-Hudson, vice president, Rensselaer; Sherwood Lasher, Kingston, vice president, Ulster; MacLean Lasher of Danbury, vice president, Connecticut; Duncan Lasher of North Plainfield, vice president, New Jersey; Mrs. Jules Henkel of Saugerties, secretary; Mrs. Albert Tice, Saugerties, treasurer; and MacLean Lasher, Danbury, historian.

Mrs. Lauren Tice of Saugerties was the eldest member of the family association attending the reunion. David Henkel of Saugerties, the youngest, and Mrs. Isabel Dailey of Rochester traveled the greatest distance.

Next year's reunion will be held at the home of Kenneth Lasher, Castleton-on-Hudson.

Attending the reunion from Germantown were Marjorie Lasher, Helen Lasher, Florence Quirio, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lasher, and Col. and Mrs. Willis Lasher; from Red Hook: Verna Lasher, Mildred Coon, and Mr. and Mrs. Royden Lasher; from Tivoli, Della Boice, from Hyde Park, Mrs. Wallace B. Lasher; from LaGrangeville, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lasher with Suzanne, Aileen, Karen, and Gary. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lasher, Mr. and Mrs. Clark S. Lasher from Castleton-on-Hudson.

Two in One

If your family's favorites are different pies, you can make two pies in one. Do this by rolling out two pie crusts. Line the pie tin with one crust. Add prepared fruit only on one side. Fold crust back over and crimp. Do the same with the other crust, using another kind of fruit filling.

Peppy Meat Balls For a Hungry Crowd

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Meat balls with character, that's what these are. Made with ground beef, cooked with slightly beaten eggs, each one holds a cube of Cheddar cheese. They are cooked in a zesty tomato sauce, flecked with mushrooms. The rice absorbs the flavor of the meat and adds to the compact texture.

This is a perfect all-in-one meal for a crowd. It is a good suggestion for a Labor Day back yard or patio party, can be cooked indoors on the stove, then carried outdoors to the hungry guests waiting under the trees. No smoke gets in their eyes, just savory meat balls in their stomachs.

Peppy Meat Balls With Rice
1½ pounds ground beef
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups cooked rice
1 cup chopped onion
¼ cup Parmesan cheese
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon garlic powder
12 cubes (¾-inch) sharp Cheddar cheese
Shortening or vegetable oil
2 cans (8ozs. ea.) tomato sauce with mushrooms
2 cups water
1 tablespoon sugar
1/8 teaspoon oregano

Combine beef, eggs, rice, onion, Parmesan cheese, salt, pepper and garlic powder. Mix well. Form into 12 balls. Insert a cheese cube in the center of each meat ball. Brown in shortening. Drain. Blend tomato sauce with water, sugar, and oregano. Heat to boiling, add meat balls, cover, reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes or until done. Six servings. Serve with hard crusty garlic bread.

Kingston Hadassah Board Meeting Set

The 1967-68 board of the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah will hold its opening meeting at 8 p. m. Monday, Aug. 28, at the summer home of Mrs. Oscar London, Lake Katrine.

Mrs. Arthur Landesman, president, has urged that all board members plan to attend this important session. Board members who are unable to be present should contact Mrs. London.

LEARN ART OF LIVING

BOSWELL, Okla. (AP) — Although 25-year-old Lynn Campbell can no longer get outside, she paints remembered outdoor scenes from her bed. Paralyzed from the neck down by polio eight years ago, she is confined to an iron lung.

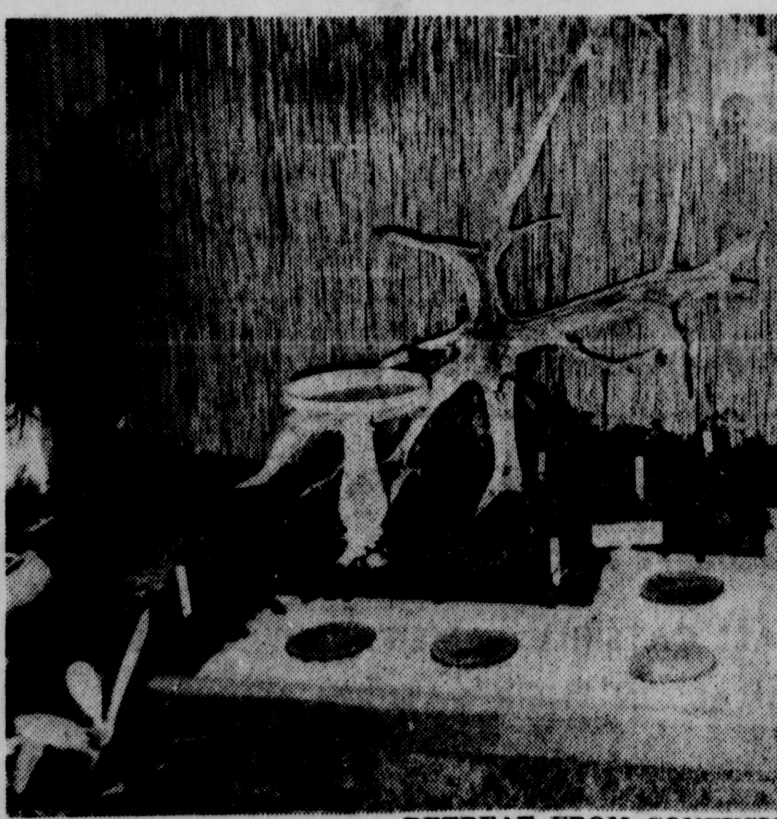

Miss Campbell knew nothing about art, but after her illness she learned to paint, holding a specially made foot-long brush with her teeth. Working six hours a day, six days a week, she completes an average of one picture a week and has sold many of them.

First Prize for Garden Club

First place in the Horticultural Show, Category 4, Class 88 at the Dutchess County Fair, Rhinebeck, was won by the Little Gardens of Kingston.

Competing garden clubs based their entries on the theme "Modern Gardening—An Area of a Home Garden Planned to Interpret an Aspect of the Theme."

Two thirds of the garden plot allotted had to be planted, accessories optional, names of plant material posted and every garden given a title. Mrs. J. J. Carroll, president of Little Gardens Club of Kingston, with her committee workers Mrs. Everett S. Landers, Mrs. Marshall Hughes, Mrs. LeRoy James, named their garden corner "A Retreat from Confusion." The exhibit may be viewed at the fair through Sunday.

LOVE, PATIENCE WILL HELP POOR EATER GAIN APPETITE

A mother writes that her six-year-old son is a poor eater and is underweight. His pediatrician says he is healthy and advises the mother not to worry but her husband is not satisfied with this and would like to insist that the child eat more. The boy refuses to try new dishes of any kind.

It is essential in such cases to make the mealtime pleasant and not a recurring struggle. Neither force nor vitamin supplements will induce a child to eat but a happy, well-adjusted child will eat ravenously when he is hungry. He must, however, learn to eat to nourish his body and not as a means of pleasing his parents or obtaining their love. Show him that you love him always but don't let your love be connected in any way with his eating habits.

A small portion of a new food should be offered without any persuasion other than to show by your example that you enjoy eating it. Avoid introducing two or more new dishes at any one meal.

Until he has developed sound habits of eating essential foods, don't make candy, cake, jellies or soft drinks available to him. If he gets hungry between meals there is no harm in letting him eat one piece of fruit or drink one glass of milk. When the change in your attitude about his eating finally sinks into his consciousness he will suddenly surprise you some day and begin to eat like a growing boy.

Q—Will the brightness of flash bulbs hurt the eyes of our new baby?

A—Since the duration of the exposure is only a fraction of a second it will do no harm if the flash is at least 10 feet from the baby's eyes. The danger is further reduced if the baby's attention can be focused on a point not in direct line with the flash bulb.

Q—An eye doctor says our daughter, 10, has progressive myopia. He has prescribed the nightly application of an alkaloid. Is this treatment safe and effective?

A—Your eye doctor is probably not a physician. The only thing that will help your daughter besides corrective lenses is an operation to prevent further distortion of her eyeballs by reinforcing them with a tissue transplant.

Noting that the cost of living abroad is much cheaper than many persons realize, Mr. Deane recommended other students should consider summer study as a "rewarding educational experience."

Loescher Family Reunion Is Held

The descendants of Sebastian Loescher held a family reunion on August 6 at Forsyth Park, Kingston. MacLean Lasher, president, of Danbury, Conn., was granted permission to have a new genealogy printed.

During a business meeting, the resignation of the treasurer, Clarence Lasher of Saugerties, was accepted with regrets. New officers were elected as follows: Kenneth Lasher of Castleton-on-Hudson, president; Everett Potts of Albany, Albany vice president; Willis Lasher, Germantown, vice president of Columbia; Royden Lasher of Red Hook, vice president, Dutchess; Clark Lasher, Castleton-on-Hudson, vice president, Rensselaer; Sherwood Lasher, Kingston, vice president, Ulster; MacLean Lasher of Danbury, vice president, Connecticut; Duncan Lasher of North Plainfield, vice president, New Jersey; Mrs. Jules Henkel of Saugerties, secretary; Mrs. Albert Tice, Saugerties, treasurer; and MacLean Lasher, Danbury, historian.

Mrs. Lauren Tice of Saugerties was the eldest member of the family association attending the reunion, David Henkel of Saugerties, the youngest, and Mrs. Isabel Dailey of Rochester traveled the greatest distance.

Next year's reunion will be held at the home of Kenneth Lasher, Castleton-on-Hudson. Attending the reunion from Germantown were Marjorie Lasher, Helen Lasher, Florence Quirio, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lasher, and Col. and Mrs. Willis Lasher; from Red Hook: Verna Lasher, Mildred Coon, and Mr. and Mrs. Royden Lasher; from Tivoli, Della Boice; from Hyde Park, Mrs. Wallace B. Lasher; from LaGrangeville, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lasher with Suzanne, Aileen, Karen, and Gary. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lasher, Mr. and Mrs. Clark S. Lasher from Castleton.

Two in One

If your family's favorites are different pies, you can make two pies in one. Do this by rolling out two pie crusts. Line the pie tin with one crust. Add prepared fruit only on one side, fold crust back over and crimp. Do the same with the other crust, using another kind of fruit filling.

Craft-Grant Wedding Announced

St. Andrews-St. Mary's Church in Ellenville was the scene of the August 12th wedding of Miss Bonita Ann Craft and John David Grant. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Craft of Ellenville are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Grant of Olean are the bridegroom's parents. The Rev. John Moran officiated at the double ring ceremony. A reception for 200 guests was given at the Columbia Hotel in Hurleyville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown featuring an empire bodice of chantilly lace with a princess skirt of silk chiffon over bouquet taffeta. A chapel train of chiffon and taffeta, accented with chantilly lace was held by a headpiece of seed pearls and crystal petals. She carried a cascade of red roses, gardenias, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Lee Ann Williams of Latham, N. Y., was maid of honor, in a pale blue floor length gown designed with a lace empire bodice with chiffon overlay. Her matching rosette headpiece featured a tulle flirtation veil and she carried a cascade of blue and white miniature carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Anderson of Highland Falls, Miss Sue Sheffield of Ellenville, cousins of the bride, Miss Jeanne Grant of Vernon, N. Y., cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Susan Karchner of Ellenville. Their gowns in pastel shades of pink, green, maize and aqua were identical to that worn by the maid of honor. They carried miniature carnation cascades in contrasting rainbow colors.

Terrance Grant of Olean served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Richard Schweitzer of Allentown, Pa., Thomas Carroll of Syracuse and William Kennedy of Vernon, N. Y., cousins of the bridegroom. Robert Eisenhardt Jr., of Poughkeepsie, cousin of the bride.

The bride is a June graduate, Magna Cum Laude, of St. Bonaventure University. The bridegroom attended St. Bonaventure and the University of Detroit School of Engineering under a five year cooperative program. He will receive his BS Degree in chemical engineering in May, 1968.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant will reside in Detroit.

The Well Child

LOVE, PATIENCE WILL must, however, learn to eat HELP POOR EATER GAIN APPETITE

A mother writes that her six-year-old son is a poor eater and is underweight. His pediatrician says he is healthy and advises the mother not to worry but her husband is not satisfied with this and would like to insist that the child eat more. The boy refuses to try new dishes of any kind.

It is essential in such cases to make the mealtime pleasant and not a recurring struggle. Neither force nor vitamin supplements will induce a child to eat but a happy, well-adjusted child will eat ravenously when he is hungry. He to nourish his body and not as a means of pleasing his parents or obtaining their love. Show him that you love him always but don't let your love be connected in any way with his eating habits.

A small portion of a new food should be offered without any persuasion other than to show by your example that you enjoy eating it. Avoid introducing two or more new dishes at any one meal.

Until he has developed sound habits of eating essential foods, don't make candy, cake, jellies or soft drinks available to him. If he gets hungry between meals there is no harm letting him eat one piece of fruit or drink one glass of milk. When the change in your attitude about his eating finally sinks into his consciousness he will suddenly surprise you some day and begin to eat like a growing boy.

Q—Will the brightness of flash bulbs hurt the eyes of our new baby?
A—Since the duration of the exposure is only a fraction of a second it will do no harm if the flash is at least 10 feet from the baby's eyes. The danger is further reduced if the baby's attention can be focused on a point not in direct line with the flash bulb.

Q—An eye doctor says our daughter, 10, has progressive myopia. He has prescribed the nightly application of an alkaloid. Is this treatment safe and effective?
A—Your eye doctor is probably not a physician. The only thing that will help your daughter besides corrective lenses is an operation to prevent further distortion of her eyeballs by reinforcing them with a tissue transplant.

A Tradition: Honey Cake for Weddings

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

America is great because of her skill at successfully combining foreign cultures. And weddings are no exception.

Our Italian friends have a unique tradition for old-fashioned weddings. The mothers of the bride and bridegroom get together and bake a honey cake which is later distributed to the wedding guests along with those delicious candy-coated almonds and fancy cookies. Certainly a marvelous way to bridge the gap between in-laws. I learned about the custom when Tessie (Mrs. Augustus)

Parker of Kingston told me about her daughter's upcoming wedding. It is scheduled for Sunday at St. Mary's Church. Sandra will wed John McCullough Jr., of Kingston and at the wedding reception, the bride and bridegroom will offer their guests slices of the honey cake made by their mothers.

For this particular occasion, Mrs. Frances (Dominic) Perry, grandmother of the prospective bride, was chosen to do the actual baking with the mothers assisting. The cake calls for five pounds of honey and 10 eggs in addition to all the other ingredients and, like most good European cooks, Mrs. Perry doesn't measure, she just adds a little of this and a pinch of that! Tessie watched with an eagle eye and got the following recipe for us.

WEDDING HONEY CAKE

7 lbs. flour
10 eggs
2 tbs. baking powder
1/2 teaspoon powdered cloves
1 tsp. salt
Mix flour, salt, cloves, baking powder and set aside. Mix honey and eggs. Combine honey and eggs with dry mixture and continue mixing until the dough does not stick to the fingers.

Let the dough stand for 10 minutes.

Then, roll the dough out in the form of various shapes: hearts for the bride and bridegroom, "S" shaped cakes for the mothers of the couple, and narrow loaf shapes for the guests. I'm told that some have kept the heart-shaped cakes for as long as 25 years without any mold or spoilage.

Grease pans with oil. Bake cakes with beaten eggs, add decorative candied sprinkles and bake at 375 degrees F until done.

All these customs add a festive touch to any occasion.

MOTHERS ASSIST with the baking procedure in an Italian household. Each mother keeps a cake in memory of the occasion. It is all a gesture of good will and hope which they trust will be reflected in their children's lives.

GOOD ENOUGH TO EAT—Mrs. Perry removes the small cake loaves from the oven. They will be sliced into bite-size pieces and offered to the wedding guests along with candy-coated almonds and tasty fancy cookies.

FIVE POUNDS OF HONEY—Mrs. Frances Perry of 195 North Street, Kingston, pours five pounds of honey into a mixing bowl while her grandson James McNeil Jr. watches. Mrs. Perry is preparing a traditional Italian Honey Cake for wedding banquets. This particular cake will be used Sunday for her granddaughter's wedding (Freeman photos by Wagenföhr)

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute HEIGHT OF RUDENESS
NOT TO REPLY TO INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Post: I know how you feel about writing a reply to any formal invitation (especially wedding), but unfortunately most people either do not know this is the proper thing to do, or perhaps they do not wish to take the time to write an answer.

My wedding reception included a formal dinner where it was imperative that we know a reasonably exact number of guests attending. Therefore, I sent along with my invitations a small engraved card stating number attending and name. We did include engraved, stamped return envelopes for the cards. Many people failed to return the cards. To my surprise, some of these came to the reception which caused a great deal of confusion as I had not prepared for them; others did not come.

As you can see, Mrs. Post, our society is either far too busy or far too unconcerned to simply write a number and a name on a reply card, so how can we ever expect them to write an acceptance letter for an invitation?—Mrs. D. T.

Dear Mrs. T.: It is discouraging to think that people are so ill-mannered or so lazy that they cannot fill in a line on a response card. I wonder how many fewer would have written answers if you had not enclosed cards. In many ways more people have better manners than ever before, but an effort of this sort seems beyond them. And sending answer cards is not the solution. Whatever the mechanics, people must return to the era of thoughtfulness in which no one would think of neglecting to answer an invitation.

GRANDPARENTS HURT BY EXCLUSION FROM REHEARSAL DINNER

I am printing the following letter in the hope that it will prevent the same cruel thing being done to other devoted grandparents. The thoughtlessness of young people is sometimes incredible, but since it is usually unintentional, true situations such as that described in the letter below may serve as an invaluable example.

Dear Mrs. Post: Some time ago, my husband and I and our 14-year-old grandson flew to Boston to be present at our only granddaughter's wedding, arriving two days before it was to take place. Upon our arrival she informed us that her future parents-in-law were giving the rehearsal dinner for the entire wedding party, including her parents, an aunt of the groom and her older brother who was to be an usher. She said she would like us to come to the rehearsal but there would not be room for three more at the party as the dining room in the hotel was quite small. So her brother and grandparents were left out. Afterwards we were told that this party took place in a very spacious hotel.

I am writing this to you in the hope that this will warn other young people not to make the same mistake. It hurt us very much as she had always been so special in our hearts. We know, of course, that this suggestion was made by her mother-in-law, but we cannot understand why she did not rise to the occasion after we had traveled 3,000 miles to her wedding. Well, I guess we will never know. Two Disillusioned Grandparents.

Reader Calls Attention to Misspelling of "Sherbet"

Dear Mrs. Post: I was not surprised to see the word "sherbet" misspelled in the letter addressed to you in your column, as it is misspelled and mispronounced by many people, but I was rather shocked to see the same misspelling in your answer to the problem. There is no such word as "sherbert." Would you please set your readers straight on this word?—Mrs. L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Thank you for calling attention to my error, and I will certainly set my readers straight. The correct spelling, as Mrs. L. says, is SHERBET.

Girl May Call to Say "Hello" When She Arrives in Friends Town

Dear Mrs. Post: I met an attractive man from another town a couple of times and he has been friendly but never asked me to go out with him. Would it be out of place for me to send word to him that I'm coming to visit cousins of mine near his home? Gwen.

Dear Gwen: If your cousins know him, they would be the ones to send word that you are coming and invite him to their house. If they don't, call him on the telephone casually when you get there and say that you happen to be visiting his town and thought you'd say hello.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Romney's Son Weds In Mormon Temple

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — George Scott Romney and Ronald Eileen Stern were married in the Salt Lake Mormon Temple Wednesday for "time and all eternity."

Romney, 26, oldest son of Michigan Gov. George Romney, and Miss Stern, 23, knelt at an altar inside the temple and were "sealed" as man and wife under a sacred ritual of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The couple was accompanied by the bridegroom's parents, Gov. and Mrs. Romney, and two sisters, Mrs. Loren Keenan and Mrs. Bruce Robinson. A brother, Mitt, is serving a mission for the Mormon Church in France and was unable to attend.

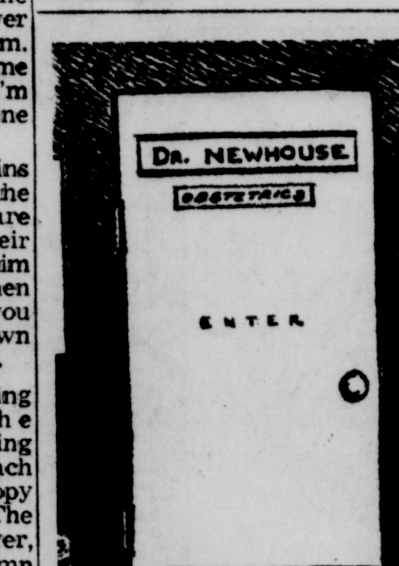

The bride's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Kraus of Birmingham, Mich., are not Mormons and were not allowed to attend the ceremony. Only church members in good standing are permitted inside the temple. They joined the wedding party later at a breakfast reception in Salt Lake City's Hotel Utah.

The bride's father, James A. Stern, an airline captain, lives in Ontario, Calif.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE
Dear Heloise:

Here are a couple of tips for the outdoor chef, whether male or female... when barbecuing.

For some years I have doused the remaining, burning charcoal with water rather than letting it burn out to become nothing but a pile of worthless white ashes. Why "burn money" I always say! The charcoal will be ready to reuse when you're ready for it.

For drenching the burning coals I use a plastic snip-top bottle filled with water. This can be squeezed so that the thin stream of water can be controlled.

I find it best to move the burning charcoal into one area of my barbecue pit, water it, move the coals around a bit more and squirt some more water on until the coals quit steaming and sizzling. Save the salvaged coal for the next feast.

Two pairs of long-handled tongs are a must for me. One pair is used for handling all the meat (except hamburger) and one pair is used for moving and arranging the charcoal.

Bless you, Ted. That's my sentiments exactly, why "burn money" ... ?

We tried using your squirt method and liked it fine.

Anyone know of any other methods to save briquettes? Do drop us a line in care of this paper. We sure would love to know.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: When you hem by hand, either use the presser foot of your sewing machine to hold one end of the material taut.

or pin your garment to the ironing board. Then hem away.

This makes hand-stitched hems easier, faster and more even.

Mrs. Lawson

Dear Heloise: My hint is for the tube mascara.

After awhile my mascara does not distribute evenly on the applicator and dries out. Instead of throwing it away or buying a refill, I place the entire closed tube in a cup or glass of hot water and let it stand while I apply my other make-up.

By the time I'm ready to put on the mascara, the hot water has melted it and it brushes on evenly and easily.

You can prolong the life of this type of make-up by a month or more with this method.

Janet Perdue

Dear Heloise: Everyone, I'm sure, has days when it's hard to get started ... when getting dressed and straightening up the house doesn't seem worth the effort.

When I have such a day, I pretend that some old boy friend is going to pass through town and look me up.

So I dress neatly, put on my make-up with care and bustle around with the housework. Then, when my REAL boy friend comes home from work, he's the one who can think, "I'm glad I married her!" Jane Goldhamer

Dear Heloise: Use cold water to help you measure shortening precisely.

First measure one-third cup of shortening, put two-thirds cup of water into the measuring cup ... then submerge shortening in cold water until water level rises to one cup. Dump out the water and there you have exactly one-third cup of shortening.

Theresa Palinkas

This also saves washing a terribly messy measuring cup because the shortening does not stick to it.

We have examined the above statement of REVENUES AND EXPENSES of the ONTEORA CENTRAL SCHOOLS, District No. 1, of the Towns of Olive, et al., for the school year ended June 30, 1967. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as were considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the above statement presents fairly the financial position of the ONTEORA CENTRAL SCHOOLS as at June 30, 1967, and the results of its operations for the period then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles consistently applied by the school district.

Rondout National, Hurley Yankees in LL Final Playoffs

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME

by TITMURRAY

'Poor Man's Casey'

In the four years he has been out of football, Paul Brown hasn't been drawing his salary from Cleveland idly. Each year he has made an annual report and suggestion to the Browns. From his golfing headquarters in La Jolla, Calif., he also watched the San Diego Chargers closely. And anticipating he'd get the new Cincinnati franchise, he was a daily spectator during the organizing sessions of the New Orleans Saints in San Diego. . . .

All of which means Paul intends to coach the new Cincy team when it takes shape next year. "Somebody has to take the bumps when it starts out," says Paul, "and that wouldn't bother me. I'll be a poor man's Casey Stengel." Well, not so poor. . . .

Gale Sayers has to be a phenomenal running back. Pro coaches and players alike don't talk of him in terms of being the best today—they say he's the best they've ever seen. And Gale is just starting his third year. Ironical admission by the Chicago Bears' phantom: "I'm a little small to be a halfback, but I enjoy running the ball. I know I'm a marked man. But they keyed on me last year, too. I got to go into games with that attitude, and I got to do my best." . . .

For Gale, who weighs 200 pounds, the toughest part isn't trying to block 275-pound defensive ends. "The main problem," he insists, "is picking up different defenses. You can't be a dumb football player. You got to be pretty smart." . . .

As good as Sayers is in the running department Charley Taylor of the Washington Redskins threatens to be just as outstanding in his new role as an outside receiver. He credits it all to a change in philosophy when he was switched from halfback to split end last year. "When I was a halfback," he notes, "I never could say I was the best, because I knew that wasn't true as long as Jimmy Brown was around. But now I say to myself that I am the best receiver." And so far, his self hasn't argued with him. . . .

The New York Jets have a rookie defensive lineman on their squad, Dennis Randall, who has never before strayed far from his native Oklahoma. He took his first look at Shea Stadium, the circular home of the Jets, and commented, "This would sure make a great site." . . .

Bubba Smith hasn't quite gotten over the fact that the Baltimore Colts cut his big brother, Willie Ray, who tried out as a running back. Bubba hangs out with veteran Lenny Moore, one of the great runners of NFL history. And Lenny was detailing for an audience great ball carriers he has seen: "Jimmy Brown, Hugh McEl-Perry." . . . From the other side of the room rumbled the deep voice of Bubba, "Or Willie Ray Smith." . . .

At least Francis Tarkenton travels in style. The new quarterback of the New York Giants has rented a home in New Rochelle, in suburban Westchester County, to be near coach Alie Sherman for evening film sessions. Not just a plain little cottage—this one has formal gardens, yet. . . .

Between you 'n' me, if there weren't a gentlemen's agreement in pro football, the smart scouts would already be raiding the free agents being tucked away on taxi squads by every club for future safekeeping. I could name half a dozen already passed through on waivers who'd help a lot of teams this year. . . .

A Real Bomber

Bob Johnson Slugs 14 Homers; New Record in Hurley League

The Babe Ruth among area Little League sluggers has to be a strapping, 5-5, 125-pound West Hurley youth.

Bob Johnson, a member of the second place Giants, slugged 14 home runs in 20 games this season and batted at a phenomenal .794 clip, belived to be the highest average in the county.

Carlos Rodriguez, the Highland Little League sensation, batted .783 this year. But slugging a Little League size baseball for tremendous distance isn't young Johnson's only forte. He was a one-man gang for the Giants, taking turns at pitching, third base, shortstop and center field when not knocking the ball over the fences.

Johnson's batting statistics show that he slammed 50 hits in 63 trips to the plate and had 11 doubles in addition to the 14 homers.

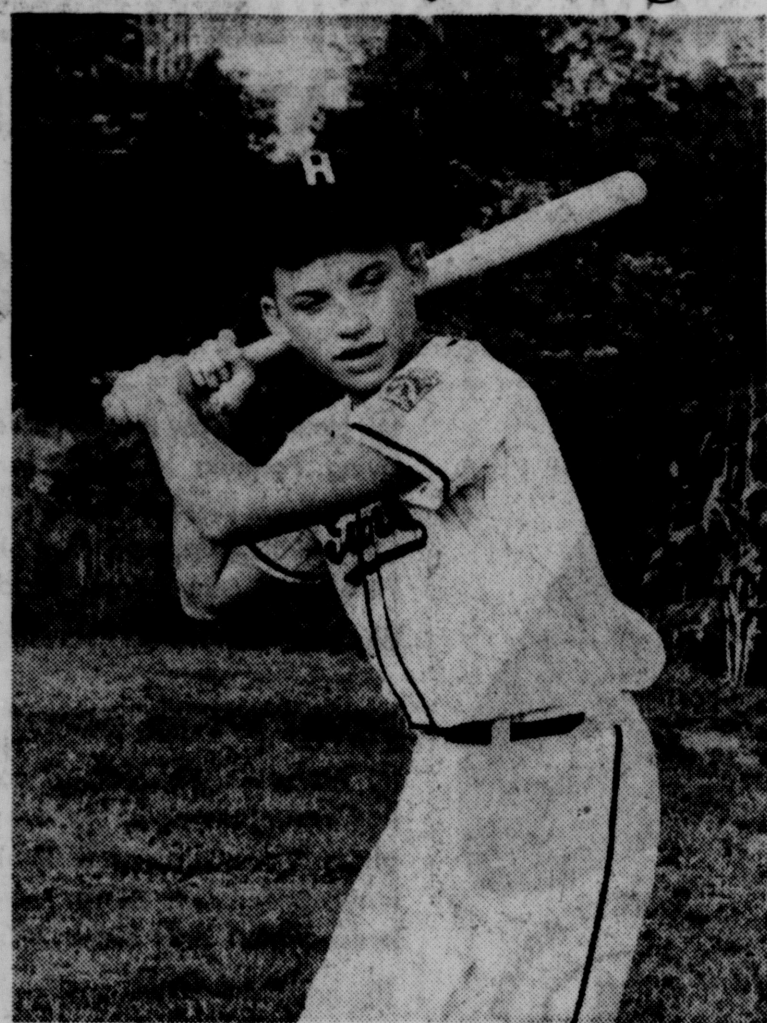

Fanned 86 Batters

As a pitcher, Johnson worked 44 innings both as starter and reliever. He compiled a 4-2 won and lost record, with five relief appearances. He allowed only 24 hits, walked 27 and struck out 86.

The 12-year-old lad led the second place Giants to a 16-4 record and was named to the Hurley All Star team for the second straight year.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of West Hurley, the budding major leaguer attends junior high in the Ontario Central Schools System. . . .

West Tokyo, Chicago In LL Series Finals

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Hidefumi Takasashi drove in three runs with a single and a double Thursday to lead West Tokyo to a 4-1 victory over Newtown-Edgemont, Pa., and give Japan its first game in the finals of the Little League World Series.

Roseland of Chicago exploded for six hits and five runs in the eighth inning for a 8-3 victory over Linares, Mexico, in the other semi-final contest.

Roseland and West Tokyo will meet for the title on Saturday. West Tokyo capitalized on three successive walks in the

Decision Ulster, NLL Mets

Rondout National Bank of the Kingston American League and the Hurley Yankees have advanced to the finals of the area round robin Little League tournament.

Rondout Bank, led by Chris Schick's two-hit pitching and a 3 for 3 night by slugger Jim Milano, stopped the National League Mets, 7-2.

Meanwhile, the Hurley Yankees won their second straight against the Ulster Kiwanis Yankees, 8-6, at the Ulster diamond.

Kingston Nationals will meet the Jaycees Saturday at Kingman Park but the outcome won't affect the final playoff between the Rondout Bank and Hurley Yankees for the championship.

The Rondout nine scored four times in the second inning to pin the loss on Bob Medley. Schick, in pitching the distance, allowed four walks and fanned 10 batters.

Bob Hossock was the winner for the Hurley Yankees. He gave up six hits while his mates had the same number off Barry Berthoff. Chuck Bouton doubled twice for the winners.

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Colbert, a bright-eyed young Kansan, took a long, hard look at his position in the $250,000 Westchester Classic Golf Tournament, gulped once and admitted: "I feel a little uncomfortable."

Mason Rudolph squinted through his thick glasses, added up his scorecard again and said: "I feel like I ought to play a couple of more holes. I'm not used to stopping at 66."

The 26-year-old Colbert, who went to Kansas State on a football scholarship and abandoned it for golf, cut out a careful 66, six-under-par, for a share of the first round lead Thursday with Rudolph and South African Gary Player.

They had a one-stroke lead on U. S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, Bob Charles of New Zealand and John Schlee, all at 57.

Locked at 68, just two strokes back, were Lee Trevino, a club pro from El Paso, Tex., steady Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., who went 84 holes before getting a bogey, Dave Hill and 55-year-old Sam Snead.

Closes With Eagle

As usual, however, most of the gallery of 17,031 charged and screamed after Arnold Palmer, the all-time leading money winner. And their biggest cheer came when the muscular slammer from Latrobe, Pa., saved an indifferent round with a birdie-eagle finish that got him home with a 69.

In all, 68 of the field of 154 matched or bettered the par 72 at the compact, 6,573-yard Westchester Country Club course, even though a number of them including Nicklaus—complained that the grass in the fairways is too long.

Rudolph had five birdies, a bogey and an eagle, reaching the par five fifth in two and running in a 35-foot putt.

Player confined his six birdies to a string of eight holes and didn't have a bogey.

Colbert, a pro for only two years, also had six birdies—two on putts of more than 15 feet—and didn't have a bogey. He just missed on three more birdies with putts spinning out of the cup on the fifth, sixth and seventh holes.

Woodson Has Hopes

LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP)—Coach Warren Woodson says his 1967 New Mexico State University football team may be better offensively than his 1966 squad.

Last year, the Aggies averaged 32.1 points per game and compiled a 7-3 mark.

Woodson thinks his 1967 team could be better than the undefeated 1966 NMSU squad except for the wingback and end positions.

first inning by Neil Powers, the losing pitcher. The first run scored on a wild pitch and Takahashi, the West Tokyo catcher, knocked in the other two with a single. Singles by Masahiro Miyahara and Yasuoka Kaihatsu and Takahashi's double produced West Tokyo's final run in the third inning. Powers connected off Yukio Masago, the winning pitcher, in the first inning for Newtown-Edgemont's run. Powers struck out nine batters and walked four, and Masago fanned four and walked one.

Interstate Lists Playoffs Sept. 10

Interstate League playoffs will begin Sunday Sept. 10 with the first and third place teams and the second and fourth place clubs meeting in best-of-three series.

At a meeting of league managers and officials Thursday at the Brookside Restaurant, Amenia, several postponed games were rescheduled.

This Saturday, Millerton will play at Pine Plains at 2:30 p. m. On Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Pine Plains is at Winsted and Amenia at Torrington.

Pine Plains and Amenia will clash on Sept. 3.

The Kingston-Torrington game will be made up later in the season, at the discretion of the managers of both clubs.

Mrs. Levine-Mrs. Treat Win Wiltwyck's Member Guest

Mrs. Sam Levine and her guest, Mrs. Richard L. Treat of The Twaalfskill Club, fired a 11-under-par best ball 63 to lead the annual women's Member-Guest tournament at Wiltwyck Country Club by one stroke.

Mrs. Treat had 87 on her own ball and Mrs. Levine shot 94. The winners had combined handicap of 43.

Tied for second with best ball 64's were two teams headed by Mrs. Gerald Overbagh. She played with Mrs. Harry Thayer of Twaalfskill and Mrs. Thomas H. Dendy of Woodstock.

Mrs. Arthur Landessman and Mrs. William A. Kelly (Twaalfskill) held fourth place alone with a score of 65.

Four teams tied at 66—Mrs. Gerald Gruber, Mrs. John Sullivan (Woodstock); Mrs. Gerald Overbagh, Mrs. William Gressick (Catskill); Mrs. Robert Merritt, Mrs. Louise Corrado (Southern Dutchess); Mrs. Ivan Whitmore, Mrs. Joseph Marr (Woodstock).

A draw of cards determined the order of finish for the five teams tied with 66's.

The team of Mrs. Gruber and Mrs. Sullivan won low putts honors with 59. Mrs. Sawyer and Mrs. Needes were second with 62.

Woodstock Open Gets Underway

Play in the annual Woodstock Open pro-am golf tournament got underway as scheduled today with a star-studded field taking part.

At 10:30 press time this morning, there were no cancellations among the pros. However, Ricky Spears and Dennis Lyons, two of the top amateurs in the field, were unable to participate.

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME

'Poor Man's Casey'

In the four years he has been out of football, Paul Brown hasn't been drawing his salary from Cleveland idly. Each year he has made an annual report and suggestion to the Browns. From his golfing headquarters in La Jolla, Calif., he also watched the San Diego Chargers closely. And anticipating he'd get the new Cincinnati franchise, he was a daily spectator during the organizing sessions of the New Orleans Saints in San Diego. . . .

All of which means Paul intends to coach the new Cincy team when it takes shape next year. "Somebody has to take the bumps when it starts out," says Paul, "and that wouldn't bother me. I'll be a poor man's Casey Stengel." Well, not so poor. . . .

Gale Sayers has to be a phenomenal running back. Pro coaches and players alike don't talk of him in terms of being the best today—they say he's the best they've ever seen. And Gale is just starting his third year. Ironical admission by the Chicago Bears' phantom: "I'm a little small to be a halfback, but I enjoy running the ball. I know I'm a marked man. But they keyed on me last year, too. I got to go into games with that attitude, and I got to do my best." . . .

For Gale, who weighs 200 pounds, the toughest part isn't trying to block 275-pound defensive ends. "The main problem," he insists, "is picking up different defenses. You can't be a dumb football player. You got to be pretty smart." . . .

As good as Sayers is in the running department Charley Taylor of the Washington Redskins threatens to be just as outstanding in his new role as an outside receiver. He credits it all to a change in philosophy when he was switched from halfback to split end last year. "When I was a halfback," he notes, "I never could say I was the best, because I knew that wasn't true as long as Jimmy Brown was around. But now I say to myself that I am the best receiver." And so far, his self hasn't argued with him. . . .

The New York Jets have a rookie defensive lineman on their squad, Dennis Randall, who had never before strayed far from his native Oklahoma. He took his first look at Shea Stadium, the circular home of the Jets, and commented, "This would sure make a great site." . . .

Bubba Smith hasn't quite gotten over the fact that the Baltimore Colts cut his big brother, Willie Ray, who tried out as a running back. Bubba hangs out with veteran Lenny Moore, one of the great runners of NFL history. And Lenny was detailing for an audience great ball carriers he has seen: "Jimmy Brown, Hugh McEl-Perry." . . . From the other side of the room rumbled the deep voice of Bubba, "Or Willie Ray Smith." . . .

At least Francis Tarkenton travels in style. The new quarterback of the New York Giants has rented a home in New Rochelle, in suburban Westchester County, to be near coach Alie Sherman for evening film sessions. Not just a plain little cottage—this one has formal gardens, yet. . . .

Between you'n'me, if there weren't a gentlemen's agreement in pro football, the smart scouts would already be raiding the free agents being tucked away on taxi squads by every club for future safekeeping. I could name half a dozen already passed through on waivers who'd help a lot of teams this year. . . .

A Real Bomber

Bob Johnson Slugs 14 Homers; New Record in Hurley League

The Babe Ruth among area Little League sluggers has to be a strapping, 5-5, 125-pound West Hurley youth.

Bob Johnson, a member of the second place Giants, slugged 14 home runs in 20 games this season and batted at a phenomenal .794 clip, believed to be the highest average in the county.

Carlos Rodriguez, the Highland Little League sensation, batted .783 this year. But slugging a Little League size baseball for tremendous distance isn't young Johnson's only forte. He was a one-man gang for the Giants, taking turns at pitching, third base, shortstop and center field when not knocking the ball over the fences.

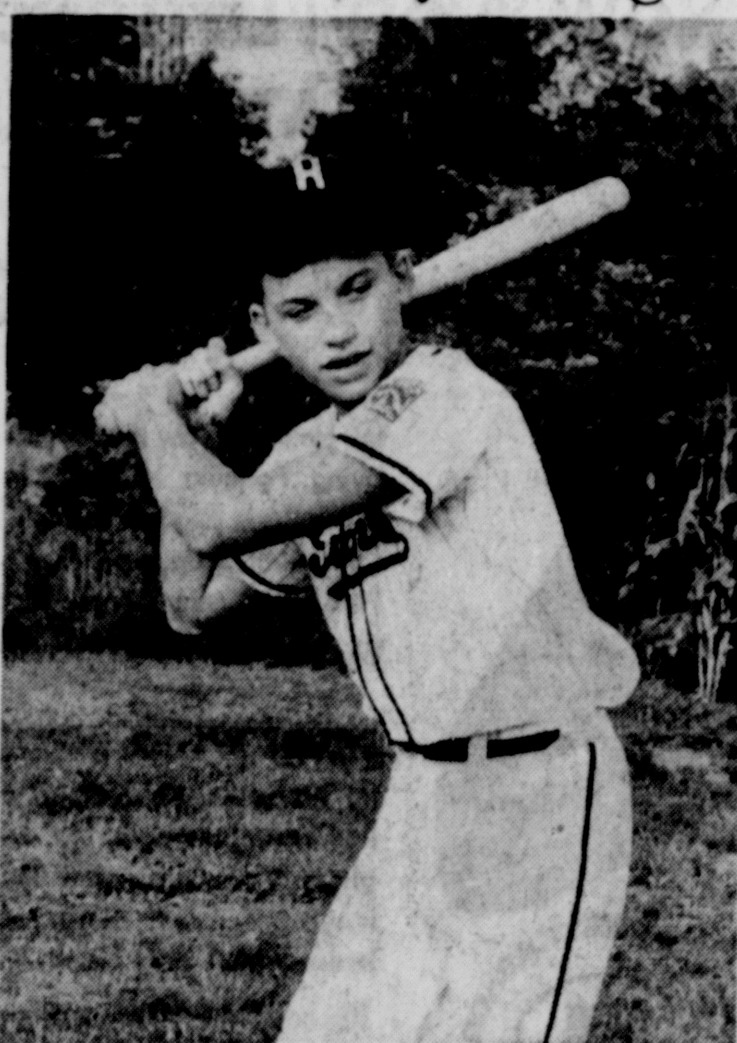

Johnson's batting statistics show that he slammed 50 hits in 63 trips to the plate and had 11 doubles in addition to the 14 homers.

Fanned 86 Batters
As a pitcher, Johnson worked 44 innings both as starter and reliever. He compiled a 4-2 won and lost record, with five relief appearances. He allowed only 24 hits, walked 27 and struck out 86.

The 12-year-old lad led the second place Giants to a 16-4 record and was named to the Hurley All Star team for the second straight year.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of West Hurley, the budding major leaguer attends junior high in the Ontario Central Schools System. . . .

West Tokyo, Chicago In LL Series Finals

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Hidefumi Takasashi drove in three runs with a single and a double Thursday to lead West Tokyo to a 4-1 victory over Newtown-Edgemont, Pa., and give Japan its first game in the finals of the Little League World Series.

Roseland of Chicago exploded for six hits and five runs in the eighth inning for a 8-3 victory over Linares, Mexico, in the other semi-final contest.

Roseland and West Tokyo will meet for the title on Saturday.

Decision Ulster, NLL Mets

Rondout National Bank of the Kingston American League and the Hurley Yankees have advanced to the finals of the area round robin Little League tournament.

Rondout Bank, led by Chris Schick's two-hit pitching and a 3 for 3 night by slugger Jim Milano, stopped the National League Mets, 7-2.

Meanwhile, the Hurley Yankees won their second straight against the Ulster Kiwanis Yankees, 8-6, at the Ulster diamond.

Kingston Nationals will meet the Jaycees Saturday at Kingman Park but the outcome won't affect the final playoff between the Rondout Bank and Hurley Yankees for the championship.

The Rondout nine scored four times in the second inning to pin the loss on Bob Medley. Schick, in pitching the distance, allowed four walks and fanned 10 batters.

Bob Hossock was the winner for the Hurley Yankees. He gave up six hits while his mates had the same number off Barry Berthoff. Chuck Bouton doubled twice for the winners.

California Golfer

In Amateur Play

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bob Smith says it's nice to be Western Amateur medalist and he'd like to win the title again, but the hot-shooting Californian hopes he has plenty left for his first National Amateur next week.

"This is the first time I've ever qualified for the Amateur," said the 24-year-old Sacramento public relations man Thursday after charging home with a 67-69 for a 280, 8 under par.

"The Amateur is the only big amateur tourney I haven't had a shot at," said Smith, the 1965 Western champ and two-time Porter Cup winner.

Rodney Horn, 28, of Prairie Village, Kan., who was only four strokes from the top in the 1965 National Amateur, was the hottest shooter on the Milburn Country Club course as he fired 13 birdies in a 67-66 finish for a 283.

Horn and Ron Cerrudo, Smith's traveling buddy on the amateur swing, tied for second at 283. Next at 286 was Curtis Sifford of Los Angeles.

Royals Edge Subway, 3-2

Two Run Rally In Last Frame Decides Tilt

Overcoming a 2-0 deficit with a run in the sixth and two more in the seventh, Royal Grill took a one-game lead in the City Softball League playoffs with a 3-2 win over Subway Grill Thursday at Upper Hasbrouck.

Nick Berardi's booming home run in the fifth inning had broken a scoreless tie and given Subway, the third place finisher, a 2-0 margin. The way Bill Stokes was working that lead seemed sufficient.

The second place Royals got one back in the sixth on a hit by Jerry Woodvine, an infield out and Bob Short's line single to center.

Two Out Rally

Stokes retired the first two hitters in the seventh before trouble began brewing. He walked Joe Tremper and then uncorked a wild pitch, sending the runner to second with the tying run.

At this point, Rich Sickler of Royal was banished from the game for unsportsmanlike conduct. This didn't stop the winners from moving in front as Bill Murphy and Woodvine socked consecutive doubles to make it a 3-2 game.

The losers made a brief flurry in their last at bats as Don Wells reached base on an error. However, winner George Norton was equal to the occasion and he retired the next three hitters to give his club a 1-0 advantage in the best-of-three series.

Despite the fact there were only four teams in the league, all of them made the playoffs. Gordon's Bar, with a 1-17 record, meets Perry's Grill, regular season winners, in a 6 p. m. game on Monday evening.

Lorrie Stuhler, daughter of Antlers' pro Frank Stuhler, edged defending champion Gail Sykes, 1-up, in the morning semi-finals and beat Diane Wilde, 3 and 2, to win the Northeastern Women's Golf Association championship Thursday at the Edison Club.

Miss Wilde advanced to the finals by beating Mrs. Roy Burris, Mohawk, 5 and 4.

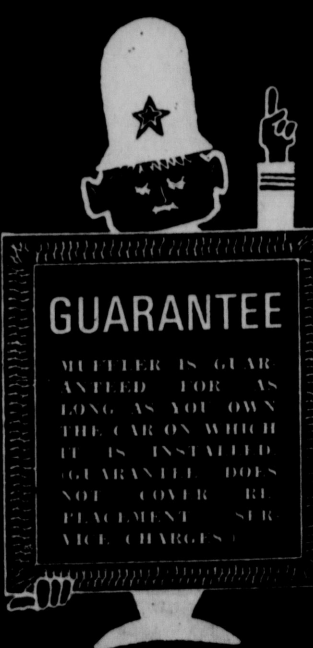

Miss Stuhler built a 4-up advantage over the first nine holes against Miss Wilde, who won the 1965 New York State women's title. She coasted to the victory.

In first flight competition among first round losers in the championship flight, Mrs. Herbert Ellis, Schuyler Meadows, went into sudden death to edge Mrs. Robert Chylinski, Pinehaven, 1-up in 20 holes.

Eddie Stanky doesn't need Hubert H. Humphrey. And he can get along without Bill Monbouquette, too.

The Chicago White Sox manager held forth at great length after his club was blanked on five hits by Monbouquette Thursday and lost to the New York Yankees 5-0. The defeat dropped the Sox into a virtual tie with Boston for the American League lead.

Earlier this month, Stanky barred the clubhouse door in Bloomington, Minn., after a game with the Twins, thereby unwittingly keeping out the vice president, who, though a Twins' fan, wanted to pay his respects.

Stanky sent a telegram of apology, but when asked about the incident Thursday, said, "Humphrey can't hit. What do I want with him?"

The White Sox couldn't do much hitting either against Monbouquette, who, after being released by Detroit in May, spent three weeks frustratingly trying to catch on with every major league team before the Yankees took a chance that has been paying off handsomely ever since.

A Superb Job Monbouquette has pitched well in relief, but in making his first start against Chicago, he was superb. The league leaders managed only five hits and only one of them went out of the infield.

In other American League games, the Red Sox beat Washington 7-5, Minnesota took Detroit 4-2 and Cleveland edged California, 2-1, Baltimore and Kansas City were not scheduled.

Charley Smith, the man who came when Roger Maris went to St. Louis, blasted two two-run homers for the Yankees.

Elston Howard hit his first homer in a Boston uniform, a three-run shot in the seventh inning that led the Sox to within a point of the league lead. Chicago's percentage is .561 to Boston's .560.

Jerry Adair and Jim Landis also homered for the Red Sox who won 10 out of 12 in their current home stand. The Senators scored three times in the ninth before John Wyatt came in to get the final out.

Killer Raps One Harmon Killebrew's 34th homer broke a tie in the eighth inning and the Twins scored again in the ninth on Ted Uhlaender's run-scoring single to cement the victory and sole possession of third place, half a game behind Chicago and Boston. The Tigers are in fourth, 1½ games out.

Chuck Hinton hit a homer in the fourth inning for the decisive Cleveland run and Sam McDowell protected it, giving up just six hits to the Angels and striking out nine.

McCool Hesitates, Reds Bow to Dodgers

Billy McCool hesitated and the Cincinnati Reds were lost. McCool, working in relief in the 10th inning against Los Angeles Thursday night, waited a moment too long before deciding what to do with Jim Lefebvre's sacrifice bunt and the Reds wound up on the short end of a 4-3 score.

Gary Nolan was working on a three-hitter and leading 3-0 going into the ninth inning against the Dodgers. But three straight hits by Lefebvre, Al Ferrara and Wes Parker followed by two errors tied the score for Los Angeles.

An inning later, Lou Johnson opened with a double. Lefebvre bunted and McCool fielded the ball, looked towards third, hesitated, and threw to first. But Lefebvre beat the play.

An intentional walk to Ferrara loaded the bases and after Parker popped out, Bob Bailey singled Johnson home with the winning run.

In the only other National League games played Thursday, Houston edged Atlanta 5-4 in 10 innings and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 2-0. Pittsburgh's game at Philadelphia was rained out.

The Reds nicked Dodger starter Don Sutton for a pair of first inning runs and added another in the third. With Nolan breezing, the margin looked safe, and until the ninth, it was.

9th Frame Rally

But Lefebvre opened with a single and Ferrara doubled. Parker's hit brought one run across and Lee Mays high throw on the relay allowed another to score. Then Tony Perez booted a grounder as Parker carried the tying run across.

Doug Rader drove in three runs with three hits and a sacrifice fly for Houston but the hero was Sonny Jackson, whose 10th-inning single scored Ron Brand with the winning run.

Brand had been hit by a Jay Ritchie pitch with two out and raced to third on Julio Gotay's double. Ramon Hernandez relieved for the Braves and Jackson singled the winning run home.

Bob Tolan and winning pitcher Dick Hughes stroked ninth-

Royals Edge Subway, 3-2

Two Run Rally In Last Frame Decides Tilt

Overcoming a 2-0 deficit with a run in the sixth and two more in the seventh, Royal Grill took a one-game lead in the City Softball League playoffs Thursday at Upper Hasbrouck.

Nick Berardi's booming home run in the fifth inning had broken a scoreless tie and given Subway, the third place finisher, a 2-0 margin. The way Bill Stokes was working that lead seemed sufficient.

The second place Royals got one back in the sixth on a hit by Jerry Woodvine, an infield out and Bob Short's line single to center.

Two Out Rally

Stokes retired the first two hitters in the seventh before trouble began brewing. He walked Joe Tremper and then uncorked a wild pitch, sending the runner to second with the tying run.

At this point, Rich Siedler of Royal was banished from the game for unsportsmanlike conduct. This didn't stop the winners from moving in front as Bill Murphy and Woodvine socked consecutive doubles to make it a 3-2 game.

The losers made a brief flurry in their last at bats as Don Wells reached base on an error. However, winner George Norton was equal to the occasion and he retired the next three batters to give his club a 1-0 advantage in the best-of-three series.

Despite the fact there were only four teams in the league, all of them made the playoffs. Gordon's Bar, with a 1-17 record, meets Perry's Grill, regular season winners, in a 6 p. m. game on Monday evening.

Cormier Gains On Leader Quinn

MONTICELLO, New York—Real Cormier moved to within three races of tying leading dash winner Jack Quinn as Cormier reined both ends of the daily double home at Monticello Raceway last night.

Cormier accomplished his double early on the program for his 52nd and 53rd wins of the year at the Catskill Mountain oval. Quinn began the evening with 56 wins.

It was a $40.20 double with Cormier scoring on The Dreamer in the opener ($4.60) and then edging Quinn at the finish in the second as Busy Bee Chris got home for an $18.40 payoff by a length over Quinn's Winged Star.

Both still had three more mounts each before the evening card ended, with Cormier the morning line favorite in two of the races.

The featured $2,500 trot was won by Underpass, a six-year-old tassel-man gelding driven by George Földi who stuck to pace - setting Prilly like glue for the mile, and won by a length in the stretch in 2:05.2. Jamie's Beauty was third. The winner returned $12.40 for $2.

McKeever Dies, Was Grid Star

MONTICELLO, Calif. (AP)—Mike McKeever, former football star at University of Southern California, died Thursday night in Montebello Convalescent Hospital.

McKeever, 27, had lain unconscious and in critical condition since he was injured in an automobile accident Dec. 3, 1965.

Trojan football Coach John McKay described McKeever as "the best defensive lineman I've seen at USC. A tremendous football player."

Mike's twin, Marlin, was a star end of the Los Angeles Rams pro football team. Survivors included Mike's widow, Judy.

Both McKeevers, after their junior year at USC were designated All America in 1959. Marlin was a first team lineman; Mike, a guard, was picked for the third team.

Greco Horse Is Heat Winner At County Fair

Kiskatom, owned and trained by Ray Greco of Saugerties, finished second and first in two heats of harness racing at the Dutchess County Fair in Rhinebeck.

The six-year-old gelding, driven by George Kennedy, was timed in 2:16 for his second place finish. In the second heat, Kennedy drove the horse to a 2:15 win.

Greco said he plans to enter the pacer in the Chatham Fair races and is hopeful of bringing him to Saratoga Raceway.

Southside Club Tops Paul's 10-3

Southside Men's Club put five hits together in the fourth inning to score seven runs and beat Paul's 10-3, to take a one game lead in the consolation Yankee division finals of the Saugerties Softball League playoffs.

Bob Mignano began the explosion with a home run and the winners from there to pin the setback on Sam Tesoriero. Don Martin, making his initial start of the season, hurled a six-hitter to record the decision.

The second game of the best-of-three set is slated Monday at 8 p. m.

Boo's Decisions Ted's Esso, 9-3

Making liberal use of bases on balls, Boo's Tavern advanced to the finals of the Met division consolation playoffs of the Saugerties Softball League with a 9-3 decision over Ted's Esso.

The winners collected seven walks, and also had a pair of hit batsmen to jump to a 6-0 lead in the opening session.

Barney Hoyt held the losers in check, scattering nine hits and fanning eight.

Ted's regular season champions, will now watch the consolation finals between Boo's and Nationwide Insurance. The first game in the best-of-three series will start Monday at 6 o'clock.

Pro Charts

JOE SCHMIDT WAYNE WALKER

GENERAL COMMENT—There's not really much you can predict about this turbulent organization. There's a new head coach, Joe Schmidt, who's never been a full-time coach of any kind before—though much respected as person and player. Thanks to merger, they've finally gotten their share of draft talent. But there's no pattern of stability—yet.

PASSING—Some suspicion last year that young Karl Sweetan might finally have eased out Milt Plum. But here we go with another season, and it looks like Plum back at helm. Rating—B minus.

RECEIVING—Soon as Gail Cogdill (broken arm), Pat Studstill show up in one piece, they'll have ample talent on field. Cogdill might even have trouble staying off young Bill Malinchak. Studstill merely led league. Defy anyone to find a better tandem of tight ends than Ron Kramer, Jim Gibbons. Just get the ball to 'em. Rating—A minus.

RUNNING—Mel Farr, Nick Eddy represent best influx of ball carriers in club history. And they need 'em, too. Looks like Farr will play right away. Idea eventually is to pair 'em, but that could hurt in pass blocking. So guys like Tom Nowatske, willing but slow accelerating, and Amos Marsh, unpredictable, still figure. Rating—B.

LINE—Really hurting if Darryl Sanders sticks by decision to quit. Other tackle, J. D. Smith, also retired. Not even acquisition of Charley Bradshaw, compensates. Steady at center, with Flanagan, and one guard, with John Gordy. Bob Kowalkowski's promising at other guard, if they don't have to move him to tackle. Rating—C plus.

KICKING—Little Garo Ypreman hangs in there as the soccer-style field goal booter, with Wayne Walker for emergencies. Studstill is tops as punter.

DEFENSE

LINE—Even with Darris McCord, in the 13th season, starting to wear out, there's no real worry. Other end, Larry Hand, is a good one. Tackle duo of Roger Brown, Alex Karras remains best, would be even better if they learned to like each other. Jerry Rush is behind them. Rookie named Lew Kamanu could help out McCord. Rating—B plus.

LINEBACKERS—Bright rookie like Paul Naumoff is going to have to wait his turn because no one's moving out starting set of Wayne Walker (all-pro type), Ernie Clark at corners, Mike Lucci (developing fast) in middle. Wally Hilgenberg, in fact, gets first relief call. Rating—B plus.

SECONDARY—No apparent change here, either, with Bob Thompson, Dick LeBeau returning at corners, Bruce Maher and Wayne Rasmussen at safeties. Tommy Vaughn could push Rasmussen. Rookie Lem Barney might make Thompson step a little livelier to hang in there. Rating—B.

SUMMARY—The whole problem of the Lions is to find a quarterback who can generate consistent leadership. The defense, as proud Lion tradition should be up to past years. The offense has an injection of running backs who'll give it a new image. Of course, Joe Schmidt also has to prove himself as a coach. PREDICTION—Third in Central division.

County Tennis In Semi-Finals

Semi-final action in the Ulster County Tennis tournament is scheduled this weekend at the Forsyth Park courts.

Pete Zeeh will meet Dave Streibel in a 10:30 men's single match Saturday. Dick Smith will oppose Jim Fredericks on Sunday at 10 a. m.

In Thursday's mixed doubles results, Pete Zeeh and D. Beale defeated Dr. M. Grover and M. Grover, 5-7, 6-2 and 6-2; Fredericks and Kitty Fowler won over Nick and Barbara Fowler, 6-0, 6-4 and Hany and J. Sykes beat Chip Grover and P. Grover, 7-5, 6-0.

In women's singles, Kitty Fowler trimmed Nancy Alexander, 6-2, 6-4; Ruth Golden defeated Paula Hutton, 6-2, 6-0 and Kitty Samuels beat Mary Fowler, 6-4, 6-3 in a semi-final match.

Men's doubles and mixed doubles are slated for Saturday morning, weather permitting.

Clipper C. Cops Saratoga Feature

Clipper C., finishing 4½ lengths ahead of Adios Onion, captured the $13,140 feature race at Saratoga Raceway Thursday night, the seventh in the New York Sire Stakes series.

The winner, paying $3.80 for the win, stepped the mile in 2:04 4-5. Progressor finished third.

Ken McNutt drove the three-year-old black gelding to a time of 2:04 1-5. A win ticket paid $25.80.

Gold Wave led from wire to wire in winning the $1,100 feature race at Vernon Downs. The winner, who finished three quarters of a length ahead of Molly Brook Dean, stepped the mile in 2:01 4-5.

Two-Year-Olds Featured In Saturday's Spa Closing

By ORLO ROBERTSON Associated Press Sports Writer

Two-year-olds move back into thoroughbred racing's spotlight Saturday with members of the top echelon scheduled to start in the 6½ furlongs of the $75,000-added Hopeful, winding up the four-week meeting at Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Saratoga officials look for a field of 11, making the 63rd running of the Hopeful worth $115,475 with $75,858 ticketed for the winner.

Shipped to Chicago

Trainer Eddie Neley thought of sending the highly regarded Vitriolic out as a running mate for What a Pleasure, whose only setback was by Subpet in the Sapling. But he changed his mind and shipped Vitriolic to Chicago to prepare for the $300,000 plus Washington-Arlington Futurity at Arlington Park Sept. 9.

Greco Horse Is Heat Winner At County Fair

Kiskatom, owned and trained by Ray Greco of Saugerties, finished second and first in two heats of harness racing at the Dutchess County Fair in Rhinebeck.

The six-year-old gelding, driven by George Kennedy, was timed in 2:16 for his second place finish. In the second heat, Kennedy drove the horse to a 2:15 win.

Greco said he plans to enter the pacer in the Chatham Fair races and is hopeful of bringing him to Saratoga Raceway.

Southside Club Tops Paul's 10-3

Southside Men's Club put five hits together in the fourth inning to score seven runs and beat Paul's Shell, 10-3, to take a one game lead in the consolation Yankee division finals of the Saugerties Softball League playoffs.

Bob Mignano began the explosion with a home run and the winners from there to pin the setback on Sam Tesoriero. Don Martin, making his initial start of the season, hurled a six-hitter to record the decision.

The second game of the best-of-three set is slated Monday at 8 p. m.

Boo's Decisions Ted's Esso, 9-3

Making liberal use of bases on balls, Boo's Tavern advanced to the finals of the Met division consolation playoffs of the Saugerties Softball League with a 9-3 decision over Ted's Esso.

The winners collected seven walks, and also had a pair of hit batsmen to jump to a 6-0 lead in the opening session.

Barney Hoyt held the losers in check, scattering nine hits and fanning eight.

Ted's regular season champions, will now watch the consolation finals between Boo's and Nationwide Insurance. The first game in the best-of-three series will start Monday at 6 o'clock.

Pro Charts

NFL — Detroit Lions

JOE SCHMIDT WAYNE WALKER

GENERAL COMMENT — There's not really much you can predict about this turbulent organization. There's a new head coach, Joe Schmidt, who's never been a full-time coach of any kind before — though much respected as person and player. Thanks to merger, they've finally gotten their share of draft talent. But there's no pattern of stability — yet.

OFFENSE

PASSING — Some suspicion last year that young Karl Sweetan might finally have eased out Milt Plum. But here we go with another season, and it looks like Plum back at helm. Rating — B minus.

RECEIVING — Soon as Gail Cogdill (broken arm), Pat Studstill show up in one piece, they'll have ample talent on wide flanks. Cogdill might even have trouble staying off young Bill Malinchak. Studstill merely led league. Defy anyone to find a better tandem of tight ends than Ron Kramer, Jim Gibbons. Just get the ball to 'em. Rating — A minus.

RUNNING — Mel Farr, Nick Eddy represent best influx of ball carriers in club history. And they need 'em, too. Looks like Farr will play right away. Idea eventually is to pair 'em, but that could hurt in pass blocking. So guys like Tom Nowatski, willing but slow accelerating, and Amos Marsh, unpredictable, still figure. Rating — B.

LINE — Really hurting if Darryl Sanders sticks by decision to quit. Other tackle, J. D. Smith, also retired. Not even acquisition of Charley Bradshaw, compensates. Steady at center, with Flanagan, and one guard, with John Gordy. Bob Kowalkowski's promising at other guard, if they don't have to move him to tackle. Rating — C plus.

KICKING — Little Garo Ypreman hangs in there as the soccer-style field goal booter, with Wayne Walker for emergencies. Studstill is tops as punter.

DEFENSE

LINE — Even with Darris McCord, in the 13th season, starting to wear out, there's no real worry. Other end, Larry Hand, is a good one. Tackle duo of Roger Brown, Alex Karras remains best, would be even better if they learned to like each other. Jerry Rush is behind them. Rookie named Lew Kamanu could help out McCord. Rating — B plus.

LINEBACKERS — Bright rookie like Paul Naumoff is going to have to wait his turn because no one's moving out starting set of Wayne Walker (all-pro type), Ernie Stark at corners, Mike Lucci (developing fast) in middle. Wally Hilgenberg, in fact, gets first relief call. Rating — B plus.

SECONDARY — No apparent change here, either, with Bob Thompson, Dick LeBeau returning at corners, Bruce Maher and Wayne Rasmussen at safeties. Tommy Vaughn could push Rasmussen. Rookie Lem Barney might make Thompson step a little livelier to hang in there. Rating — B.

SUMMARY — The whole problem of the Lions is to find a quarterback who can generate consistent leadership. The defense, as proud Lion tradition should be up to past weeks. The offense has an injection of running backs who'll give it a new image. Of course, Joe Schmidt also has to prove himself as a coach. PREDICTION — Third in Central division.

County Tennis In Semi-Finals

Semi-final action in the Ulster County Tennis tournament is scheduled this weekend at the Forsyth Park courts.

Pete Zeeh will meet Dave Streibel in a 10:30 men's single match Saturday. Dick Smith will oppose Jim Fredericks on Sunday at 10 a. m.

In Thursday's mixed doubles results, Pete Zeeh and D. Beale defeated Dr. M. Grover and M. Grover, 5-7, 6-2 and 6-2; Fredericks and Kitty Fowler won over Nick and Barbara Fowler, 6-0, 6-4 and Hany and J. Sykes beat Chip Grover and P. Grover, 7-5, 6-0.

In women's singles, Kitty Fowler trimmed Nancy Alexander, 6-2, 6-4; Ruth Golden defeated Paula Hutton, 6-2, 6-0 and Kitty Samuels beat Mary Fowler, 6-4, 6-3 in a semi-final match.

Men's doubles and mixed doubles are slated for Saturday morning, weather permitting.

Clipper C. Cops Saratoga Feature

Clipper C., finishing 4½ lengths ahead of Adios Onion, captured the $13,140 feature pace at Saratoga Raceway Thursday night, the seventh in the New York Sire Stakes series.

The winner, paying $3.80 for the win, stepped the mile in 2:04 4-5. Progressor finished third.

Ken McNutt drove the three-year-old black gelding to a time of 2:04 1-5. A win ticket paid $25.80.

Gold Wave led from wire to wire in winning the $1,100 feature pace at Vernon Downs. The winner, who finished three quarters of a length ahead of Molly Brook Dean, stepped the mile in 2:01 4-5.

Two-Year-Olds Featured In Saturday's Spa Closing

By ORLO ROBERTSON Associated Press Sports Writer

Two-year-olds move back into thoroughbred racing's spotlight Saturday with members of the top echelon scheduled to start in the 6½ furlongs of the $75,006-added Hopeful, winding up the four-week meeting at Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Saratoga officials look for a field of 11, making the 63rd running of the Hopeful worth $115,475 with $75,858 ticketed for the winner.

Shipped to Chicago

Trainer Eddie Neley thought of sending the highly regarded Vitriolic out as a running mate for What a Pleasure, whose only setback was by Subpet in the Sapling. But he changed his mind and shipped Vitriolic to Chicago to prepare for the $300,000 plus Washington-Arlington Futurity at Arlington Park Sept. 9.

Too Much Rain

HENDERSON, Md. (AP)—Maryland's Eastern Shore farmers—at first happy over heavy rains that have sweet corn and tomatoes grow pump—are now suffering from too much rain.

Rainfall in the lush lowlands east of Chesapeake Bay is the heaviest since Hurricane Connie and Diane dumped 18 inches there in Aug. 1955.

This Eastern Shore community has had more than 13 inches of rain this month.

Sweet corn farmers have asked Gov. Spiro T. Agnew to allow use of prison labor to harvest corn because mechanical pickers would bog down in the muddy fields.

Too Much Rain

HENDERSON, Md. (AP) — Maryland's Eastern Shore farmers — at first happy over heavy rains that made sweet corn and tomatoes grow plump — are now suffering from too much rain.

Rainfall in the lush lowlands east of Chesapeake Bay is the heaviest since Hurricanes Connie and Diane dumped 18 inches there in Aug. 1955.

This Eastern Shore community has had more than 13 inches of rain this month.

Sweet corn farmers have asked Gov. Spiro T. Agnew to allow use of prison labor to harvest corn because mechanical pickers would bog down in the muddy fields.

Dear Abby

He's Not Worth the Worry

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and overweight. Everyone tells me I have a pretty face, but very few boys bother to look any further. I've had only two dates in my life and was so self-conscious I was miserable. You just can't imagine how much I'd like to be popular and have dates.

One night at a party one of the most popular boys in school took an interest in me. I was in heaven. He took me home and we parked on the way and kissed. It was my first kiss. It was wonderful. We kissed a lot and finally I got scared and called a halt.

He said he wanted to see me often, but next time he wasn't stopping at a kiss. He told me to get wise, that any fat girl can be popular if she will just give in a little. I was shocked and demanded that he take me home at once.

He told me to think it over and call him when I changed my mind. That was two lonely months ago, and I've been thinking, O, Abby, what shall I do? I don't want to be a bad girl, but I want to be one of the crowd. Shall I pay the price?

FAT AND LONELY

DEAR FAT: The "price" might be more than you're prepared to pay. The boy is clearly thinking only of himself and his selfish gratification. "Fat girls can be popular," he says, "if they will just give in a little." Brilliant! So can THIN girls, with the kind of boys who use girls for all they can get and then go on to fresher game. He is not for you. And neither is any boy who hands you that kind of line. Don't be surprised if HE thinks it over and calls you to tell you that he has changed his mind. Some boys use this technique to "test" a girl, when he's looking for one he can respect as well as love.

DEAR ABBY: My mother bought an old beat up upholstered davenport from an antique dealer. She paid $45 for it and sent a truck to haul it to her home. It sat in her basement for nearly a year. She started pulling it apart in order to reupholster it herself and she found $1,600 in bills in a yellowed envelope in one of the cushions. She hasn't told anyone but me about this. Does she have to return the money to the antique dealer or does it belong to her?

NAMELESS IN NEW ORLEANS

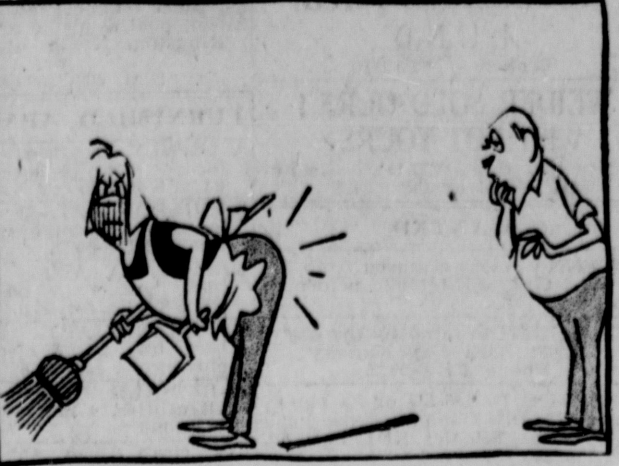

DEAR NAMELESS: The money belongs to your mother, unless and until someone turns up and proves that the money is his and that he had hidden it in that davenport. In the meantime, your mother has a pretty soft cushion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DEE: Generalizations are unfair and unjust, so I will not say that ALL 14-year-old girls are too young and immature to date 18-year-old boys. I shall be more specific: ALL 14-year-old girls whose parents think they are too young and immature to date 18-year-old boys, ARE!

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 697000, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. © 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

anarchy (AN-er-key) existing without any form of government or law. After the defeat of Hitler in World War II, the allies had to quickly establish a military government in order to prevent the possibility of complete anarchy. The teacher was dismayed to discover that after he left his classroom for a few moments a mood of anarchy was created by some bored students. After the overthrow of the existing government by a crowd of angry rebels, a spirit of anarchy ruled in the streets.

Squeezes Can Be Foreseen

On some occasions it should be easy to see that a squeeze may be developing and to find a lead to break it up.

South won the heart opening in his own hand and led his three of spades. Dummy's jack lost to East's ace and East made the safe (?) lead of a heart. South proceeded to run off five club tricks. He discarded the six of spades and queen of diamonds from dummy.

West was one of those players who might be described as poor but honest. His first discard was the nine of diamonds; his second the three of diamonds and his third the four of diamonds. All these presented no problem but when South lead a heart to dummy West had to make a fourth discard. This turned out to be sheer torture but eventually he played his eight of diamonds like a man losing his last tooth.

South noted all this. He cashed dummy's two high spades; led the seven of diamonds, rose with his ace and made his slam. East was indignant with West. "Couldn't you have played your diamonds in the order 3-4-8-9 and without the showing any worry? In that case declarer would probably

When East was in with the ace of spades he should have seen that the only way to set the slam would be if West held the king of diamonds and a spade stopper and East should have led a diamond and broken up the squeeze before it had a chance to develop.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and overweight. Everyone tells me I have a pretty face, but very few boys bother to look any further. I've had only two dates in my life and was so self-conscious I was miserable. You just can't imagine how much I'd like to be popular and have dates.

One night at a party one of the most popular boys in school took an interest in me. I was in heaven. He took me home and we parked on the way and kissed. It was my first kiss. It was wonderful. We kissed a lot and finally I got scared and called a halt. He said he wanted to see me often, but next time he wasn't stopping at a kiss. He told me to get wise, that any fat girl can be popular if she will just give in a little. I was shocked and demanded that he take me home at once.

He told me to think it over and call him when I changed my mind. That was two lonely months ago, and I've been thinking, O, Abby, what shall I do? I don't want to be a bad girl, but I want to be one of the crowd. Shall I pay the price?

FAT AND LONELY

DEAR FAT: The "price" might be more than you're prepared to pay. The boy is clearly thinking only of himself and his selfish gratification. "Fat girls can be popular," he says, "if they will just give in a little." Brilliant! So can thin girls, with the kind of boys who use girls for all they can get and then go on to fresher game.

He is not for you. And neither is any boy who hands you that kind of line. Don't be surprised if HE thinks it over and calls you to tell you that he has changed his mind. Some boys use this technique to "test" a girl, when he's looking for one he can respect as well as love.

DEAR ABBY: My mother bought an old beat up upholstered davenport from an antique dealer. She paid $45 for it and sent a truck to haul it to her home. It sat in her basement for nearly a year. She started pulling it apart in order to reupholster it herself and she found $1,600 in bills in a yellowed envelope in one of the cushions. She hasn't told anyone but me about this. Does she have to return the money to the antique dealer or does it belong to her?

NAMELESS IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR NAMELESS: The money belongs to your mother, unless and until someone turns up and proves that the money is his and that he had hidden it in that davenport. In the meantime, your mother has a pretty soft cushion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DEE: Generalizations are unfair and unjust, so I will not say that ALL 14-year-old girls are too young and immature to date 18-year-old boys. I shall be more specific: ALL 14-year-old girls whose parents think they are too young and immature to date 18-year-old boys, ARE!

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. (© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

with a difference. Even though it comes off the production lines of Ivan Tors, who gave us Judy the chimp; Clarence, the cross-eyed lion of "Daktari," and Flipper the superdolphin, Weaver insists that Ben, 650 pounds of tractability and friendliness, will be treated in the scripts as a family pet, unendowed with human sensitivities.

"No one in this series," said Weaver, "will ever get into a mess and say, 'I'm hurt, Ben, go get dad.'"

"Gentle Ben" follows "Lassie" on the networks "Sunday evening schedule—and Lassie has been getting dad, the rangers or most often—doing the rescuing herself, for 13 years without a goof. The two shows should provide an interesting study in contrast.

Weaver made an indelible impression on television audiences during the nine years he played Chester, Marshal Dillon's limping, drawing, worryingly side-kick in "Gunsmoke."

After he quit the show, he went through a difficult period attempting to shake himself of the Chester identity.

"It was natural to be identified that strongly," he said. "The character was extremely visual, which puts the actor into a pigeon-hole—particularly since Chester has stayed in view on 'Gunsmoke' reruns.

After that he made a couple of pilots neither of which worked out, a short-lived series called "Kentucky Jones," and since then has been busy in motion pictures.

In "Gentle Ben," shot in Florida, Weaver plays a game warden and father of an 8-year-old boy with a pet bear. Ben is an American bear who was raised as a pet by a family in Minnesota and is as tame and gentle—as the ordinary family dog, Weaver says. However, he is handled by five trainers, three of them on the set with him at all times.

Friendly With All "He's friendly with everyone," said Weaver, "everyone who will feed him, that is. Bears are omnivorous, so it doesn't matter whether it's honey, crackers, doughnuts, just as long as it's food."

The actor observed that the usual format for such a show is merely a convenient frame in which to place the animals.

"Our format is to tell a story, and use the animal to enhance it—but as a pet animal, not something human under a furry exterior. I don't think that is really necessary and just detracts from the believability," he said.

"And if you aren't faced with the necessity of having the animal wrap up everything neatly at the end, the base of the series can be much broader."

Although "Gentle Ben" is aimed at young audiences, Weaver thinks that adults may find it interesting.

"It's the opposite of 'Gunsmoke,'" he said. "That was made for adults—it was on in the late evening—but it had a big following of kids and they really dug it."

'Gentle Ben'--A Contrast

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Ap Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dennis Weaver, with one hit and some misses behind him, is returning to television this season, playing a husband and father in an early evening CBS series whose title role is enacted by a large, black bear.

Just a Pet
"Gentle Ben," however, is promised as an adventure series

Auto Workers Rolling Up Sizeable Majorities to Okay Big 3 Strike

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers are rolling up overwhelming majorities to authorize a strike against General Motors, Ford or Chrysler in support of new contract demands.

Ballots received from Chrysler UAW members had 36,482 in favor of authorization and 1,532 against. At Ford the margin is 32,976 to 966.

90 Plus Per Cent

The UAW has disclosed no figures on General Motors voting, but usually reliable sources report the margin there also is 90-plus per cent in favor of authorizing a strike, if negotiators deem one necessary.

Local unions with 375,000 members at GM, 152,000 at Ford and 95,000 at Chrysler are under order to complete balloting today and to get results to UAW headquarters tonight.

A heavy vote for authorization would not mean necessarily there will be a strike.

The UAW, however, has summoned local union leaders to seven cities Saturday and Sunday "to acquaint them with the strike assistance program of the international union," and forecasts of a strike have come this week from both industry and union executives.

Robert J. Eggert, marketing manager of Ford's Lincoln-Mercury division, said in Madison, Wis., "The unions are asking for a large wage increase and don't seem to want to compromise."

Then Eggert added: "If the (expected) strike lasts more than three weeks it would begin to show up in the economic indicators, and if it developed into an industrywide strike I would expect the government to step in."

Could Be Long One

Robert Johnston, UAW regional director for Illinois and Iowa, told a seminar of union representatives in Ottawa, Ill., that "all signs point to a strike and if it is a strike, it will probably be a long one."

Among other things, the UAW is demanding a guaranteed annual income, a substantial wage increase for all with additional for skilled tradesmen, equal pay for Canadian auto workers who now average about 40 cents an hour less than their American counterparts, higher pensions, earlier retirement and other fringe benefits.

A General Motors spokesman estimated this week it would take $4 per hour per worker each year to meet all union wage and benefit demands.

The companies estimate wages and fringes now add up to about $4.70 hourly for each worker. The Bureau of Labor Statistics figures the average hourly straight-time pay, without fringes or benefits, is $3.41 in the auto industry as a whole.

maneuvering of the Board of Supervisors has cost the county many more dollars than was necessary for the construction of Ulster County Community College buildings in Stone Ridge, and that the buildings themselves are characterized by "costly mistakes" that have "State University officials."

Reisner charged the new UCCC "all-purpose building" cost $29.23 per square foot to build, whereas the state average for community college classroom buildings stands at $18.44 per square foot, a difference of $10.79.

The Democratic candidate also said that the college library cost $31.74 per square foot with the state average being $24.03.

Examines Buildings

Reisner stated that the new science building "is not a true science building. There are very few science facilities in it, as it will be used for the present largely as a classroom building, for music and other subjects."

These buildings of the (college) are simple, wall bearing jobs with bar joist construction, and floor slab on grade," he said, explaining, "They should not be costing more than the state average. The question is, why have they been so expensive? The money is not in the buildings."

Reisner pointed out that "the brick situation is still far from a satisfactory solution. The most recent problem has been the difficulty experienced in trying to clean the brick of excess mortar, etc., as is customary after construction.

"District engineer of the U. S. Government Housing and Urban Development Administration recently visited the site and inspected, among other things, the brick," Reisner stated, adding, "He found the appearance unsatisfactory because of the serious discoloration of the brick. Efforts to clean the brick at the entrance of the All-Purpose Building resulted in a worse, rather than a better appearance."

In asking for suggestions for cleaning it (the engineer) stated, "Future use in any of our projects will be prohibited until such a solution is found."

Reisner charged that State University officials "are very concerned about the structural stability of the cornice of this building. They expect further trouble due to excessive weight of said cornice."

'Unightly Mess'

Reisner said that there has been a "haphazard, helterskelter pattern of the installation of ducts and exhausts ventilators on the science building roof. There has been no attempt to organize or to hide them and the unsightly mess resembles a mushroom plantation."

Pointing the guilty finger at the County Board of Supervisors, "who consider public money to be a plaything for those in power and a tool for the buildup of personal prestige," the new Paltz candidate concluded that "for the lifetime of these buildings there will be unnecessary expenses because of poor construction and planning."

Cornwall Controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — The $2.7 million that the Consolidated Edison Co. paid to the village of Cornwall in Orange County has led to controversy all the way from New York City to Albany and at points between.

The money was paid during the last four years for legal engineering and water supply expenses incurred by the village because of Con Ed's plan to build a $184-million hydroelectric plant there.

Spokesmen for the village have supported the project before various government bodies. A number of conservation groups have opposed the plan largely on the grounds it would mar the beauty of the Hudson River Valley and would be a threat to fish life.

The Con Ed payments to the village brought these developments Thursday and Thursday night.

A spokesman for State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said in Albany that Levitt's office was studying the financial arrangement between Cornwall and Con Ed. The spokesman said the department's only comment was that it was looking into the possibility that laws within its scope had been violated.

In New York, a Con Ed spokesman denied published reports that the company paid $125,000 in legal and travel fees after village officials had testified in favor of the project at Storm King Mountain. The spokesman said the $125,000 was reimbursed over several years, and Con Ed had a contractual agreement for such reimbursement—regardless of how the village officials testified. "There was nothing quid pro quo something for something about this," he said.

Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, Democrat of Pleasantville, Westchester County, questioned the propriety of the $2.7 million payments. He based part of his objection on the fact that the village was paid for the legal expenses it incurred to prepare a brief supporting the Con Ed project which was filed with the Federal Power Commission. A statement by Ottinger said in part: "Coming on top of the recent rate scandals, these abuses of Con Ed expose a serious defect in the regulatory system—a system that calls for investigation and legislative remedy."

Mayor Michael J. Donahue of Cornwall said: "We would have put in a brief anyway, whether Con Edison reimbursed us or not. This is not in its entirety a Con Edison brief. It's a village brief."

Rod Vandivert, director of the Scenic Hudson Preservation Conference, which is fighting the power project, said in a statement that the payments to the village illustrate "how a giant utility, with money to burn, secures support."

The payments to Cornwall were made as part of a 1963 agreement between Con Ed and officials of the community, which is about 50 miles north of New York City on the Hudson River. The figures have been part of the public record, on file with the Federal Power Commission in Washington.

Local Lawyer Seeking JP Post in Town of Ulster

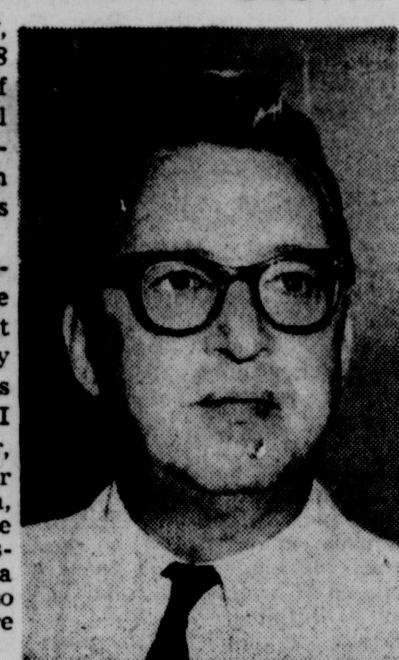

A well known local attorney, Sherwood E. Davis, of 238 Wrentham Street, Town of Ulster, said today that he will seek the nomination for Justice of the Peace at the Town of Ulster's Republican Caucus on Sept. 9.

Davis, who has been practicing law in the area for the past 17 years and is a past president of the Ulster County Bar Association, in making his announcement today said, "I sincerely feel that a lawyer, particularly one who is familiar with the problems of his area, could do much to broaden the dimensions of the office of Justice of the Peace, and in a small way, could contribute to the strengthening of the entire Justice Court system."

Serves Committee

Besides his local practice, Davis is currently serving as the assistant counsel to the State's Joint Legislative Committee on Penal Institutions which has recently been conducting a state-wide survey of the entire penal system, and for several years Davis was a member of the Penal Committee of the New York State Bar Association. The local attorney also conducted an adult education course at Kingston High School on the subject of Law for the Layman.

Attorney Davis is a graduate of Wesleyan University in Connecticut and, prior to World War II, he attended Cornell University Law School. At the outbreak of the war Davis enlisted in the Army as a private and in 1946 he was discharged as a captain. Davis served for four years in the European Theater of Operations, having taken part in the Allied landings in Normandy. After the war, Davis completed his legal education at the New York University Law School, and was

Civic Concerns

Attorney Davis has also been most interested in various civic matters in the Town of Ulster, having been on the town's original planning board, as well as serving as the attorney for the former town school district, and he is now the chairman for the Community Chest campaign. Davis is also a past commander of Kingston Post 150, American Legion, acted as judge advocate for the Ulster County American Legion, and was the first Civil Defense director for the Kingston area.

The local attorney is a former Republican Committeeman in the Town of Ulster, and for two years he served as president of the Town of Ulster Republican Club.

Davis is married to the former Mary Matthews of Kingston, and they have three children, Mary Jane, John and Stephen.

Paltz College Work Bid Is $46,433

A low bid of $46,433 was opened in Albany this week for construction work at State University College at New Paltz.

The bid, submitted by Abbott Roofing and Construction Co., the Bronx, was for work to replace the roof of the main building at the university.

It was one of 16 projects on which bids totaling $1,347,799 were opened, according to J. Burch McMoran, superintendent of public works. A total of 84 bids were received on the projects included in the letting.

Probe Burglary At Gas Station

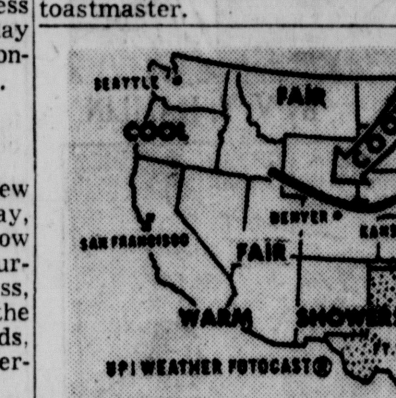

Kingston's Detective Division today disclosed they are investigating a burglary at Bob Perry's Service Station, 316 Broadway.

According to detectives, the station was victimized Wednesday night when thieves entered a back door and took more than $250 worth of tools and several auto batteries.

Police said they were notified of the crime early Thursday morning. Detectives said they are conducting an investigation into the matter.

Attends Conclave

Charles E. Schultz, director of probation for Ulster County, is attending the annual conference of New York State Probation Administrators at Bolton Landing, Lake George, through Friday. Highlight of the program is an address at the conference banquet by former Assemblyman Richard J. Barilett of Glens Falls, newly appointed chairman of the State Crime Control Council. He is discussing the role of the new agency, Warren County Family Court Judge Charles S. Ringwood is toastmaster.

Wounded GI Stops at Freeman

Home from the war, a wounded veteran of almost a year in Vietnam and one of many recipients of gifts to Ulster County servicemen, stopped in at the Kingston Freeman Tuesday to say "thanks."

SP 4 John Recor, son of William Recor and brother of Mrs. Alene Dumont, both of 48 Broadway, said he knew personally 13 servicemen, stopped in at the Kingston Freeman Tuesday to say "thanks."

writing paper — "It's hard to come by over there, two tablets a month for a whole squad," shaving supplies and of special significance, recording tape.

Some of the tape made a round trip. Recor brought back with him a roll on which is recorded a sound track from a movie, "Sound of Vietnam," which was made while he was there. He also has tapes of Bob Hope, Roy Acuff and Stonewall Jackson which he made while being entertained at a USO show.

Recor also brought back bandages—on his right arm. He received fragmentation wounds to his wrist and hand when one of his buddies stepped on a booby trap. His friend lost a foot and four fingers.

Recor, whose official home is in upstate Liverpool where his mother resides, spent three years on assignment in Germany before being transferred to Vietnam. Home now on 55 days leave, he will report to Colorado for reassignment in October.

"The best welcome-home present I got," he beamed, "was when I landed at Travis Air Force Base and the airline hostess gave me a big kiss. I was so happy to be home. I bent down and gave the American girl a big kiss!"

Adding Second Unit To Professional Park

A second unit of an ultimate four unit Professional Park on Pine Street between St. James and Franklin Street is now under construction by the Pine Street Professional Park, Inc., a group of local physicians and dentists.

The original professional building unit which encompassed 10,000 square feet of space to house six local doctors and two dentists, was erected in 1965 and opened late that year. The second unit, approximately one-fifth larger than the first unit, will have 10 offices of which seven have already been taken by doctors and one dentist. There presently are two other offices available, Dr. Hamilton Boyd, president of the corporation, said.

Work on the second unit was commenced about four weeks ago when ground was broken and it is expected the building will be ready for occupancy by Dec. 1. Marshall Erdman and Associates, Inc., of Madison, Wis., a firm specializing in the creation of professional parks, are erecting the new building.

The second unit will be similar in design to the present unit and will be set back from the present building, facing Pine Street. There remains room for two more units on the three acre site.

Present parking areas will be enlarged to provide ample parking for cars.

The new building, like the first unit, will feature modern central heating air conditioning and special features for patient comfort.

Mahopac Man Rescued From Wyoming Peak

GRAND TETON NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Gaylord Campbell, 26, of Mahopac, N. Y., was plucked off 13,776-foot Grand Teton Peak Thursday after being hurt while mountain climbing.

He was taken to a hospital in Jackson, Wyo., with a compound leg fracture.

Police said Campbell was struck by a rock and fell 20 feet to a ledge while climbing near the top of the sheer north face of the peak.

A crew of park rangers carried him to Teton Glacier field at the 11,000-foot level where the helicopter picked him up.

Campbell's companion, Lorraine I. Hough, 21, of Sandwich, Ill., was rescued by helicopter early Wednesday.

Councilmen Form New State Unit

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — City councilmen from seven cities organized the State Association of City Councils Thursday and elected as co-chairmen Robert E. Leverton of Syracuse and Stanley Makowski of Buffalo.

John Cahill of Binghamton was elected secretary.

Makowski said the group would express councilmen's views on such issues as public safety, urban renewal, transportation and education.

Roy Simmons, president of the Syracuse Common Council, said the association "would benefit every city council in the state."

The 35 councilmen at the meeting represented Syracuse, Buffalo, Binghamton, Yonkers, Mt. Vernon, Schenectady, and Utica.

Auto Workers Rolling Up Sizeable Majorities to Okay Big 3 Strike

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers are rolling up overwhelming majorities to authorize a strike against General Motors, Ford or Chrysler in support of new contract demands.

Ballots received from Chrysler UAW members had 36,492 in favor of authorization and 1,532 against. At Ford the margin is 32,976 to 966.

90 Plus Pct.

The UAW has disclosed no figures on General Motors voting, but usually reliable sources report the margin there also is 90-plus per cent in favor of authorizing a strike, if negotiators deem one necessary.

Local unions with 375,000 members at GM, 152,000 at Ford and 95,000 at Chrysler are under order to complete balloting today and to get results to UAW headquarters tonight.

A heavy vote for authorization would not mean necessarily there will be a strike.

The UAW, however, has summoned local union leaders to seven cities Saturday and Sunday "to acquaint them with the strike assistance program of the international union," and forecasts of a strike have come this week from both industry and union executives.

Robert J. Eggert, marketing manager of Ford's Lincoln-Mercury division, said in Madison, Wis., "The unions are asking for a large wage increase and don't seem to want to compromise."

Then Eggert added: "If the (expected) strike lasts more than three weeks it would begin to show up in the economic indicators, and if it developed into an industrywide strike I would expect the government to step in."

Could Be Long One

Robert Johnston, UAW regional director for Illinois and Iowa, told a seminar of union representatives in Ottawa, Ill., that "all signs point to a strike and if it is a strike, it will probably be a long one."

Among other things, the UAW is demanding a guaranteed annual income, a substantial wage increase for all with additional for skilled tradesmen, equal pay for Canadian auto workers who now average about 40 cents an hour less than their American counterparts, higher pensions, earlier retirement and other fringe benefits.

A General Motors spokesman estimated this week it would take $4 per hour per worker each year to meet all union wage and benefit demands.

The companies estimate wages and fringes now add up to about $4.70 hourly for each worker. The Bureau of Labor Statistics figures the average hourly straight-time pay, without fringes or benefits, is $3.41 in the auto industry as a whole.

Question $125,000 Expenses Cornwall Controversy

NEW YORK (AP) — The $2.7 million that the Consolidated Edison Co. paid to the village of Cornwall in Orange County has led to controversy all the way from New York City to Albany and at points between.

The money was paid during the last four years for legal engineering and water supply expenses incurred by the village because of Con Ed's plan to build a $184-million hydroelectric plant there.

Spokesmen for the village have supported the project before various government bodies. A number of conservation groups have opposed the plan largely on the grounds it would mar the beauty of the Hudson River Valley and would be a threat to fish life.

The Con Ed payments to the village brought these developments Thursday and Thursday night.

A spokesman for State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said in Albany that Levitt's office was studying the financial arrangement between Cornwall and Con Ed. The spokesman said the department's only comment was that it was looking into the possibility that laws within its scope had been violated.

In New York, a Con Ed spokesman denied published reports that the company paid $125,000 in legal and travel fees after village officials had testified in favor of the project at Storm King Mountain. The spokesman said the $125,000 was reimbursed over several years, and Con Ed had a contractual agreement for such reimbursement—regardless of how the village officials testified.

"There was nothing quid pro quo something for something about this," he said.

Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, Democrat of Pleasantville, Westchester County, questioned the propriety of the $2.7 million payments. He based part of his objection on the fact that the village was paid for the legal expenses it incurred to prepare a brief supporting the Con Ed project which was filed with the Federal Power Commission. A statement by Ottinger said in part: "Coming on top of the recent scandals, these abuses of Con Ed expose a serious defect in the regulatory system—a system that calls for investigation and legislative remedy."

Mayor Michael J. Donahue of Cornwall said: "We would have put in a brief anyway, whether Con Edison reimbursed us or not. This is not in its entirety a Con Edison brief. It's a village brief."

Rod Vandivert, director of the Scenic Hudson Preservation Conference, which is fighting the power project, said in a statement that the payments to the village illustrate "how a giant utility, with money to burn, secures support."

The payments to Cornwall were made as part of a 1963 agreement between Con Ed and officials of the community, which is about 50 miles north of New York City on the Hudson River. The figures have been part of the public record, on file with the Federal Power Commission in Washington.

A well known local attorney, Sherwood E. Davis, of 238 Wrentham Street, Town of Ulster, said today that he will seek the nomination for Justice of the Peace at the Town of Ulster's Republican Caucus on Sept. 9.

Davis, who has been practicing law in the area for the past 17 years and is a past president of the Ulster County Bar Association, in making his announcement today said, "I sincerely feel that a lawyer, particularly one who is familiar with the problems of his area, could do much to broaden the dimensions of the office of Justice of the Peace, and in a small way, could contribute to the strengthening of the entire Justice Court system."

Serves Committee

Besides his local practice, Davis is currently serving as the assistant counsel to the State's Joint Legislative Committee on Penal Institutions which has recently been conducting a state-wide survey of the entire penal system, and for several years Davis was a member of the Penal Committee of the New York State Bar Association. The local attorney also conducted an adult education course at Kingston High School on the subject of Law for the Layman.

Attorney Davis is a graduate of Wesleyan University in Connecticut and, prior to World War II, he attended Cornell University Law School. At the outbreak of the war Davis enlisted in the Army as a private, and in 1946 he was discharged as a captain. Davis served for four years in the European Theater of Operations, having taken part in the Allied landings in Normandy. After the war, Davis completed his legal education at the New York University Law School, and was admitted to the Ulster County Bar in 1950.

Civic Concerns

Attorney Davis has also been most interested in various civic matters in the Town of Ulster, having been on the town's original planning board, as well as serving as the attorney for the former town school district, and he is now the chairman for the Community Chest campaign. Davis is also a past commander of Kingston Post 150, American Legion, acted as judge advocate for the Ulster County American Legion, and was the first Civil Defense director for the Kingston area.

The local attorney is a former Republican Committeeman in the Town of Ulster, and for two years he served as president of the Town of Ulster Republican Club.

Davis is married to the former Mary Matthews of Kingston, and they have three children, Mary Jane, John and Stephen.

maneuvering of the Board of Supervisors has cost the county many more dollars than was necessary for the construction of Ulster County Community College buildings in Stone Ridge, and that the buildings themselves are characterized by "costly mistakes" that has "State University officials... very concerned about the structural stability" of one of the buildings.

Reisner charged the new UCCC "all-purpose building" cost "29.23 per square foot" to build, whereas the state average for community college classroom buildings stands at "18.44 per square foot," a difference of $10.79.

The Democratic candidate also said that the college library cost $31.74 per square foot with the state average being $24.03.

Examines Buildings

Reisner stated that the new science building "is not a true science building. There are very few science facilities in it, as it will be used for the present largely as a classroom building, for music and other subjects."

"These buildings of the (college) are simple, wall bearing jobs with bar joist construction, and floor slab on grade," he said, explaining, "They should not be costing more than the State average. The question is, why have they been so expensive? The money is not in the buildings."

Reisner pointed out that "the brick situation is still far from a satisfactory solution. The most recent problem has been the difficulty experienced in trying to clean the brick of excess mortar, etc., as is customary after construction.

"District engineer of the U. S. Government Housing and Urban Development Administration recently visited the site and inspected, among other things, the brick," Reisner stated, adding, "He found the appearance unsatisfactory because of the serious discoloration of the brick. Efforts to clean the brick at the entrance of the All-Purpose Building resulted in a worse, rather than a better appearance."

"In asking for suggestions for cleaning it he (the engineer) stated, 'Future use in any of our projects will be prohibited until such a solution is found.'"

Reisner charged that State University officials "are very concerned about the structural stability of the cornice of this building. They expect further trouble due to excessive weight of said cornice."

'Unsightly Mess'

Reisner said that there has been a "haphazard, helter-skelter pattern of the installation of ducts and exhausts ventilators on the science building roof. There has been no attempt to organize or to hide them and the unsightly mess resembles a mushroom plantation."

Pointing the guilty finger at the County Board of Supervisors "who consider public money to be a playground for those in power and a tool for the buildup of personal prestige," the New Paltz candidate concluded that "for the lifetime of these buildings there will be unnecessary expenses because of poor construction and planning."

'Thanks for Packages' Wounded GI Stops at Freeman

Home from the war, a wounded veteran of almost a year in Vietnam and one of many recipients of gifts to Ulster County servicemen, stopped in at the Kingston Freeman Tuesday to say "thanks."

SP 4 John Recor, son of William Recor and brother of Mrs. Alene Dumont, both of 48 Broadway, said he knew personally 13 men in South Saigon who received packages containing such items as much needed writing paper — "It's hard to come by over there, two tablets a month for a whole squad," shaving supplies and of special significance, recording tape.

Some of the tape made a round trip. Recor brought back with him a roll on which is recorded a sound track from a movie, "Sound of Vietnam," which was made while he was there. He also has tapes of Bob Hope, Roy Acuff and Stonewall Jackson which he made while being entertained at a USO show.

Recor also brought back bandages—on his right arm. He received fragmentation wounds to his wrist and hand when one of buddies stepped on a booby trap. His friend lost a foot and four fingers.

Recor, whose official home is in upstate Liverpool where his mother resides, spent three years on assignment in Germany before being transferred to Vietnam. Home now on 55 days leave, he will report to Colorado for reassignment in October.

"The best welcome-home present I got," he beamed, "was when I landed at Travis Air Force Base and the airline hostess gave me a big kiss. I was so happy to be home. I bent down and gave the American soil a big kiss!"

The second unit will be similar in design to the present unit and will be set back from the present building, facing Pine Street. There remains room for two more units on the three acre site.

Present parking areas will be enlarged to provide ample parking for cars.

The new building, like the first unit, will feature modern central heating, air conditioning and special features for patient comfort.

Councilmen Form New State Unit

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — City councilmen from seven cities organized the State Association of City Councils Thursday and elected as co-chairmen Robert E. Leverton of Syracuse and Stanley Makowski of Buffalo.
